

'Please Have Courage,' Wounded GI to Mom

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

"Mom, please have courage. It's hard for me and you can make it easier if you are strong!"

Those are the words of Pfc Michael P. Santorski, 20, in a letter written to his mother four days after he was wounded and lost both legs below the knees in Vietnam as the result of hostile action.

Santorski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Santorski, 95 Miller's Lane, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Santorski had been officially notified by the office of the Secretary of the Army in a telegram that their son, Michael had been wounded in Vietnam on Sept. 6.

The telegram that brought the sad and heart-breaking message about young Santorski noted, "He sustained metal fragment wounds to his right ankle, left thigh and both legs resulting in surgical amputation of both legs below the knees."

Kenneth G. Wickham, major general USA, the adjutant general who sent the message, informed the serviceman's parents that their son was on air assault mission when hit by fragments from a boobytrap. The wounded soldier was treated at the 67th Evacuation Hospital, and is being held for further treatment.

"In the judgement of the attending physician, 'Wickham said,' he is not considered seriously ill. You may rest assured that the best medical facilities and doctors have been made available and every measure is being taken to aid him."

Pfc Santorski in his letter dated Sept. 10, wrote:

"Dear Mom, by now you know I was wounded. I know you're crying and I have to make it worse on you. You see I'm going to be all right except they had to cut both of my lower legs off.

"In a few days I'll be going to Tokyo, Japan, where they are going to work on my legs. Then I'll be shipped to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington where I'll get a set of plastic legs. Once I get used to them I'll be able to walk, drive and carry on a normal life."

"I've received my Purple Heart and a citation and believe me, Mom, I'm proud."

"God had this planned for me. I accept it for I have my whole life ahead of me and I'm determined not to let this get me down. I'll write in a few days to keep you posted. Letters from you would take too long to receive.

"Be brave, as I am, Mike."

Mrs. Santorski appeared in shock yesterday as she wiped tears from her cheek during a brief interview with a reporter at her home. She indicated that she would definitely go along with her son's pleading to "please have courage."

She glanced at the letter she received from her son from Vietnam earlier this month, the letter in which he expressed determination "not to let this get me down."

Before the reporter arrived at the brick house of the Santorski family, Mrs. Santorski had cared for her 17-month-old son, Thomas. "I have just put the baby to bed," she said. The Santorski's have three other children, Barbara, Robert and Stephen.

Santorski was educated at St. Patrick's Catholic High School in the Greene County community of Catskill. He was a good student and was a cheer leader for the school at athletic events. He also was a member of Our Lady's Sodality.

He resided with his parents here until he was drafted on March 9. He left the United States for Vietnam on August 6 and was wounded as the result of hostile action a month to the day he departed from this country.

THE ROUGH SEA—A lone man watches the rough sea pound against the docks on Mustang Island near Corpus Christi, Tex. as the Gulf of Mexico waters begin to show the effects of Hurricane Beulah. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Thousands Flee Powerful Beulah

By PAUL RECER

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Hurricane Beulah slashing at Texas and Mexico with winds higher than 100 miles per hour sent its eye within 16 miles of Brownsville today, indicating a slight turn toward the Texas Coast.

This placed the eye, the Weather Bureau said, at Boca Chica, a land extension of several miles east and slightly north of Brownsville.

Heads for Houston

Three more persons died as a spinoff from the storm when a tornado struck Palacios, about halfway between Houston and Corpus Christi on Matagorda Bay. The sheriff's department, making the death report, said four of five buildings were destroyed and the tornado forced evacuation of a hospital.

Winds at daylight were 150 m.p.h. in the hurricane, meaning its strength had fallen from earlier estimates of up to 160 m.p.h. but it remained one of the most muscular storms ever recorded.

With the three killed at Palacios, the toll of Beulah reached 27 since it formed 12 days ago in the Atlantic Ocean.

Tornadoes are a frequent companion of hurricanes and the Weather Bureau said they could be expected as far as 80 miles from the center.

More than 30,000 Texans fled inland or took refuge in hometown shelters. Their flight was orderly and appeared to be mostly cheerful, even taken as fun at first by some. But in neighboring Matamoros, Mexico, officials reported fear and confusion as residents scrambled for shelter.

Course Uncertain

The presence of her eye over a little bit of land made her course still uncertain.

At one point, the Weather Bureau predicted the eye would strike Corpus Christi, 160 miles up the coast from Brownsville and preparations for the blow already neared completion. "She's about the biggest, nastiest storm I've ever seen," said the veteran pilot of a Navy hurricane hunter plane after flying through the eye.

The Weather Bureau issued a tornado warning for the area from Corpus Christi to Baffin Bay, about 30 miles south of Corpus Christi. One tornado was sighted 30 miles south of Corpus Christi.

For comparison, famous hurricane Carla, which struck the Texas coast Sept. 11, 1961, had winds estimated at 175 m.p.h.—only slightly higher than Beulah. Although a half million persons fled inland, 40 persons died and damage was estimated at $500 million.

Town Wiped Out

Ham radio operators reported the tiny town of Valle Hermoso, Mexico, 15 miles south of Brownsville, was almost wiped out as the hurricane winds swept through. Many residents had been evacuated before the storm hit.

No deaths or injuries were reported immediately. Earlier Beulah had been blamed for 24 deaths—23 in the eastern Caribbean and Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula and one when a 15-year-old girl was swept from her surfboard by rolling waves at Freeport, Tex., south of Houston.

The Weather Bureau said Hurricane Beulah's center would pass just east of the mouth of the Rio Grande and thence northward, just offshore of Padre Island, a pencil-thin strip that runs along the coast from Brownsville to Corpus Christi.

Forecasters said the eye would remain over the churning Gulf of Mexico until it crashed inland in the Corpus Christi area late today.

With the focus of the storm still over water, there was little likelihood that its force would diminish during a charge up the coast. Hurricanes draw their strength from warm sea waters.

Palms Uprooted

Beulah uprooted giant palms, battered buildings and flailed Rio Grande Valley citrus groves as she surged to the coast.

The storm's blast knocked out all power in Brownsville. The city's lights blinked out in segments across the city as the storm's fury grew.

Rain fell in heavy bursts. Uprooted trees and ripped branches littered Brownsville streets. Some streets were impassable. Hospitals were on emergency power. One residence caught fire, cause unknown.

The Weather Bureau said tides up to 15 feet and torrential rains threatened dangerous flooding from Brownsville to Palacios, 50 miles northeast of Corpus Christi on Matagorda Bay.

In the 159-mile stretch from Brownsville to Corpus Christi there is little immediately along the coast except pastures of the huge King Ranch, lushly grassed coastal prairie so flat there is no barrier for winds or tides.

Some 15 to 30 miles inland along this unobstructed coastline lie a number of small towns, among them Raymondville, San Manuel, Rachel, Enclave, Falfurrias, Kingsville, Driscoll and Robstown.

Corpus Christi is a city of more than 200,000.

Rosendale District Assured Fire Coverage

By LYNN MULVANEY

Rosendale's west fire district, threatened with being unprotected after midnight last night, is now covered under a hard-fought interim agreement between the village and the town.

The village, whose long-simmering annoyance with the town over firemen's back compensation claims, now in litigation, agreed last night to protect the east-west fire districts until a public hearing can be held Oct. 21.

The interim agreement, to be on a pro-rated basis for about 30 days, was not easily reached. Much heat was generated in verbal exchanges at a joint meeting, hastily called at the eleventh hour last night.

Both sides agreed to their moral obligation to insure residents fire protection and they had been dead for some time before their bodies were discovered.

Investigator Cobey said preliminary examination of the bodies indicated the couple died of fractured skulls and lacerations of the brain.

An autopsy was ordered. Authorities said a note was found in the Chadwell apartment, but because of provisions in order to give protection.

Until a new contract can be entered into after the Oct. 21 public hearing, Active Hose Company No. 1 will answer calls the village and town agreed.

Town Attorney William Curran stated that under a state law effective March 1, 1964, fire companies are protected when in another district.

"There should be no apprehension," he said.

Mayor Joseph Reid had said that the village attorney, Norman Kellar, advised that the village not enter into a contract before the town paid compensation "monies owed."

Supervisor Gerard DeFelici stated he felt the litigation should be left to the courts and some form of agreement for fire protection be made immediately.

Both the village and Active Hose Company No. 1 have sued the town.

At expiration of the former contract between the town and village Supervisor DeFelici solicited protection for the east and west districts from the Bloomington and High Falls fire companies, both of whom complied. High Falls protection of the west district concluded at midnight last night.

Mayor Reid, who called last night's meeting, contended he never "intimated Active Hose Company No. 1 would not cover the east-west districts."

He said he was not advised that De Felici was going to Bloomington and High Falls for protection.

De Felici countered saying he thought the problem was getting out of proportion and that in the interim both the town and village should show good faith in seeing that the district was covered.

It was pointed out that very few persons reside in the east and west districts, for instance the west district has an assessed valuation of $20,000, collecting $300 in taxes while the east district collects $500.

Double-Fatal Shooting

Dutchess Authorities Probe Deaths of 2

State and county authorities today continued investigation of a double-fatal shooting which took the lives of a well-known Stanfordsville, Dutchess County couple, who were found dead in their apartment adjoining the general store they operated.

The bodies of Aubrey Chadwell, 57, and his wife, Marie, 49, were discovered by state troopers after they investigated reports from neighbors that Chadwell's store, which usually opened early each morning, had not opened for business after 8:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Dover Plains State Police went to the scene after notifying Troop K Commander Major John Monahan at Hawthorne of the deaths by rifle shot. Capt. C. Richard Samson and Zone Commander Samuel Crodelle joined Bureau of Criminal Investigation Officers and a uniformed detail in the investigation.

Assistant District Attorney G. Gordon Liddy was assigned to the case by Dutchess County District Attorney John R. Heilman Jr., and Assistant County Medical Examiner Dr. Michael Baden of Millerton went to the scene.

BCI Investigator Richard

Cobey of Dover Plains said Chadwell and his wife each had been shot once in the head with a .22 calibre rifle. It is believed they had been dead for some time before their bodies were discovered.

Investigator Cobey said preliminary examination of the bodies indicated the couple died of fractured skulls and lacerations of the brain.

An autopsy was ordered. Authorities said a note was found in the Chadwell apartment, but because of provisions of the law, the content of the note were not revealed.

According to Investigator Cobey, the body of Mrs. Chadwell was discovered in a pool of blood in the bathroom of the apartment. Chadwell's body with a single shot in the head was found in the kitchen. The lethal weapon was near his body, authorities said.

Cobey reported Dr. Baden and investigators withheld a formal verdict pending an inquest to be held soon before County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding Jr. of Wappingers Falls. Records listed "double-death" temporarily.

It was theorized that because of the position of the rifle, Mrs. Chadwell might have been the first to die. Possibility of a double-murder was eliminated, authorities said, and investigation progressed on the theory that the incident was a case of homicide-suicide, although no official ruling has been given by investigators.

The Chadwells had no children, it was reported, and neighbors and patrons of their general grocery store located on Main Street in the hamlet of Stanfordsville, northeast of Poughkeepsie, spoke highly of the couple and said they knew of no family trouble between the two.

Chadwell and his wife had operated the grocery store for about 15 years, and they resided in the apartment connected with the rear of their business establishment.

Authorities said the couple also operated a package liquor store near their other place of business.

Chickens, cars and cement rank as chief offenders in the causes of air pollution in Ulster County.

That the putrid smell of poultry manure is anything but paltry seems unnecessary to document. But just how much of it is there in Ulster County? Simply, the chicken population is 1 1/4 million. The chicken excrement per day from four chickens is equal to that of one human being.

In other words the equivalent of 100,000 person's excrement is dropped on Ulster County every day. Interesting too is that one-half million birds reside on but 13 farms making certain areas of pollution most concentrated.

Another Health Department statistic tells us that 50,000 chickens produce between 1,500 and 2,000 gallons of liquid manure a day.

One of the chicken farms, located in Esopus near the residential community of Ulster Park, has been subject for an irate taxpayer's group known as Spring Valley Civic Association.

Part of the problem is that the present farm operation became highly mechanized after the creation of the housing development. The state, through its Extension Service and Cornell University has been able to help farmers improve poultry operations in every way but the odor.

Court actions have resulted but nothing has been solved to date. Legislation to cope with the problem was introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson but failed to secure passage. An amended version will be introduced again.

Problem of B.O.

The growing battle between the owner of the ranch house and the owner of the chicken "ranch" will be highlighted next month at a convention of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council at Harrisburg, Pa. Five authorities will fill 90 minutes with talks on "Poultry Farms with B.O. Problems," reporting on how farmers are facing up to threats of new town zoning laws, nuisance regulations and complaints about manure odors.

Ulster County Extension agent Robert Guzewich claims it is all a problem of zoning regulations. Farm and non-farm people have a conflict of interests.

The towns of Esopus and Rochester are not full zoned such as New Paltz, thus a farmer has a right to operate a farm as he pleases.

Meanwhile some farmers have improved conditions to a degree by employing a process in which manure is mixed with water and spread on fields. Tranquility Farm is doing this now.

Fuming at Fumes

Unlike poultry pollution, which effects mainly rural area residents, automotive air contamination is something just about everyone experiences some time or other. Who hasn't fumed when a cloud of exhaust blows in their face? Old buses, large trucks and some cars are the worst offenders.

Perhaps the biggest problem comes from traffic tie-ups and slow-downs. If traffic could be kept moving in a steady flow the most significant single source of pollution would be reduced.

Legislation to improve the situation is forthcoming.

Any 1968 model car sold after June 30, 1968 will be required to have apparatus controlling emission of carbon monoxide.

Air pollution control regulations covering tractor trailers and other vehicles of more than 6,000 pounds gross weight are being studied by the State Air Pollution Control Board as of last month, according to Dr. Hollis Ingraham, state health commissioner.

Regulations

The regulations, when put into effect, will supplement recently announced provisions for automobiles and other vehicles weighing less than 6,000 pounds.

Two new regulations for large vehicles are also under review. One expected to take place soon, is designed to reduce the amount of smoke discharged by some trucks. The second, to be adopted later, would limit the idling period of such vehicles.

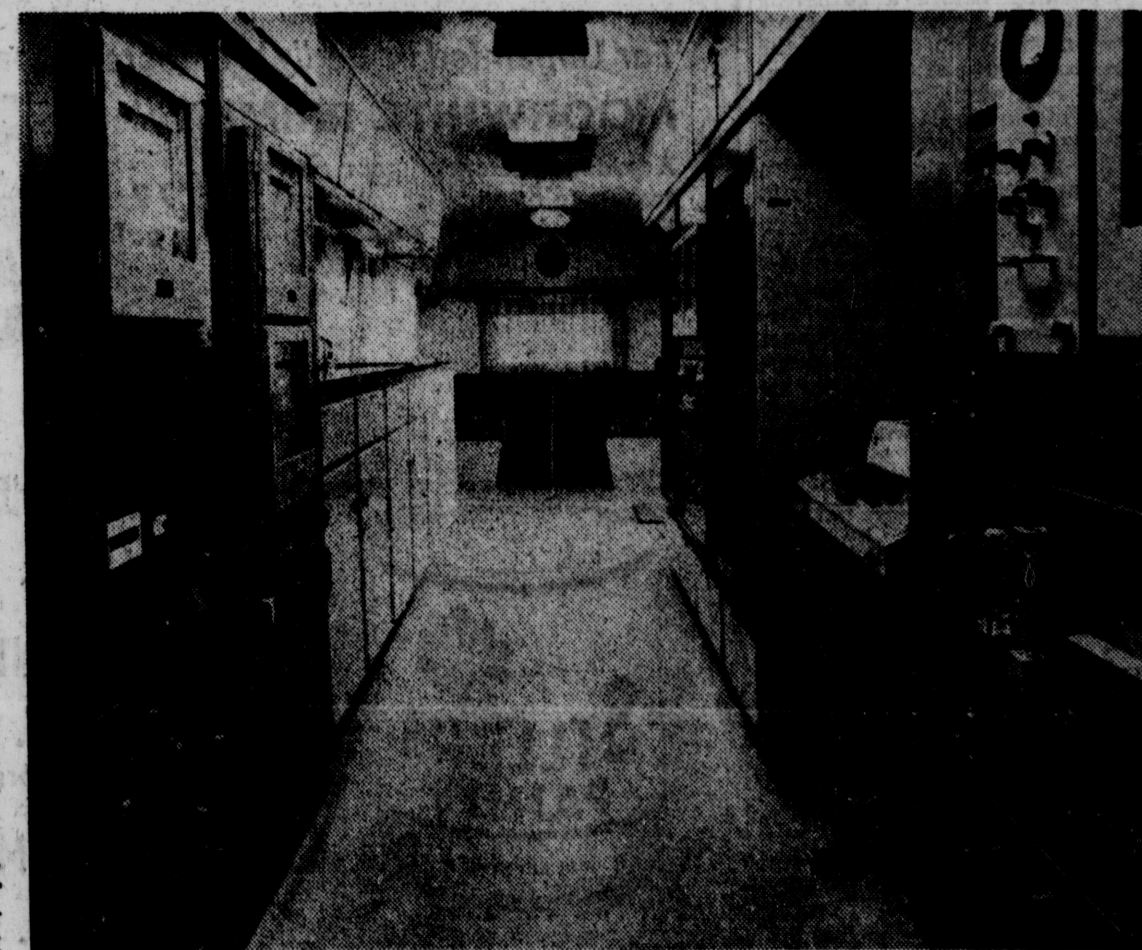

In addition the Health Department's Division of Air Resources is working on regulations to control air contamination from the evaporation of gasoline from fuel storage tanks and automobile gas tanks and carburetors.

One suggestion for control of these hydrocarbon fumes is to reuse them instead of allowing

and other vehicles of more than 6,000 pounds gross weight are being studied by the State Air Pollution Control Board as of last month, according to Dr. Hollis Ingraham, state health commissioner.

The regulations, when put into effect, will supplement recently announced provisions for automobiles and other vehicles weighing less than 6,000 pounds. Two new regulations for large vehicles are also under review. One expected to take place soon, is designed to reduce the amount of smoke discharged by some trucks. The second, to be adopted later, would limit the idling period of such vehicles.

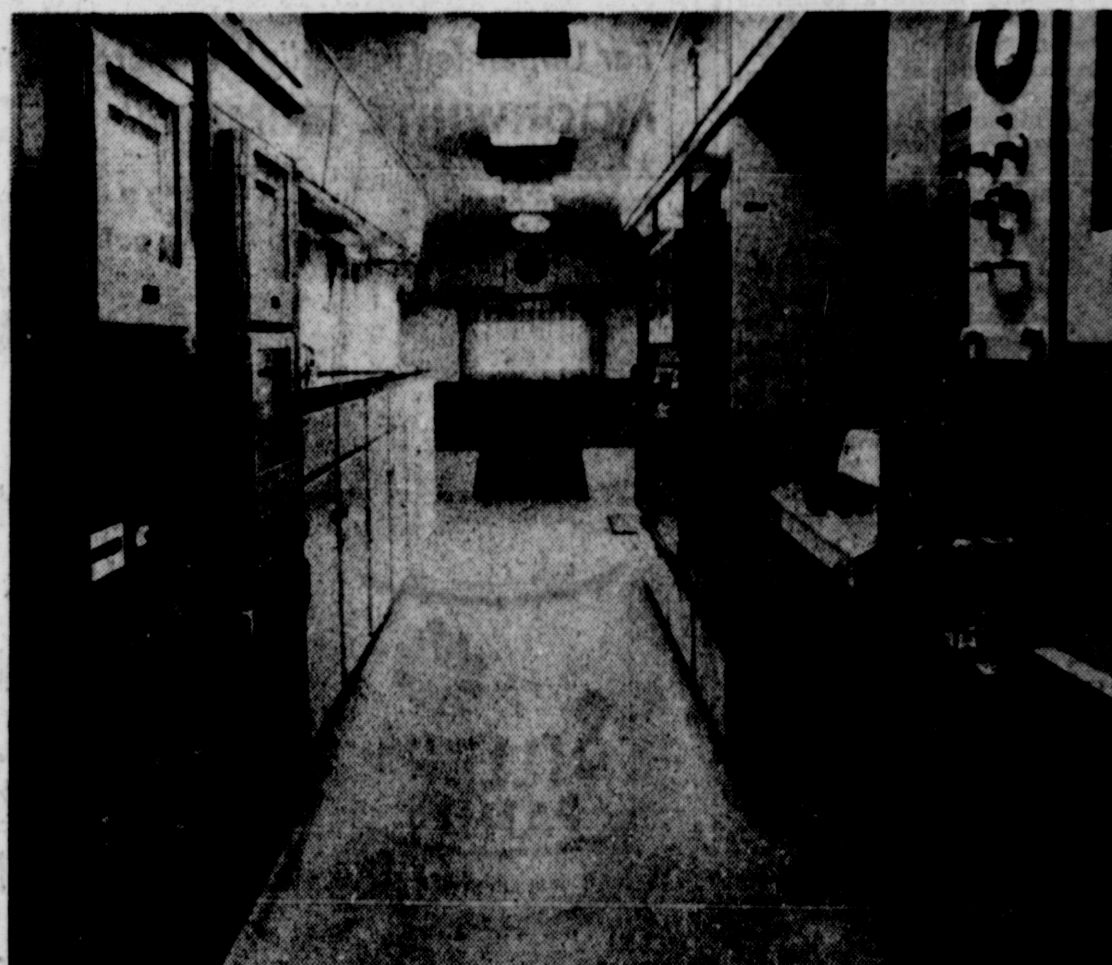

In addition the Health Department's Division of Air Resources is working on regulations to control air contamination from fuel storage tanks and automobile gas tanks and carburetors.

One suggestion for control of these hydrocarbon fumes is to reuse them instead of allowing SMOGBILE—A $70,000 smogmobile, like the one pictured, will be located in the Ulster County area in the near future. A site on which to place the air monitoring laboratory is now being selected. The State of New York, as part of its continuing air pollution control program, is buying six mobile units for use throughout the state. The fully instrumented vans will be used to identify and define seriousness of air pollution problems so that steps can be taken to correct them.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 20, the 263rd day of 1967. There are 102 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history. On this date in 1946, President Harry Truman asked Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace for his resignation following a speech Wallace made criticizing U.S. policy toward Russia.

On this date. In 1797, the American Frigate Old Ironsides was launched at the Boston Navy Yard.

In 1850, Congress voted to ban the slave trade in the District of Columbia.

In 1873, the panic of 1873 reached a climax when the New York Stock Exchange closed its doors.

In 1881, Vice President Chester A. Arthur took the oath of office as 21st President following the death of President James Garfield.

In 1938, a hurricane swept over Long Island, New Jersey and New England, taking an estimated 682 lives.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy addressed the U.N. General Assembly and proposed a joint American-Russian expedition to the moon.

Ten years ago — Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas obeyed a federal court order and withdrew National Guard troops who had been barring Negro students from entering Central High School in Little Rock.

Five years ago—James Meredith was kept from enrolling at the University of Mississippi by Gov. Ross Barnett.

One year ago — The U.N. General Assembly opened its 21st session with a call for constructive negotiations which would lead to an honorable peace in Vietnam.

Scouts Plan Fall Member Recruitment

Scouting Rounds A Guy Out is the theme for the 1967 annual fall roundup, the membership campaign of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, as boys from 8 through 17 are recruited by Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer posts in this area.

"Scouting is fun and adventure for boys," Donald Donohue, Council Scout Commissioner, explained, "but the extra values of Scouting of special interest to parents include character development, citizenship training, and physical and mental fitness."

The Rip Van Winkle Council has scheduled meetings with Scout unit leaders in each of the council's three districts to explain this year's roundup. The roundup program includes district camporees or field day activities. Units which meet their roundup goals will receive a colorful Roundup recognition banner.

Boys who want to become Scouts may also get information about the nearest Scout unit by contacting the Scout service center, 260 Fair Street, Kingston, 12401, Donohue said.

Boys who are 8, 9, and 10 may become Cub Scouts, while boys who are 11 or older are eligible to be Boy Scouts, and high school boys may become Explorers.

The fall roundup will be held between Sept. 11 and Dec. 15, and it is expected that over 400 new Scouts will be enrolled during the membership campaign.

Resnick Scores GOP for Stand On Rural Issue

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick has charged Republican Congressmen with hypocrisy and irresponsibility citing examples of their votes on recent proposed legislation concerning rural America on the floor of Congress.

Speaking before a gathering of the Saratoga - Stillwater Democratic Club, Sunday the Congressman pointed out that "only last week, the vast majority of House Republicans, including the leadership, voted to strike the enacting clause from the Appalachia Bill, intending to kill it by making it inoperative."

"Despite the fact that 13 New York Counties were eligible, including Schenectady County for the first time, the New York Republican Congressional delegation not only voted overwhelmingly against it, but supported every crippling amendment. Finally, when they couldn't succeed in killing the Bill, they did manage to cut $50 million from the money that we need so desperately to combat not only rural poverty but the gross inequities in the standard of living between country and city."

By Any Other Name VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—One thing to be decided in today's primary election is whether this southwest Washington Columbia River city should change its name.

Backers of the proposition said a change would avoid confusion with Vancouver, B.C., just across the Canadian border on the other side of the state.

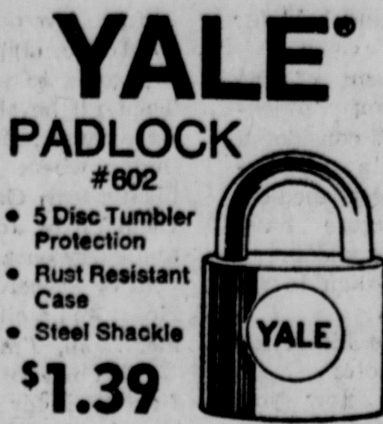

If the change is approved, the City Council then will have to decide on what the new name will be.

Many suggestions already are in, including one to call the city Hog, Wash.

Historic Houses Offer Challenge And Rewards to Devoted Owners

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Being a custodian of history is an exacting chore requiring dedication, good taste and a pride in heritage.

In the heart of the uptown business district of Kingston, little islands of the original Dutch colonial settlement of Wiltwyck remain to delight visitor and native alike through the efforts of these residents gifted with foresight and hindsight.

Once again the monthly walking tour will step off from the Governor Clinton Hotel at 2 p. m. Thursday. Old Dutch Church, the Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, house and the Senate House and Museum will be available for inspection. Even more interesting than the public buildings on the tour conducted by Junior League of Kingston guides will be the residences built in the early days of Kingston, restored after the burning of the settlement by the British during the Revolutionary War and restored once again after the tolls of changing times and ways had taken their measure.

Here in these remaining private homes, the charm of a bygone time is retained aside with the necessary modern conveniences of the present day.

Unlike the massive restorations such as colonial Williamsburg created, almost solely as a tourist attraction, Ulster County is unique in its preservation of old houses which remain in everyday use. Hurley, New Paltz, Stone Ridge and Accord proudly display these gems at annual stone house days attended by scores of visitors from near and afar.

And even more outstanding are the fine community of old residences which remain in the first capital of New York State. Undergoing the rigors of a wildly changing world into the atomic age, these "survivors in stone" constitute a very large part of Kingston's past and present.

One of these lovely old houses at the corner of John and Crown Street in the heart of what was the Old Stockade area is a preservation of tranquility and beauty from a different age. Fraught with a ghostly legend and bearing the scars of the British torch, the sturdy stone house lives on amid the sounds of commerce.

Just 15 years ago its rooms were filled with business offices. Its surrounding land covered with blacktop. Today through the foresight and good taste of the present owner, the house is an oasis replete with gardens of infinite delight. Early heritage is in even balance with everyday living.

It takes much more than a magic wand to produce the miracle, however. It takes an architect schooled in the authenticity of necessary changes, infinite patience and good taste by the barrel. A feel for history is a must. Surely Danish modern would never be at home with wide plank floors. Such achievements as modern plumbing and up-to-date kitchens can be mastered without detracting a bit from Dutch tiled fireplaces and deep silled windows.

But why go to this trouble? Why not start from scratch with a house just the way you want it?

Dedication
The "why" rests with a group of dedicated people who make every effort to preserve Kingston's heritage without denying its progress. The walking tours were started with just this in mind. Let people know just what is here to be enjoyed. Other areas have enjoyed a lucrative tourist business from "restorations." Here we have a bevy of buildings, still in active use as comfortable dwellings, which embody all that is identified with Ulster County, the State of New York and the beginnings of the United States.

Take for example the legend of the house mentioned above. In the days after the Revolution, the residence was occupied by a family from Albany. Rumor had it that a young lady visitor to the house had been murdered and the young man who was judged to be her suitor was seen through the window "caressing a skeleton."

The Peeping Toms spread the story through the community and public opinion soon forced the family from their Kingston home. In later years, the young lady in question appeared in the village, inquiring as to their whereabouts. Further investigation revealed that the damsel had been called to The Netherlands to claim an inheritance and that the accused youth was a pioneer in the study of anatomy, merely pursuing his medical studies with a real bit of bone structure.

Shades of Old Salem and William Faulkner's Old South.

Achievements
During the past several years a number of achievements have been marked by the people vitally concerned with Kingston's past and future. A number of houses have been declared part of the National Historic Trust with special designations which serve as protection against their future destruction or disfigurement. Many organizations have dovetailed their operations seeking to preserve and promote the heritage which is ours. Certainly the walking tours have done much to acquaint the public with what is here.

But where do we go from here? Founders of local organizations for the preservation movement look bright-eyed to a future of continued concern for Kingston based on the past. It is the hope of many that some sort of fete can be worked out for Kingston in the manner of Old Stone House Days in other Ulster County communities.

October Days
One such fond hope rests with October Days. As Bavaria marks the golden autumn with Oktober Fests, so might Kingston. October is the month of the burning of the original community by the vengeful British, October is the month of John Vanderlyn's birthday, October is the month of the flaming fall foliage in the valley and October is the month of the apple, key to much of the economy in the county. This, too, may come to pass with the dedicated people at the helm.

In the meantime, it is Indian Summer September and the walking tour is available to the public. The stockade area with its legend-spiced tales stands waiting to be explored. The final tour of the current season will be held the third Thursday in October.

Tours are conducted from May to October with special tours arranged by contacting Mrs. Allan L. Hanstein at 43 Crown Street.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With Little Worry

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass when you eat, laugh or talk? Then sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds dentures firmer and more comfortably. Makes eating easier. It's alkaline—doesn't sour. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feel. Helps check plate odor. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Shelling Holds Up Traffic

Planes Slam Big Gun Area

SAIGON (AP) — High-altitude B52 bombers and low-sweeping jets piled more than a half-million pounds of explosives today on Communist artillery and mortars that wounded more than 100 Marines in 24 hours of heavy shelling near the Demilitarized Zone.

Military headquarters reported one Marine was killed in the firing from the big gun emplacements on sandbagged fortresses near the zone dividing the Vietnam.

The focus of the Communist attacks were the deeply entrenched Marine bastions of Con Thien and Gio Linh just below the DMZ.

Associated Press correspondent Edwin Q. White reported from Marine headquarters that shelling was so intense that road traffic to the two posts was suspended and all supplies were forced to move up on medical evacuation helicopters.

The Communist gunners used everything from light mortars inside the DMZ to long-range Soviet-built artillery placed 10 miles and more to the north. More than 300 shells have hit the two U.S. posts in the past 24 hours and every few hours there were reports of more shelling.

The giant, eight-engine B52s from Guam and Thailand swept over the battlefield three times today with each raid dropping a minimum of 150,000 pounds of explosives.

Marine jets flew 27 missions against the Red gun positions

Tuesday and were back at it Wednesday to support their comrades taking the pounding on the ground.

"It is very difficult to find those gun positions," Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the Air Force in Vietnam, said. He noted they are deeply dug-in, well camouflaged and scattered in jungle territory.

Although Air Force planes flew 42 missions, mostly in the area above Hanoi, weather elsewhere was so bad that three carriers in the Tonkin Gulf could not send up a combat flight—the first time this has happened since carriers entered the Vietnamese fray.

The MIGs pounced on the American fighter-bombers as they returned from a raid on North Vietnamese military barracks 17 miles north of Hanoi. So crammed was the sky with planes, that the pilots were apparently unable to use their air-to-air missiles.

The State Department said Tuesday in Washington that experienced North Korean pilots may be at the controls of the Communist jets.

And even more outstanding are the fine community of old residences which remain in the first capital of New York State. Undergoing the rigors of a wildly changing world into the atomic age, these "survivors in stone" constitute a very large part of Kingston's past and present.

Treat to Discuss Blood Bank Topic

Richard L. Treat, general manager of the Kingston Freeman, will lead a discussion on the organization of blood banks at a meeting Thursday of the Ulster County Health Services Commission.

The discussion will take place at 7:30 p. m. in the Kingston City Laboratory seminar rooms.

Also on the agenda, according to Chairman Richard Glazer, is the reviewing of the results of the Aug. 16 medical computer seminar held by the Ulster County Community College. The event was conducted in response to requests of various health groups and individuals who wish to explore the feasibility of initiating medical computer services for the community.

A report will also be given on the possibility of shared health facilities for health service agencies in the area.

Planes Slam Big Gun Area

SAIGON (AP) — High-altitude B52 bombers and low-sweeping jets piled more than a half-million pounds of explosives today on Communist artillery and mortars that wounded more than 100 Marines in 24 hours of heavy shelling near the Demilitarized Zone.

Military headquarters reported one Marine was killed in the firing from the big gun emplacements on sandbagged fortresses near the zone dividing the Vietnam.

The focus of the Communist attacks were the deeply entrenched Marine bastions of Con Thien and Gio Linh just below the DMZ.

Associated Press correspondent Edwin Q. White reported from Marine headquarters that shelling was so intense that road traffic to the two posts was suspended and all supplies were forced to move up on medical evacuation helicopters.

The Communist gunners used everything from light mortars inside the DMZ to long-range Soviet-built artillery placed 10 miles and more to the north. More than 300 shells have hit the two U.S. posts in the past 24 hours and every few hours there were reports of more shelling.

The giant, eight-engine B52s from Guam and Thailand swept over the battlefield three times today with each raid dropping a minimum of 150,000 pounds of explosives.

Marine jets flew 27 missions against the Red gun positions

Tuesday and were back at it Wednesday to support their comrades taking the pounding on the ground.

"It is very difficult to find those gun positions," Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the Air Force in Vietnam, said. He noted they are deeply dug-in, well camouflaged and scattered in jungle territory.

Although Air Force planes flew 42 missions, mostly in the area above Hanoi, weather elsewhere was so bad that three carriers in the Tonkin Gulf could not send up a combat flight—the first time this has happened since carriers entered the Vietnamese fray.

The MIGs pounced on the American fighter-bombers as they returned from a raid on North Vietnamese military barracks 17 miles north of Hanoi. So crammed was the sky with planes, that the pilots were apparently unable to use their air-to-air missiles.

The State Department said Tuesday in Washington that experienced North Korean pilots may be at the controls of the Communist jets.

Air Pollution

The air around us, which for years has been hardly noticed, has achieved new status. A drumfire of complaints about air pollution in this area has descended town, city and county officials for some time. What, if anything, has been done about it?

Air pollution in this community is the subject of a series of articles currently appearing in The Freeman, which we trust will be useful in shedding some light on the problem.

People are becoming pollution conscious and it is high time for public indignation to be directed at these less responsible ones who will not take proper steps to control their contamination of the air.

Mass pollution of the air is a real hazard and residents should be concerned. Industrial plants, incinerators, motor vehicles, home heating plants and poultry farms are among the sources which have a part in this invisible danger. The biggest contaminators are reported to be cement and aggregate mills and crushed stone plants and involved are large payrolls and jobs.

John W. Gardner, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, commenting on air pollution has declared, "Our choices are narrow. We can remain indoors and live like moles for an unspecified number of days each year. We can issue gas masks to a large segment of the population. We can live in domed cities. Or we can take action to stop fouling the air we breathe."

Fresh air is no longer an unlimited natural resource. The air we live in is being continually injected with pollutants which always are drifting around us. Now that the importance of purifying the air has become evident, something should be done about it.

We believe state and local governmental agencies have failed in the fight against pollution for failure to establish and enforce emission levels.

Man to Oppose Johnson

The Rockefeller-Scranton-Lodge triumvirate who made Gov. George Romney of Michigan the favorite moderate candidate to seek the Republican nomination is having second thoughts about their man. His ineptness in national politics has led them to look for another middle-of-the-road man to oppose President Johnson in 1968.

The triumvirate of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts began to look around for a new stalking horse after Romney's foot-in-the-mouth charge that he had been brainwashed by our own military and diplomatic chiefs in Saigon, when Lodge, one of his sponsors was the diplomatic chief.

It is not easy for these moderate kingmakers to find a new man to fit their qualifications. Rockefeller is probably their best bet, but even if he were eventually to give in "for the good of the party," it is too early for him to reverse his field after insisting loudly and continuously he is not a candidate.

So they have called on Lieut. Gen. James M. Gavin, retired, to talk things over. Gavin has one strike against him. He quit the Army in 1958 after speaking out strongly against President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose acquiescence will be important for the nomination and election of a Republican moderate. Gavin is due to make a major speech on Vietnam in San Francisco, which may clear the picture.

The man most likely to benefit from the Romney muddle is former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He has ties with the moderates in Congress, he is acceptable to Eisenhower and he is respected by the conservatives. Unless Reagan, even more conservative, comes up fast, it is beginning to look like a Johnson-Nixon struggle in 1968.

He Changed

He's a Republican.

He favors admission of Red China to the United Nations.

He thinks the Vietnam war issue should go to the UN Security Council.

He wants more money for the job training programs of the war on poverty.

And his advice for the Republican Party:

"If they're going to win, they've got to quit kicking labor in the pants, quit kicking the farmer in the pants, and they've got to come up with a sound Social Security program."

The speaker is Alf M. Landon, two-time governor of Kansas and 1936 Republican nominee for president who fell victim to the FDR landslide.

Landon, 80 last week, is no longer the conservative he once appeared. He changed with the times.

Maybe the GOP should give this some thought.

Duplicity on Peace Bid Charged to LBJ

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has plenty of problems, but he must have been surprised to read a big headline in a morning newspaper on Monday which said: "Duplicity on peace bid is charged to Johnson." Harry Ashmore, formerly an Arkansas Editor and now Executive Vice President of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, located in California, had written an article to that effect which was released to the press.

The story is that Mr. Ashmore and William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami, Fla., news, had gone to Hanoi last January to confer with Ho Chi Minh, head of the North Vietnamese Government, in an effort to transmit some kind of "Peace Feeler." The two men, on their return to Washington prepared a letter to the North Vietnamese chieftain after consulting with some State Department officials. It was authorized on February 5 and reached a Hanoi diplomat in Cambodia on February 15. Mr. Ashmore charges that President Johnson's letter was actually sent on February 2 and cancelled out the informal effort of the two editors.

But it turns out that the United States Government did not tell Messrs. Ashmore and Baggs that coincidentally there were some "Peace Feelers" being handled in Moscow with representatives of the North Vietnamese Government. These parleys were considered to be "official" and "direct," whereas the Ashmore-Baggs communication was regarded as an incidental effort to advance the cause of peace. The officials did not deem it desirable to tell the two would-be peacemakers all that was going on behind the scenes.

So the whole affair looks like a tempest in a teapot, since it turns out that the United States Government was not really saying through its Moscow contacts anything different from what was being conveyed through Mr. Ashmore.

The letter which President Johnson wrote to Ho Chi Minh was dated February 8, according to the State Department. An examination of the Johnson letter and the reply from Ho Chi Minh reveals the big stumbling block: whether the United States would stop bombing before there was any pledge that the enemy would take reciprocal action. In the February letter, for example, President Johnson said to the President of Communist North Vietnam:

"I am prepared to order a cessation of bombing against your country and the stopping of further augmentation of United States forces in South Vietnam as soon as I am assured that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and by sea has stopped, these acts of restraint on both sides would, I believe, make it possible for us to conduct serious and private discussions leading toward an early peace."

The reply by Ho Chi Minh—dated February 15 and broadcast on March 21—says:

"If the U. S. government really wants these talks, it must first of all stop unconditionally its bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. It is only after the unconditional cessation of the U. S. bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam that the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States could enter into talks and discuss questions concerning the two sides."

In Mr. Ashmore's letter to Ho Chi Minh, which he says was prepared with the assistance of State Department officials, there are the following paragraphs:

"They (the State Department) expressed particular interest in your suggestion to us that private talks could begin provided the U. S. stopped bombing your country, and ceased introducing additional U. S. troops into Vietnam. They expressed the opinion that some reciprocal restraint to indicate that neither side intended to use the occasion of the talks for military advantage would provide tangible evidence of the good faith of all parties in the prospects for a negotiated settlement...."

"Speaking now wholly for ourselves, we believe the essential condition for productive talks is an arrangement under which neither side stands to gain military advantage during the period of negotiation."

So instead of "duplicity," it seems to be a matter of "duplication." For the actual position of the American Government as contained in the Ashmore letter is the same as in Mr. Johnson's own communication to Ho Chi Minh. Indeed, the incident serves to prove that the United States has, directly and indirectly, made every effort to start peace negotiations with the North Vietnamese.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The United States of America, apart from patriotism, is a most interesting nation. The population unofficially starts at 199,000,000 people. Every day, 7,800 are born. These people are spread over 3,500,000 square miles of land. Only 30 per cent live in rural areas.

Normally, 51 males are born for every 49 females. By the time they are of marriageable age, the figures are reversed. About 100,000,000 of our people are under 30 years of age. One of every 40 babies dies in its first year. Your portion of the U. S. debt of $417 billion comes to $2,150.

Four of every 10 boys flunk the draft for physical or mental reasons. Our gross national product—every bit of merchandise and all services—brings in $676 billion each year. Of this, $203 billion returns to government (national, state and local) in taxes. Thus, of every dollar you earn, you really get 70 cents.

Median income for white families is $6,900; for Negroes, $3,800. In 1965, America sold 205,000 automobiles abroad; it imported 559,000. America's bill for time payments stands at $87,000,000. Our loss of gold to foreign nations costs $1,300,000,000 a year.

About 80 per cent of our population lives in six states: California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas and Ohio. One per cent live in three states: Alaska, Wyoming and Vermont. Sixty-four per cent of Americans belong to a church. American jails have a population of 346,000; our mental hospitals have 630,000.

Your chances of dying are highest in the District of Columbia, lowest in Arizona. The median average of all marriages from "I do" to "goodbye" is eight years. The U. S. now consists of 50 states, 3,043 counties, 18,000 cities and 17,142 townships. In the last 15 years, the costs of running our state governments leaped from $8 billion a year to $26 billion.

No one on the state level likes to mention it, but Uncle Sam gives an average of more than $13 billion back to the states each year. In the manufacturing field, wages now average $2.56 an hour.

Eighteen million people now belong to unions. It sounds high, but it amounts to slightly more than two of every 10 workers.

There are more than 300,000 physicians, but only 200,000 are in private practice. There are 115,000 dentists and 600,000 professional nurses. For each thousand persons in your town, there are less than nine hospital beds.

In 1950, there were 33,000 cases of polio. By 1964, there were 122. Nine per cent of Americans are illiterate. The bill for education in 1964, came to $20,420,000,000. Of this, the local governments, which control it, contributed $1,440,000,000; the state governments, $8,114,000,000; the federal government, $866,000,000. The average student costs $562 per year to teach.

The highest average salary per teacher is paid in California and comes to $7,750; the lowest of the states reporting is Mississippi, $4,069. At all times, one in four persons is attending school. On the other end of the scale, 19,000,000 of our people are over 65 years of age. Of these, 9,000,000 are retired. The others remain on active payrolls.

There are 47,800,000 families from Augusta, Maine, to Honolulu, and from Point Barrow to Brownsville. Of these, 6,800,000 are classified by the government as "poor." If the dollar was worth a dollar in 1940, then its value was 50 cents in 1957, and is about 45 cents now. Still, almost 3,000,000 of the population could afford to spend their vacations overseas this year.

Drew Pearson Says Congress Hampers U.S. Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON — The President's difficulty in conducting foreign affairs while Congress looks over his shoulder, was never better illustrated than in the debate over purchasing 16 wooden minesweepers from Britain in return for Britain's purchasing $2.5 billion worth of airplanes from us.

Woodrow Wilson had the problem after World War I, and the League of Nations was defeated as a result. The defeat paved the way for World War II.

Truman had the problem after World War II, but, thanks to such enlightened GOP leaders as the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, he was able to win out over Republican isolationists.

Eisenhower did not have the problem, chiefly because Lyndon Johnson, then Senate Majority Leader, cooperated with the White House right down the line on foreign policy. Even when Ike came back from the abortive 1960 Summit Conference in Paris after the U-2 incident upset his move to end the cold war, LBJ backed him up.

Johnson has continued Ike's policy of improving relations with the communist bloc, but now faces bitter Congressional opposition over relaxing trade barriers. The current battle is over whether the Export-Import Bank can loan money to facilitate trade with countries which have aided North Vietnam. Actually the Ex-Im Bank loans money to U.S. companies to promote U.S. exports, and the ban proposed by Congressional isolationists would chiefly hurt American trade.

Johnson has to worry not only about the Senate, which under the Constitution has a right to "advise and consent" on foreign policy, but about the House of Representatives, which has no such right.

It was the House of Representatives, not the Senate, which slapped down the British over the relatively small but very significant 16 wooden minesweeper deal. When Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., once involved with Bobby Baker in a flagrant conflict of interest, introduced the "kick-the-British" amendment, Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., the Majority Leader, and Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., Appropriations Committee chairman, argued that this was a slap at our best friend.

They were howled down by Byrnes, Gerry Ford, R-Mich., and a combination of hawks and isolationists. Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., countered that the minesweeper contract was part of $325 million in arms purchases the U.S. planned to make from Britain partly to offset the $2.5 billion the British will spend here for the F111. Sikes argued that the United States should stand by its commitment. But GOP Leader Ford raised the phony idea that the House must be consulted on foreign policy.

"It is our responsibility in the Congress as a co-equal branch of the government to be fully advised before there is any agreement one way or another. In this case we were not consulted and therefore are not bound."

Proclaimed Byrnes: "Involved is the question of whether Congress will turn over to Secretary McNamara the responsibility given to us by the Constitution to provide and maintain the Navy. I ask that Congress assume its constitutional responsibility. I ask that we save Secretary McNamara from another needless risk involving the security of this country."

Sikes, hotly disputing this, explained that security wasn't involved, that the Constitution gave no foreign affairs power to the House.

"If we renege on this," he said, "the British will refuse to abide by their end of the bargain. And U.S. labor will lose eight times as much as it gains."

"We cannot live in a world all our own," said Sikes. "We must get along with other people. We have to trade with them. Trade can never be altogether one way. We have the better of the deal, but regardless let us not repudiate our nation's word."

"Let us not forget that we are dealing with one of the very few major countries which will stand with us in most of the questions which confront us in today's troubled world."

Their No. 1 Cross

Now that President de Gaulle has become the No. 1 cross which the United States has to bear in Europe, it's interesting to recall the famous Churchillian wisecrack about De Gaulle during the days when Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt first dealt with him.

Kay Halle, a close friend of Churchill, gives this version of the wisecrack in her book "Irrepressible Churchill."

At the Casablanca Conference in 1943, FDR remarked to Churchill, "I do not know what to do with De Gaulle."

"I am more enamored of him than you are," replied Churchill, "but I would rather have him on the committee than strutting about as a combination of Joan of Arc and Clemenceau."

Later Churchill said to his aide, Brendan Bracken: "You may have your single cross to bear, but I—I have the double cross of Lorraine."

But remember, Winston, said Bracken, "he thinks of himself as the reincarnation of St. Joan."

"Yes but my bishops won't burn him," said Churchill.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Red Agents Burrow Everywhere

Svetlana Alliluyeva's widely syndicated "Twenty Letters to a Friend" pictures her father's Kfemlin from the inside. Another book, "A Man Called Lucy," by Pierre Accoce and Pierre Quet, along with my own findings in Switzerland, shows Stalin's treasure-trove of espionage in that neutral territory with equally stark revelation.

During the wartime period Svetlana writes about, the Soviet did not have diplomatic relations with Switzerland. But a blond, anti-Nazi giant named Hans Bernd Gisevius, who was a vice consul at the German legation in Bern under the direction of Hitler's secret service, became a pipe line to us. So did another sympathetic anti-Nazi, an assistant to German Ambassador Kocher. This was an "unvetted source," a man who remains as mysterious and unidentified to his employers (our country) as to the enemy against whom he works.

The cafe Greif in Zurich was a center for interenemy agents and transient refugees, and courageous U. S. Army Colonel Barwell R. Legge, our military attache at Bern, practically controlled this center.

Swiss Army Brigadier Colonel Roger Masson, in turn, chief of Swiss counter-intelligence, was in contact with German S.S. Brigadefuhrer Walter Schellenberg who ultimately emerged as a hero of the German anti-Hitler movement.

We passed their information on to Stalin.

What we never knew was that Stalin had his own immensely successful espionage apparatus in Lausanne, the information output of which was astounding and would have saved countless American lives. Stalin couldn't have helped us less if he had been Hitler himself. The Soviet simply stood by, took everything and gave nothing. German Communists call an agent "kaltgestalt" in the technical jargon of Soviet espionage if the man is "on ice" between missions. German Communists had penetrated the highest levels of the German army, navy and air force general staffs and even Hitler's personal entourage. Moreover, the German Communists had about 20 German resident directors trained at the Soviet spy school at Sekhodyna and operating espionage centers throughout wartime Germany. They controlled some 300 German Communist agents. But they faced the problem of communicating with the Kremlin.

A remarkably able Red agent named Rudolph Roessler was "kaltgestalt" in Berlin and the German Communist party faithful sent him under cover to Lausanne. Red agents often confirm their contacts by producing currency notes that bear consecutive serial numbers. Roessler provided this identification to comrade "Leon," the head of the Communist party in Switzerland. Leon set up Roessler and a Moscow-beamed radio in Lausanne and supplied him a group of helpers based in Geneva.

Relaying the top-level information received from the Communists inside Germany, the Lausanne nest established what was designated as the "Viking Line"—direct to Stalin.

Stalin was called Koba by his few intimates. It was the code name he supplied Lausanne. The Red nest reported to him in advance, sometimes months in advance, such vital secrets as Germany's seizure of Austria. It also rushed him the first hint of Hitler's decision to stage the horrible pogrom against the Jews. The Lausanne nest found this did not ruffle Stalin. He had an intense hatred of Jews and purged them on a scale proportionate to Nazi Germany, a fact implied even by Svetlana in her "Twenty Letters."

Hitler invaded Poland, the attack which precipitated World War II, on slim pretext forged by his own secret service. The Lausanne nest forecast his next move, it foretold to Stalin the invasion of Holland, Belgium, north-east France, Luxembourg, Denmark and Norway, each in advance, and sent him the first mention of V-1 and V-2 rockets that were to come, about which we knew nothing and which fell chiefly on us of the West.

The Communists burrow everywhere. And there are always Red agents and provocateurs masquerading as supporters of men in power. The prize—and priceless—information needed by these burrowers is: What will the men in power do next?

Former Central Intelligence Agency chief Allen W. Dulles has stated that "the Soviet had over 40 high-level agents in various Washington departments and agencies during World War II. At least this many were uncovered; we don't know how many remained undetected."

It would be inconceivable to any experienced intelligence manager that there are any fewer in decision-making places in Washington today.

Taft for Committee Reform

By FLETCHER WILSON

Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 — Rep. Robert Taft Jr. (R-Ohio) believes that the Republican party should adopt congressional committee reform as a major campaign issue.

He said that could assure Republican control of the House and possibly win the Senate and the presidency.

Taft spoke yesterday at a ceremony here commemorating the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

He said problems arise from the difficult procedures and restrictions under which Congress operates.

"Little if any progress has been made in recent years," Taft said, "in tackling more effectively the problems of waste in government spending, proper budgetary control, log-rolling on public works, failure to prescribe definite standards of ethics for members of Congress themselves, the stultifying effect of seniority, lack of compulsory retirement and responsibility of committee chairmen to their party and to the Congress."

He charged that legislation is stifled particularly by the system of parceling out committee chairmanships by the majority party on the basis of congressional service seniority.

He also urged adoption of methods under which a party caucus and the House speaker could call on the chairmen to move bills through committees.

After 35 weeks in session, Taft said, the present Congress has enacted only five of 16 appropriation bills and only one-fifth of the other major legislative proposals.

Taft listed 13 House committee chairmen over 65 years of age and seven in their 70s. Ten Senate chairmen are over 65 and six in their 70s, he said.

"These men control almost all legislation considered in Congress," he said. "They are members of the majority party. They are responsible in practice to none, not even their own party leaders or party caucus."

The congressman saw little hope for Congress reforming on its own. He said the job could be done if the Republican party adopted such a platform and committed its candidates to it.

He predicted the program would capture public imagination and elect Republicans.

Duplicity on Peace Bid Charged to LBJ

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has plenty of problems, but he must have been surprised to read a big headline in a morning newspaper on Monday which said: "Duplicity on peace bid is charged to Johnson." Harry Ashmore, formerly an Arkansas Editor and now Executive Vice President of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, located in California, had written and article to that effect which was released to the press.

The story is that Mr. Ashmore and William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami, Fla., news, had gone to Hanoi last January to confer with Ho Chi Minh, head of the North Vietnam Government, in an effort to transmit some kind of "Peace Feeler." The two men, on their return to Washington prepared a letter to the North Vietnamese chieftain after consulting with some State Department officials. It was authorized on February 5 and reached a Hanoi diplomat in Cambodia on February 15. Mr. Ashmore charges that President Johnson's letter was actually sent on February 2 and cancelled out the informal effort of the two editors.

But it turns out that the United States Government did not tell Messrs. Ashmore and Baggs that coincidentally there were some "Peace Feelers" being handled in Moscow with representatives of the North Vietnamese Government. These parleys were considered to be "official" and direct, whereas the Ashmore-Baggs communication was regarded as an incidental effort to advance the cause of peace. The officials did not deem it desirable to tell the two would-be peacemakers all that was going on behind the scenes.

So the whole affair looks like a tempest in a teapot, since it turns out that the United States Government was not really saying through its Moscow contacts anything different from what was being conveyed through Mr. Ashmore. The letter which President Johnson wrote to Ho Chi Minh was dated February 8, according to the State Department. An examination of the Johnson letter and the reply from Ho Chi Minh reveals the big stumbling block — whether the United States would stop bombing before there was any pledge that the enemy would take reciprocal action. In the February letter, for example, President Johnson said to the President of Communist North Vietnam:

"I am prepared to order a cessation of bombing against your country and the stopping of further augmentation of United States forces in South Vietnam as soon as I am assured that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and by sea has stopped, these acts of restraint on both sides would, I believe, make it possible for us to conduct serious and private discussions leading toward an early peace."

The reply by Ho Chi Minh — dated February 15 and broadcast on March 21 — says: "If the U. S. government really wants these talks, it must first of all stop unconditionally its bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. It is only after the unconditional cessation of the U. S. bombing raids and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam that the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States could enter into talks and discuss questions concerning the two sides."

In Mr. Ashmore's letter to Ho Chi Minh, which he says was prepared with the assistance of State Department officials, there are the following paragraphs:

"They (the State Department) expressed particular interest in your suggestion to us that private talks could begin provided the U. S. stopped bombing your country, and ceased introducing additional U. S. troops into Vietnam. They expressed the opinion that some reciprocal restraint to indicate that neither side intended to use the occasion of the talks for military advantage would provide tangible evidence of the good faith of all parties in the prospects for a negotiated settlement...."

"Speaking now wholly for ourselves, we believe the essential condition for productive talks is an arrangement under which neither side stands to gain military advantage during the period of negotiation...."

So instead of "duplicity," it seems to be a matter of "duplication." For the actual position of the American government as contained in the Ashmore letter is the same as in Mr. Johnson's own communication to Ho Chi Minh. Indeed, the incident serves to prove that the United States has, directly and indirectly, made every effort to start peace negotiations with the North Vietnamese.

Drew Pearson Says Congress Hampers U.S. Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON — The President's difficulty in conducting foreign affairs while Congress looks over his shoulder, was never better illustrated than in the debate over purchasing 16 wooden minesweepers from Britain in return for Britain's purchasing $2.5 billion worth of airplanes from us.

Woodrow Wilson had the problem after World War I, and the League of Nations was defeated as a result. The defeat paved the way for World War II.

Truman had the problem after World War II, but, thanks to such enlightened GOP leaders as the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, he was able to win out over Republican isolationists.

Eisenhower did not have the problem, chiefly because Lyndon Johnson, then Senate Majority Leader, cooperated with the White House right down the line on foreign policy. Even when Ike came back from the abortive 1960 Summit Conference in Paris after the U-2 incident upset his move to end the cold war, LBJ backed him up.

Johnson has continued Ike's policy of improving relations with the communist bloc, but now faces bitter Congressional opposition.

Proclaimed Byrnes: "Involved is the question of whether Congress will turn over to Secretary McNamara the responsibility given to us by the Constitution to provide and maintain the Navy. I ask that Congress assume its constitutional responsibility.... I ask that we save Secretary McNamara from another needless risk involving the security of this country."

Sikes, hotly disputing this, explained that security wasn't involved, that the Constitution gave no foreign affairs power to the House.

"If we renege on this," he said, "the British will refuse to abide by their end of the bargain. And U.S. labor will lose eight times as much as it gains." "We cannot live in a world all our own," said Sikes. "We must get along with other people. We have to trade with them. Trade can never be altogether one way. We have the better of the deal, but regardless let us not repudiate our nation's word."

"Let us not forget that we are dealing with one of the very few major countries which will stand with us in most of the questions which confront us in today's troubled world."

However, Sikes, Mahon and Albert pleaded in vain. The isolationists won. Later, because Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Majority Leader, was in Japan, the Senate, under Democratic Whip Russell Long, D-La., gave in without a fight.

They were howled down by Byrnes, Gerry Ford, R-Mich., and a combination of hawks and isolationists. Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., countered that the mine-sweeper contract was part of $325 million in arms purchases the U.S. planned to make from Britain partly to offset the $2.5 billion the British will spend here for the F-111. Sikes argued that the United States should stand by its commitment.

But GOP Leader Ford raised the phony idea that the House must be consulted on foreign policy. "It is our responsibility in the Congress as a co-equal branch of the government to be fully advised before there is any agreement one way or another. In this case we were not consulted and therefore are not bound."

Henry J. Taylor Says

Red Agents Burrow Everywhere

Svetlana Alliluyeva's widely syndicated "Twenty Letters to a Friend" pictures her father's Kremlin from the inside. Another book, "A Man Called Lucy," by Pierre Accoce and Pierre Quet, along with my own findings in Switzerland, shows Stalin's treasure-trove of espionage in that neutral territory with equally stark revelation.

During the wartime period Svetlana writes about, the Soviet did not have diplomatic relations with Switzerland. But a blond, anti-Nazi giant named Hans Bernd Gisevius, who was a vice-consul at the German legation in Bern under the direction of Hitler's secret service, became a pipe line to us. So did another sympathetic anti-Nazi, an assistant to German Ambassador Kocher. This was an "unvetted source," a man who remains as mysterious and unidentified to his employers (our country) as to the enemy against whom he works.

The cafe Greif in Zurich was a center for interagency agents and transient refugees, and courageous U. S. Army Colonel Barwell R. Legge, our military attaché at Bern, practically controlled this center.

Swiss Army Brigadier-Colonel Roger Masson, in turn, chief of Swiss counter-intelligence, was in contact with German S.S. Brigadeführer Walter Schellenberg who ultimately emerged as a hero of the German anti-Hitler movement.

We passed their information to Stalin.

What we never knew was that Stalin had his own immensely successful espionage apparatus in Lausanne, the information output of which was astounding and would have saved countless American lives. Stalin couldn't have helped us less if he had been Hitler himself. The Soviet simply stood by, took everything and gave nothing. German Communists call an agent "kaltgestalt" in the technical jargon of Soviet espionage if the man is "on ice" between missions. German Communists had penetrated the highest levels of the German army, navy and air force general staffs and even Hitler's personal entourage. Moreover, the German Communists had about 20 German resident directors trained at the Soviet spy school at Sekhodynia and operating espionage centers throughout wartime Germany. They controlled some 300 German Communist agents. But they faced the problem of communicating with the Kremlin.

A remarkably able Red agent named Rudolf Roessler was "kaltgestalt" in Berlin and the German Communist party faithful sent him under cover to Lausanne. Red agents often confirm their contacts by producing currency notes that bear consecutive serial numbers. Roessler provided this identification to comrade "Leon," the head of the Communist party in Switzerland. Leon set up Roessler and a Moscow-beamed radio in Lausanne and supplied him a group of helpers based in Geneva.

Relaying the top-level information received from the Communists inside Germany, the Lausanne nest established what was designated as the "Viking Line"—direct to Stalin.

Stalin was called Koba by his few intimates. It was the code name he supplied Lausanne. The Red nest reported to him in advance, sometimes months in advance, such vital secrets as Germany's seizure of Austria. It also rushed him the first hint of Hitler's decision to stage the horrible pogroms against the Jews. The Lausanne nest found this did not ruffle Stalin. He had an intense hatred of Jews and purged them on a scale proportionate to Nazi Germany, a fact implied even by Svetlana in her "Twenty Letters."

Hitler invaded Poland, the attack which precipitated World War II, on slim pretext forged by his own secret service. The Lausanne nest forecast his next move. It foretold to Stalin the invasion of Holland, Belgium, north-east France, Luxembourg, Denmark and Norway, each in advance, and sent him the first mention of V-1 and V-2 rockets that were to come, about which we knew nothing and which fell chiefly on us of the West.

The Communists burrow everywhere. And there are always Red agents and provocateurs masquerading as supporters of men in power. The prize—and priceless—information needed by these burrowers is: What will the men in power do next?

Former Central Intelligence Agency chief Allen W. Dulles has stated that "the Soviet had over 40 high-level agents in various Washington departments and agencies during World War II. At least this many were uncovered; we don't know how many remained undetected."

It would be inconceivable to any experienced intelligence manager that there are any fewer in decision-making places in Washington today.

Taft for Committee Reform

By FLETCHER WILSON

Chicago Sun-Times Special

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 — Rep. Robert Taft Jr. (R-Ohio) believes that the Republican party should adopt congressional committee reform as a major campaign issue.

He said that could assure Republican control of the House and possibly win the Senate and the presidency.

Taft spoke yesterday at a ceremony here commemorating the 180th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

He said problems arise from the difficult procedures and restrictions under which Congress operates.

"Little if any progress has been made in recent years," Taft said, "in tackling more effectively the problems of waste in government spending, proper budgetary control, log-rolling on public works, failure to prescribe definite standards of ethics for members of Congress themselves, the stultifying effect of seniority, lack of compulsory retirement and responsibility of committee chairmen to their party and to the Congress."

He charged that legislation is stifled particularly by the system of parceling out committee chairmanships by the majority party on the basis of congressional service seniority.

He also urged adoption of methods under which a party caucus and the House speaker could call on the chairmen to move bills through committees.

After 35 weeks in session, Taft said, the present Congress has enacted only five of 16 appropriation bills and only one-fifth of the other major legislative proposals.

Taft listed 13 House committee chairmen over 65 years of age and seven in their 70s. Ten Senate chairmen are over 65 and six in their 70s, he said.

"These men control almost all legislation considered in Congress," he said. "They are members of the majority party. They are responsible in practice to none, not even their own party leaders or party caucus."

The congressman saw little hope for Congress reforming on its own. He said the job could be done if the Republican party adopted such a platform and committed its candidates to it.

He predicted the program would capture public imagination and elect Republicans.

Erosion of American Spirit

Era of Privilege and Pleasure

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—An enlarging number of Americans seem bent on defining American democratic freedoms to allow them greater and greater license in their personal and public lives.

Increasingly, freedom is seen by some as, above all, an immunity—in the extreme view, from the law and the moral code themselves; in the less extreme, from criticism, from any kind of gradation, from all social penalty.

To the extent that political radicals of the right and left, with some support from more moderate types, are attacking the established framework of U. S. society as an inhibitor to freedom, they seem to give the sanction of a "high cause" to the libertarian bent of many average Americans.

But the latter probably do not need that sanction. On their own, by their own route, they have come to the notion that it is virtually undemocratic to note differences between one individual and another in matters of achievement or potential; to call attention to mistakes; to fix blame; or to make too much of many kinds of wrongdoing.

Wicked Irony

In all this there is a wicked irony. In the name of allowing individuality its freest rein, the growing army of libertarians would bar society from making some crucial individual distinction among people.

Grades and tests in school are increasingly frowned upon. Legitimate arrests for offenses against the law are resented as unwarranted invasions of personal rights. Minor wrongdoing is widely acceptable. Law enforcers, engulfed by rising serious crime, seem to underscore the tolerance by leaving many minor transgressions unpunished and unpunished.

The libertarians want no harsh words, no penalties, no standards to be measured by. Democracy, thus rationalized, means being left alone, to do as one wishes.

No Responsibility

Those social analysts who are not caught up in these loose notions brand them as painfully immature. The bent is all for privilege and pleasure, with no balancing burden for responsibility.

One practiced observer, author Barbara W. Tuchman, sees a great failure of confidence among Americans as a key cause. In a McCall's article in June, she added:

"As a result we tend to shy away from all judgments. We hesitate to label anything wrong, and we therefore hesitate to require the individual to bear moral responsibility for his acts..."

"To adopt the position that we must not condemn but only understand may be very Christian in intent, but in reality it is an escape from the necessity of exercising judgment... What is required is courage—just a little, not very much—the courage to be independent and stand up for the standard of values one believes in..."

"If the educated man is not willing to express standards, if HE cannot show that he has them and applies them, what then is education for?"

Libertarian Strain

Should it be correct that immaturity and lack of confidence underlie the mounting libertarian strain among us, then at the very least we shall have to face this reality and cease trying to invest these tendencies with high nobility.

The blunt fact is that we cannot function as a society or as individuals without a "system," without law, a moral code, and encompassing set of standards, a capacity and a willingness to make judgments about people and their problems.

Flaws and roadblocks in the system deserve to be attacked. But freedom cannot exist without the shelter of a durable framework. A discerning radical, Harvard sociologist Martin Peretz, sees that. "Those who want to short-circuit the system, he says, simply lack the proper patience and stomach and drive to change society for the better by truly democratic means."

Multiple Choices Offered On Supermarket Shelves

By GEORGE LAZARUS

Chicago Daily News Service
Is there any limit to the proliferation of brands in supermarkets? Probably not. Even though shelf space is at premium in grocery outlets, there are more brands including private labels, in a number of major product categories.

Many of the nationally advertised brands, furthermore, have introduced multiple-sized packaging and product variety to gain a bigger share of the market.

An analysis by SPEEDATA, a data processing service, clearly shows that grocery product shopping is a multiple-choice situation of major proportions.

The consumer, SPEEDATA figures show, can choose from, for example: more than 150 different cake mixes in the Chicago market; nearly 200 different canned meat items in the Southern Pacific area (Southern California and parts of Arizona); and more than 90 different ready-to-eat cereals in New England.

Heavy duty soaps and detergents is one product category with scores of brands: 33 alone in the Chicago market.

This is not a high figure when you consider that Procter & Gamble markets such detergents as Tide, Bold, Cheer, Dash, Oxydol and American Family in this market.

The number of entries in detergents and heavy duty soaps has probably multiplied six-fold in the last 30 years, said George Wrisley, SPEEDATA's executive vice president. Wrisley was a top sale executive with Lever Brothers before he joined his present firm.

SPEEDATA was formed three years ago. Based in New York, the firm provides manufacturers and marketers with reports on grocery product movements.

Railroads Critical Of Shopcraft Award

By ROBERT M. LEWIN

Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The nation's railroads said today that the Presidential arbitration board's award gave 137,000 shopcraft workers about an 18 per cent pay raise over two years—a 58-cents-an-hour total.

John P. Hiltz Jr., new chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, the carriers' labor relations unit, charged that the board had given an extra 20-cents hourly increase over the two years to "men whose skills never have been established."

The 20 cents, in four steps of 5 cents hourly, are included in the 18 per cent and 58-cent totals.

Hiltz called the award, made by a special board headed by Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.), "clearly inflationary."

"That's absolutely too much for the skilled people," stressed Hiltz.

"We recognize that there is some skill involved in the shopcraft employees, but for this board to grant an overall skill adjustment without establishing who is skilled, and on account of their skill, is beyond our comprehension."

"It's a 20-cent extra increase for men whose skills never have been established."

Hiltz, chief spokesman for the railroads in the negotiations, contrasted the 18 per cent "package over two years" with average settlements of 4.2 to 4.7 per cent a year, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor.

Hiltz said that he and other negotiators for the railroads would be "available for further negotiations with the unions, if the organizations indicate they are willing to sit down with us."

Under the compulsory arbitration law under which the board made its recommendations, the increases become final and binding Oct. 15 unless something else is worked out in negotiations.

Hiltz said that the award "certainly isn't going to contribute to the health of the railroads which already are suffering from a bad year."

He added that the net income of the railroads for the first six months of this year is off about 40 per cent, as compared with the first six months of 1966.

He also said that "most of that is because of the wage increase under the so-called pattern settlement."

Probe 2 Burglaries In Port Ewen Area

Burglaries at two Port Ewen manufacturing plants and the recovery of two trucks, one owned by a firm victimized by the thieves, were under investigation today by Kingston State Police BCI officers and deputy sheriffs.

The places entered last night or early today were the Dana Manufacturing Co., Broadway, and the J. C. Metal Spinning and Stamping Co., in the same building at Port Ewen.

BCI Investigator Fred Grunwald and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers were in charge of the investigation with uniformed troopers and deputy sheriffs.

A spokesman at the Dana plant said the place was entered by smashing a glass in a door and reaching inside to unlock the door. He said type writers, adding machine, dictating machine and other office equipment, pistols and an undetermined amount of cash comprised the loot taken.

It could not be learned what, if anything of value, had been taken in the J. C. Metal establishment.

Whether the two trucks recovered by the sheriff's deputies had any connection with the break-ins was studied by those investigating.

At 3:30 a. m. Deputy Michael J. Giordano recovered a pickup truck abandoned on Route 209 between Hurley and Stone Ridge. Giordano said the vehicle was owned by the J. C. Metal Corp. one of the places hit by the burglars.

Shortly before 7 a. m. Deputy Robert Jordan found a truck belonging to Posner's on the J. C. Metal property.

Reports Car Taken

Patricia Rau, of Port Ewen, complained to city police Tuesday that someone took her 1966 car from the parking lot of the New York Telephone Co., on Converse Street. Detectives were assigned to investigate. She valued the vehicle at $4,000.

Pollution Conference At Mohonk

Twenty leading air pollution experts from five Mid-Atlantic States (New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Delaware and New Jersey) and the National Center for Air Pollution Control, are currently conducting a workshop at Lake Mohonk Mountain House, near New Paltz, to establish criteria and standards for air pollution alerts in the Mid-Atlantic States.

The question the conference is striving to resolve is: What are the criteria for which an alert should be called? Richard G. Coulter, professor of civil engineering, City College of New York, who is in charge of the conference, says: "Some questions being debated during the four-day conference are: Are we measuring the right things? Should additional measurements be made? At what level of contamination should preventive action be taken?"

new ones to be born. For instance, if a gasoline fuel truck makes a delivery of 1,000 gallons of gas at a service station, the equivalent in fumes is released when the fuel is transferred from truck tank to ground tank due to the fact that the fumes are equal to the fuel dispersed. The solution lies in recirculating the fumes and returning them to the truck to be used over and over again.

About half of the cement plants in the State of New York are between Kingston and Hudson and they account for 80 to 85 percent of the state's cement production.

So far the dust from these plants has proven an insoluble problem for the Ulster County Health Department.

And, complaints from residents continue, in the East Kingston area especially but as far away as Rhinecliff and Dutchess County where residents have claimed the wind carries the dust across the river and coats their houses.

According to Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation, says that unless sufficient evidence of pollution can be produced, no action can be taken against the offending plants. He points out that the State Health Department has not yet issued regulations setting emission standards for heavy industry. Such regulations he said are the enforcement tool of the air pollution law.

As written originally, the law is "too clumsy" to enforce. It was amended last year to give the state health commissioner the power to set emission standards for industry.

When attempts are made to sample the air in a particular area it is impossible to sort out what is coming from what plant with any degree of accuracy, even with wind directional equipment.

A certain amount of air pollution is conducted locally. The Kingston City Laboratory has been analyzing samples collected at stations in Ellenville, New Paltz, Saugerties and atop the County Office Building.

The lab lets the particles collect for 30 days, weighs them and sends the results to the Health Department.

"There is no way of telling the source of the particulates" according to Jean Owens, junior chemist, "because weather conditions, temperature and wind are decisive and eternally variable."

The state, which often tests with special air filter papers made of fiberglass, recently made such a test at a cement plant in East Kingston.

NEXT: How pollution is affecting the health of Ulster County residents will be the subject of tomorrow's article, the fourth in a series of five articles on air pollution appearing in the Kingston Freeman this week.

TV, Radio Mediators Start Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service has stepped into a television and radio technicians' contract dispute in an effort to prevent a possible strike against the National Broadcasting Co. William E. Simkin, director of the service, sent telegrams to the networks and the technicians' union Tuesday calling them to a meeting with federal mediators here Thursday.

Simkin acted shortly after the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (NABET) announced membership rejection of proposed new contracts with NBC and ABC.

The union's eight-man negotiating committee was summoned to New York to draw up new demands, and it is scheduled to hold its first meeting tonight.

Doyle Wilson, an assistant to NABET President Eugene P. Klumpp, said: "If our new demands can't be met—and we don't know what they are yet—then we are in a strike situation again."

Columbia Broadcasting System technicians are not involved in the dispute. They are represented by the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

On Sept. 5, as a NABET strike against NBC and ABC was threatened, leaders of the union reached a tentative agreement in Miami Beach on new contracts to cover 3,000 employees in five cities, New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Slated to Appear At Israel Bond Fete

LEW NORMAN

Abraham Streifer, well-known attorney and community leader, announced today that he and his wife will host a special evening for the State of Israel Sunday 8 p. m. at their home in Old Hurley.

Streifer will present for the entertainment of his guests, Lew Norman, popular humorist, raconteur and song stylist. Norman has appeared in almost every phase of show business. He has been seen by millions of viewers on the Tonight show and the Ed Sullivan hour.

His one-man performances at Carnegie Hall have won wide critical acclaim. He has appeared in numerous top supper clubs and in all parts of the United States and Canada. A veteran of the Yiddish Art Theatre, Norman won the Show Business awards for his performance as "Biff" in "Death of a Salesman." He has also appeared on stage at the Ziegfeld and Mansfield Theatres in New York.

Having just returned from a visit to Israel, Norman will be able to present an eyewitness, off the record account of the great events that have occurred since June and how they have affected Israeli life.

Streifer urged all those invited to make a special effort to attend and said, "Israel and her people have given a supreme example of courage and sacrifice. They deserve our fullest support while they rebuild from the devastation of the very recent war. I know of no better way to help than through the Israel Bond program to spur Israel's economic development. Please make every effort to attend. If you cannot be with us, please arrange to purchase an Israel Bond." A very large attendance is expected.

Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalsowsky are general co-chairmen of the Israel Bond campaign.

Hurley Zoning Comes to Vote

A new zoning ordinance to ensure natural beauty, retain historical significance and put land to effective use, is being proposed for the Town of Hurley.

A meeting at which a resolution to adopt the proposed ordinance will be presented is to be held Monday, 8 p. m. at the West Hurley Fire House.

The town affairs committee of the West Hurley Civic Association is urging all residents to attend the meeting in support of the ordinance. Credit: The Planning Board and Zoning Commission with a thorough job preparing the document, the committee says.

Rescue Squad Completing Fund Campaign

Reports of the past month's activities were given at the recent meeting of the Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad meeting.

The fund drive headed by Mrs. Marilyn Robinson and Mrs. Augusta Kopp is nearing successful completion.

During August the squad answered 28 calls, traveled 702 miles and 46 members volunteered 117 hours of time. There was one mutual aid call in cooperation with the Rondout Valley Squad.

The next regular meeting will be held Oct. 10 at 8 p. m. in the squad building on Route 209.

Hurley Zoning Comes to Vote

A new zoning ordinance to ensure natural beauty, retain historical significance and put land to effective use, is being proposed for the Town of Hurley.

A meeting at which a resolution to adopt the proposed ordinance will be presented is to be held Monday, 8 p. m. at the West Hurley Fire House.

The town affairs committee of the West Hurley Civic Association is urging all residents to attend the meeting in support of the ordinance. Credit the Planning Board and Zoning Commission with a thorough job preparing the document, the committee says.

Large Charge

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — Two Eastern Illinois University pranksters got a real charge out of their mischievous activities Wednesday.

Authorities said Gene Riha, 19, of Mokena, pretended to have been hit by an auto while he was walking past a university dorm.

Police said the accident was staged to divert attention from his cohort, Arthur Roth of Waukegan, who was trying to retrieve a Confederate flag from the dormitory. Police said the pair claimed the flag was theirs.

Both were charged with disorderly conduct.

it believes the future growth of the town requires organized planning.

W. Jack Kahn, town affairs chairman, announced today that voters of Hurley do not have a vote on the passing of the ordinance and that the Town Board is the only body which can act on the matter. Therefore, he said, "a large attendance of residents at the meeting will encourage action."

BLOWN TIRE — Injured Camp Pendleton Marines are scattered across the Santa Ana Freeway as passers-by and a fireman came to their aid Monday. Two of the Marines, riding with five others, died as a result of the one vehicle taxi bus-van crash. The five Marines and driver of the vehicle who survived suffered minor injuries. The crash was apparently caused by a rear tire which blew out causing the van to overturn, ejecting the Marines and their baggage. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Woodstock State Citations Received by Legion Aux.

The annual dinner of the Woodstock American Legion Auxiliary 1026, was held recently at Deanie's with 19 members attending.

A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ethel Hasbrouck, president, and new members welcomed were Mrs. Mae McWilliams, Mrs. Laura Vogel and Mrs. Louise MacLeod.

Monthly reports were given and Mrs. Magda Moseman, past president of the unit was presented a gift.

Mrs. Moseman is now chairman of the Ulster County American Legion Auxiliary and attended the New York State American Legion Auxiliary convention held in Buffalo in July as county delegate.

She presented the unit with membership trophy given by the State Department, also, a meritorious citation for 1967 from the State Department for reaching membership quota by Jan. 31, 1967 and a national meritorious service citation for enrolling a 1967 membership equal to or exceeding 1966 membership. The citations and trophy were presented Mrs. Violet Underhill, chairman of membership.

Mrs. Moseman also presented a certificate of merit for contributions to cancer control program for 1966-1967 to Mrs. Violet Underhill, chairman of cancer control.

Unit members have been invited to join the Woodstock Post in participating in the Loyal Day Parade to be held in Kingston on Sept. 23. Any member wishing information with regard to the parade may contact Mrs. Hasbrouck.

The chairman of each committee is requested to make her report to the county chairman by the twentieth of each month. Gifts were presented to Mr. Jean Baumgarten, secretary, and Miss Florence Peper, treasurer. The next regular meeting will be on Tuesday, October 3, at the American Legion Hall, Woodstock.

Playreaders Study Under Volney Crosswell

The playreading group of Performing Arts of Woodstock will study under Volney Crosswell's direction the one-act plays of Michael DeGhelderode.

The group meets Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 8:30 p. m. in the Little Theatre off Tinker Street and the public is invited to attend. Anyone interested in reading may participate.

Meeting each second and fourth Tuesdays, the group also discusses informally during coffee breaks, the various aspects of their work, according to Anita S. Henley, treasurer.

Set Loyalty Day Parade Saturday

The Loyalty Day Parade sponsored by the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, will begin in the rear of Kingston High School at 10:30 a. m., Saturday.

Chairman Gerald Kelder Jr., said today the parade is in honor of all U. S. servicemen, not just those fighting in Vietnam.

All groups and organizations participating in the parade will receive a list of instructions this week. Any other groups interested in parading Saturday are invited to contact Kelder at CPO Box 233, Kingston.

Kelder said the city's fire horn will sound out two series of blasts 1-7-6 at 10 a. m., signaling the formation of the parade.

The Joiners News of Fraternal and Civic Organizations

The regular meeting of Judea Shrine No. 12, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem will be held 8 p. m. Thursday at the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue. Refreshments will be served.

Man Indicted In Girl's Death

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Albert R. Rock was indicted by a Clinton County grand jury Tuesday on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of a 6-year-old girl last June.

Rock, 24, of this city, has been held at the Clinton County jail since his arrest June 28 in Saratoga Springs.

A day later, police said Rock led them to a sand pit in near-by Schuyler Falls, where the body of Laura Connors was found buried under a rock.

The girl had been reported missing June 27 from her home in Schuyler Falls after not returning from a visit with a neighbor.

MacKinnon Hurley GOP Campaign Head

Albany Cleric Gets Suspended Sentence

An Albany clergyman and civil rights leader scheduled for trial on morals charges brought by an Ellenville man pleaded guilty to a reduced charge Tuesday.

Heroin Found On Pa. Men in Thruway Check

Two 27-year-old Pennsylvania men were taken into custody shortly after 4 a. m. today, after State Police stopped them on the State Thruway in the Town of New Baltimore and allegedly found them in possession of an estimated $2,000 worth of heroin.

State Police of Troop T booked the men as James Earl Smith and John Wilson, both of Philadelphia.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Carl, Town of Catskill, the accused men were ordered held for grand jury action. Judge Carl committed them to the Greene County jail pending further investigation.

Leeds State Police said search of the car in which the defendants were heading north on the superhighway, revealed two loaded revolvers, syringes and other equipment allegedly used for the administration of the drug.

After their arrests, Smith and Wilson were taken to Leeds State Police headquarters for processing before arraignment.

Authorities reported the men were en route to Syracuse from New York City when they were apprehended. It was said that the heroin was obtained in New York City.

Troopers declined to say what prompted the arrests of the two men, whose address was listed as 1646 Nedrow Avenue Philadelphia.

The Rev. James U. Smythe had been charged with impairing the morals of the two daughters of Mrs. Alberta Curtis. Charges were brought by the woman's husband, James, of Ellenville.

The Rev. Mr. Smythe was given a suspended sentence Tuesday and admonished by Albany City Court Judge Michael V. Terpedino to "stay away" from Mrs. Curtis. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of disorderly conduct.

It had been claimed that the Rev. Mr. Smythe, while separated from his own wife, Sallie, had resided with Mrs. Curtis and her daughter, Marie, then 11, and Lorraine, then 10 at his home, 84 Schuyler Street, from March 24, 1966 to June of that year.

After the arrest of the Rev. Mr. Smythe, Mrs. Curtis said her husband had abandoned her and three children. She said the Mount Zion Baptist Church pastor had taken her and two of the children from her residence at 153 Clinton Avenue, Albany, to the parsonage until a new home could be found for them.

At that time the Rev. Mr. Smythe pleaded innocent and remained free on $500 bail.

BLOWN TIRE — Injured Camp Pendleton Marines are scattered across the Santa Ana Freeway as passers-by and a fireman came to their aid Monday. Two of the Marines, riding with five others, died as a result of the one vehicle taxi bus-van crash. The five Marines and driver of the vehicle who survived suffered minor injuries. The crash was apparently caused by a rear tire which blew out causing the van to overturn, ejecting the Marines and their baggage. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Woodstock State Citations Received by Legion Aux.

The annual dinner of the Woodstock American Legion Auxiliary 1026, was held recently at Deanie's with 19 members attending.

A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ethel Hasbrouck, president, and new members welcomed were Mrs. Mae McWilliams, Mrs. Laura Vogel and Mrs. Louise MacLeod.

Monthly reports were given and Mrs. Magda Moseman, past president of the unit was presented a gift.

Mrs. Moseman is now chairman of the Ulster County American Legion Auxiliary and attended the New York State American Legion Auxiliary convention held in Buffalo in July as county delegate.

She presented the unit with membership trophy given by the State Department, also, a meritorious citation for 1967 from the State Department for reaching membership quota by Jan. 31, 1967 and a national meritorious service citation for enrolling a 1967 membership equal to or exceeding 1966 membership. The citations and trophy were presented Mrs. Violet Underhill, chairman of membership.

Mrs. Moseman also presented a certificate of merit for contributions to cancer control program for 1966-1967 to Mrs. Violet Underhill, chairman of cancer control.

Unit members have been invited to join the Woodstock Post in participating in the King's Day Parade to be held in Kingston on Sept. 23. Any member wishing information with regard to the parade may contact Mrs. Hasbrouck.

The chairman of each committee is requested to make her report to the county chairman by the twentieth of each month.

Gifts were presented to Mr. Jean Baumgarten, secretary, and Miss Florence Peper, treasurer. The next regular meeting will be on Tuesday, October 3, at the American Legion Hall, Woodstock.

Playreaders Study Under Volney Crosswell

The playreading group of Performing Arts of Woodstock will study under Volney Crosswell's direction the one-act plays of Michael DeGhelderode.

The group meets Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 8:30 p. m. in the Little Theatre off Tinker Street and the public is invited to attend. Anyone interested in reading may participate.

Meeting each second and fourth Tuesdays, the group also discusses informally during coffee breaks, the various aspects of their work, according to Anita S. Henley, treasurer.

Set Loyalty Day Parade Saturday

The Loyalty Day Parade sponsored by the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, will begin in the rear of Kingston High School at 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

Chairman Gerald Kelder Jr. said today the parade is in honor of all U. S. servicemen, not just those fighting in Vietnam.

All groups and organizations participating in the parade will receive a list of instructions this week. Any other groups interested in parading Saturday are invited to contact Kelder at CPO Box 233, Kingston.

Kelder said the city's fire horn will sound two series of blasts 1-7-7-6 at 10 a. m., signaling the formation of the parade.

Man Indicted In Girl's Death

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Albert R. Rock was indicted by a Clinton County grand jury Tuesday on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of a 6-year-old girl last June.

Rock, 24, of this city, has been held at the Clinton County jail since his arrest June 28 in Saratoga Springs.

A day later, police said Rock led them to a sand pit in near-by Schuyler Falls, where the body of Laura Connors was found buried under a rock.

The girl had been reported missing June 27 from her home in Scuyler Falls after not returning from a visit with a neighbor.

Co-Chairmen Named For Mino Reelection

Former Surrogate John B. Sterley, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, chosen by the Republican party said, "I was pleased and proud to learn of the formation of this committee by the many friends and supporters of Raymond J. Mino for Ulster County Judge. This is just one more indiin the elections this November."

It has been announced that a Committee for the reelection of Raymond J. Mino for county judge has been formed under the chairmanship of attorney, and former City Judge, Joseph D. Saccoman.

Co-chairing the committee will be Lawrence A. Quilty of the L. A. Quilty Insurance Agency.

Included in the committee will be Harry C. Kaprelian, Harry Gold, Adrian Kaplan, Vincent G. Connelly, Roland A. Augustine, former Surrogate Judge Francis X. Tucker, John A. Hathmaker, Frank Campochiaro, Robert O'Reilly, former District Attorney David W. Corwin, Michael J. Larkin, Charles Kaiser, Louis P. Francello, Richard Griggs, Howard C. St. John and George Svirsky.

Other prominent citizens, interested in the reelection of Judge Mino, are expected to be included in the committee and their names will be included within the ensuing weeks.

Attorney Saccoman said that it was his opinion that Judge

Mino is one of the most outstanding persons to have been offered as a candidate for judicial office in recent years.

"His record is second to none," said Saccoman, adding, "Judge Mino has truly been a full-time judge, toiling not only during the usual working hours evenings and on the weekends."

Saccoman further said that, "Although there are a number of cases on the civil calendar, any attorney who wants his case tried needs but to ask that it be placed on the ready calendar."

Co-Chairman Quilty, when asked for his comments on the forthcoming election, said, "I predict a landslide victory for Judge Mino in the November elections. I say this not only because of the solid support of fellow Republicans throughout the County of Ulster, but also because of the vast number of non-Republicans who have made known their high regard for his ability, his fairness, and his human concern for people in difficulty."

Co-Chairmen Named For Mino Reelection

JOSEPH D. SACCOMAN

LAWRENCE A. QUILTY

It has been announced that a Committee for the reelection of Raymond J. Mino for county judge has been formed under the chairmanship of attorney, and former City Judge, Joseph D. Saccoman.

Co-chairing the committee will be Lawrence A. Quilty of the L. A. Quilty Insurance Agency.

Included in the committee will be Harry C. Kaprelian, Harry Gold, Adrian Kaplan, Vincent G. Connelly, Roland A. Augustine, former Surrogate Judge Francis X. Tucker, John A. Hathmaker, Frank Campochiaro, Robert O'Reilly, former District Attorney David W. Corwin, Michael J. Larkin, Charles Kaiser, Louis P. Francello, Richard Griggs, Howard C. St. John and George Svirsky.

Other prominent citizens, interested in the reelection of Judge Mino, are expected to be included in the committee and their names will be included within the ensuing weeks.

Attorney Saccoman said that it was his opinion that Judge

Mino is one of the most outstanding persons to have been offered as a candidate for judicial office in recent years.

"His record is second to none," said Saccoman, adding, "Judge Mino has truly been a full-time judge, toiling not only during the usual working hours evenings and on the weekends."

Saccoman further said that, "Although there are a number of cases on the civil calendar, any attorney who wants his case tried needs but to ask that it be placed on the ready calendar."

Co-Chairman Quilty, when asked for his comments on the forthcoming election, said, "I predict a landslide victory for Judge Mino in the November elections. I say this not only because of the solid support of fellow Republicans throughout the County of Ulster, but also because of the vast number of non-Republicans who have made known their high regard for his ability, his fairness, and his human concern for people in difficulty."

Close Loopholes And Avoid Hike In Taxes: Joe

"If the Farm Bureau and other tax-exempt industries paid their fair share of taxes, we would be able to avoid a 10 per cent surtax and even enjoy a tax cut," Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick has declared. The Congressman spoke to the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the National Association of Accountants at The Hedges restaurant in West Park.

Resnick said: "The Farm Bureau has taken advantage of every single tax loophole available to them. They ought to change their name from the Farm Bureau to the Tax-Exempt Bureau."

"The first loophole they used was to incorporate themselves as a farmer's organization. This permits them to collect dues of $20 a year without paying taxes."

"They used this money to start their insurance companies which pay a small percentage of tax—only 4 per cent. Money earned from the insurance companies went back to areas. For example, the Atlantic Refinery Corporation for the last 5 years has not paid a single dollar in federal taxes.

"Then, they got into the oil business. The Farm Bureau, while purporting to be a farmers' organization, is one of the largest retailers of petroleum product in the mid-west. They have their own gas stations, sell fuel oil, LP gas and other products. Not satisfied just re-tailing oil, they opened their own oil wells, refineries, oil lines, and tankers. All tax free.

"From the point of view of those of us who pay taxes, the Farm Bureau and the oil and mining industries are disaster areas. For example, the Atlantic Refinery Corporation for the last 5 years has not paid a single dollar in federal taxes.

"It is estimated that if the extractive industries, like the oil companies, were to pay taxes the way General Motors, I.B.M. and you and I do, they would contribute something between $15-20 billion a year in taxes. This would alleviate the need for a tax hike.

Car Hits Pole

While driving his car on Wilbur Avenue shortly after 2:35 p. m. Tuesday, James Ronaldson, 58, of Rt. 2, Box 46, Kingston, lost control and the vehicle hit a utility pole. Ronaldson was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for injuries to his head and hands. The right front of the sedan was considerably damaged. Kingston police investigated.

Peat Moss Fire

Engine 2 fire unit of Kingston responded to an alarm at 5 a. m. today after fire was reported burning in peat moss near Britt's at the Kingston Shopping Plaza. The fire was extinguished by firefighters in command of Lt. Philip Greer.

To Back Romney Despite Poll Drop

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says he is standing by Michigan's Gov. George Romney, despite a pollster's report that Romney's "brainwashing" remark about the Vietnam war has dropped him to fourth place in the Republican White House standings.

Rockefeller again disclaimed any presidential ambitions of his own when asked to comment Tuesday on the findings of a poll that showed he had replaced Romney as the GOP's strongest potential candidate.

"Well, I'm very hopeful that Mr. Romney will come back up in the standings," Rockefeller told a Capitol news conference.

Under questioning, he admitted that he was "very grateful and highly complimented" that people who participated in the poll had expressed support for him.

"But that doesn't influence my decision as regards candidacy," Rockefeller added.

He said his position still was that "I am not nor will I be a candidate."

The Republican governor made these comments on a survey by pollster Louis Harris, who has reported that Romney's remark that he had been "brainwashed" on the Vietnam issue had lowered his rating among potential GOP nominees.

The Harris poll listed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in second place, behind Rockefeller, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan in third place.

Rockefeller, who has been backing Romney strongly for the 1968 nomination, said Romney merely was trying to dramatize his view that President Johnson's administration was presenting a one-sided view of the Vietnam war.

"I think he's raising and has brought into sharp focus a very real issue, which is the public's right to know," Rockefeller said.

Later he rejected a newsman's suggestion that Romney was unable to express his views on major issues clearly.

"I don't think that's a fair statement at all," he said. "Time alone will tell. The public will make the judgment, and this is the whole essence of democracy."

Machine Gun Molly Has Violent Demise

MONTREAL (AP)— Machine Gun Molly, the 29-year-old mother who liked to take her children along on bank hold-ups, died a gunfighter's death Tuesday—on the run and with a sawed-off shotgun and pistols by her side.

As police rifle and machine-gun fire ripped into the getaway car that she wheeled through suburban Montreal streets, Molly plowed into the side of a bus and died. It was not known if the bullets or the crash killed her.

Police said Molly—her real name was Monica Porietti Smith—was able to handle a machinegun "like a commando."

The 95-pound woman was sought for questioning in 20 holdups last year. Police said that on many of them her two children were by her side to throw off suspicion.

The gun battle began after three bandits entered a credit union in Montreal North and robbed it, then fled in Molly's car. Constable Andre Godin spotted the auto, and opened fire through his car's window.

Four other police cruisers took up the chase.

After commandeering another car from Adrien Tremblay, a Montreal city construction inspector, the gunmen took off again, slugging Tremblay and taking $30 from him.

The police picked up their trail and traded rifle and machine-gun fire with them. In one exchange an 11-month-old baby was wounded in the cheek by a stray bullet.

Then Molly hit the bus. Detectives found her dressed in a rain coat and dungarees. Beside Molly in the wrecked auto was $3,500 of the money stolen from the credit union, a sawed off 12-gauge shotgun and two .32-calibre pistols. Her three companions got away.

Rockefeller, who has been backing Romney strongly for the 1968 nomination, said Romney merely was trying to dramatize his view that President Johnson's administration was presenting a one-sided view of the Vietnam war.

To Back Romney Despite Poll Drop

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says he is standing by Michigan's Gov. George Romney, despite a pollster's report that Romney's "brainwashing" remark about the Vietnam war has dropped him to fourth place in the Republican White House standings.

Rockefeller again disclaimed any presidential ambitions of his own when asked to comment Tuesday on the findings of a poll that showed he had replaced Romney as the GOP's strongest potential candidate. "Well, I'm very hopeful that Mr. Romney will come back up in the standings," Rockefeller told a Capitol news conference.

Under questioning, he admitted that he was "very grateful and highly complimented" that people who participated in the poll had expressed support for him.

"But that doesn't influence my decision as regards candidacy," Rockefeller added.

He said his position still was that "I am not nor will I be a candidate."

The Republican governor made these comments on a survey by pollster Louis Harris, who has reported that Romney's remark that he had been "brainwashed" on the Vietnam issue had lowered his rating among potential GOP nominees. The Harris poll listed former

Vice President Richard M. Nixon in second place, behind Rockefeller, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan in third place. Rockefeller, who has been backing Romney strongly for the 1968 nomination, said Romney merely was trying to "dramatize" his view that President Johnson's administration was presenting a one-sided view of the Vietnam war. "I think he's raising and has brought into sharp focus a very real issue, which is the public's right to know," Rockefeller said. Later he rejected a newsman's suggestion that Romney was unable to express his views on major issues clearly. "I don't think that's a fair statement at all," he said. "Time alone will tell. The public will make the judgment, and this is the whole essence of democracy."

Postal Day Stresses Use of ZIP

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk reported today that Postal Services Day, September 20, will highlight those services offered to the community by the local post office.

On Postal Services Day, letter carriers will begin delivering to every householder a kit of eight postal cards which can be mailed back to the post office to obtain the ZIP Codes for "zipless" addresses.

Each completed card will be sent to the post office which serves the address needing a ZIP Code. There the five-digit number will be added before the form is returned to the sender. No postage will be needed on the cards.

Postal Services Day activities will be designed to point out that the Post Office Department is the one federal government agency that comes in closest contact with the public on a day-in-day-out basis.

The postal service is the prime artery of commerce and the tie that binds friends and loved ones across the miles. It is one of the biggest businesses in the world with interests ranging from swearing in Peace Corps volunteers, to watching out for forest fires, and it is the main shipping agency for everything from bees to baby chicks.

"Delivery of the ZIP-A-LIST kit during the celebration of Postal Services Day is in keeping with an event," Newkirk said. "ZIP Code is the key to better service and we want to make it as easy as possible to obtain the codes needed to fill out personal mailing lists."

Each of the eight postal cards in the kit will contain a message encouraging the general use of ZIP Code. There will be a ninth card of instructions. All will be folded together like a ZIP Code readily available to the public.

Last year, approximately 17 per cent of the nation's householders returned 96 million addresses for coding. The Postmaster General reported that many postmasters had informed the department that the ZIP-A-LIST project was an important aspect in making Christmas mailers aware of the importance of using the codes on their holiday mail and as an off-shoot, encouraged early mailing of their gifts and cards.

This resulted in the most successful holiday season in recent postal history. Extra kits will be available at the post office.

In Latin America, a mestizo is one having mixed Indian and European blood.

OBSERVANCE LISTED — Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan (l) this week designated Wednesday, Sept. 20 as Postal Service Day and asked the public to cooperate in the observance. With the mayor is Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr).

Postal Day Stresses Use of ZIP

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk reported today that Postal Services Day, September 20, will highlight those services offered to the community by the local post office.

On Postal Services Day, letter carriers will begin delivering to every householder a kit of eight postal cards which can be mailed back to the post office to obtain the ZIP Codes for "zipless" addresses.

Each completed card will be sent to the post office which services the address needing a ZIP Code. There the five-digit number will be added before the form is returned to the sender.

No postage will be needed on the cards.

Postal Services Day activities will be designed to point out that the Post Office Department is the one federal government agency that comes in closest contact with the public on a day-in-day-out basis.

The postal service is the prime artery of commerce and the tie that binds friends and loved ones across the miles. It is one of the biggest businesses in the world with interests ranging from swearing in Peace Corps volunteers, to watching out for forest fires, and it is the main shipping agency for everything from bees to baby chicks.

"Delivery of the ZIP-A-LIST kit during the celebration of Postal Services Day is in keeping with an event," Newkirk said. "ZIP Code is the key to better service and we want to make it as easy as possible to obtain the codes needed to fill out personal mailing lists."

Each of the eight postal cards in the kit will contain a message encouraging the general use of ZIP Code. There will be a ninth card of instructions. All will be folded together like a closed accordion. There will be perforations between each form.

In addition, another separate card will be delivered along with the kit which is a reminder of the local ZIP Code.

Last year approximately 20,000 addresses were ZIP Coded by the Kingston Post Office as part of a similar program using only one (or two) cards with spaces for as many as 13 addresses. Postmaster Newkirk said.

Nationally, about eight addresses per card were returned during the 1966 project.

The unit cost of entering the code onto each card will be less than the system used in 1966 because no loop-up will be necessary. Every card in the final post office will need the same code, so an inexperienced clerk will be able to simply stamp it on the card and send the form on its return journey.

On an average day, between 175 and 250 million new pieces of mail enter the postal system. It is not expected that more than 10 million of the ZIP-A-LIST cards will be in the system at any one time during the peak periods of mailing. Since they will be handled essentially as ordinary post cards, there will be no burden or dislocation of service.

"The ultimate result will be an improvement in service," Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has said about the project. ZIP Code is the base upon which the modern postal service is being built. But, it won't work and the modernization and efficiencies ZIP Code will bring cannot go into effect until there is more widespread usage of the five-number code. "The ZIP-A-LIST project is

$2,047,000 Mental Health Center Planned for Dutchess County

Some 180,000 Dutchess County residents will be served by their own mental health and mental retardation center, to be constructed at a cost of $2,047,000, Governor Rockefeller announced today.

"Construction of the center, one of two such combined facilities in the state, will be a joint effort of the Dutchess County Community Mental Health Board, the State Department of Mental Hygiene and the National Institute of Mental Health, and the Public Health Service," Governor Rockefeller said.

Agencies that will provide services for the center under the supervision of the local mental health board are the Hudson River State Hospital, Poughkeepsie, where beds are available for patients who require long-term care; St. Francis Hospital psychiatric wing, Poughkeepsie; the Dutchess County Society for Mental Health, and the Astor Home for emotionally disturbed children.

Army Group Sets Meeting At W. Point

The Hudson Valley Chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army will hold its fall meeting this Saturday at Bonaventure Cabin at Round Pond on the U. S. Military Academy Reservation.

Featured at the meeting, which starts at 10:30 a.m., will be a talk by Lieutenant Colonel Martin D. Howell, who is assigned to the Department of Tactics at the Military Academy. Colonel Howell recently returned from Vietnam where he commanded a battalion.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with the Army-Virginia football game. Chapter members who also wish to attend the game and have not yet purchased tickets, should contact the ticket office of the Army Athletic Association directly.

Members are requested to bring picnic lunches with them. Round Pond is off Route 293, west of the West Point traffic circle on Route 9W.

amount to $580,000. The third cost will be borne by the locality and has been budgeted by the Dutchess County Board of Supervisors. The center will be constructed on North Road in Poughkeepsie.

"The center will include space for a mental health clinic, an alcoholism clinic, community educational and consultation services, and a day care unit," Governor Rockefeller said. "Services will be offered for retarded children of pre-school age, for school-age retarded children who are unable to attend public schools and for retarded adults who are able to remain in the community." Dr. Alan D. Miller, state commissioner of mental hygiene, said that inpatient and outpatient care, partial hospitalization, around-the-clock emergency services, diagnostic, rehabilitative, pre-care and after-care services, training, research and evaluation will be integral parts of the center.

In addition to the Dutchess County facility, the only other center in the state to provide combined services for mental health and mental retardation is the one for Rockland County.

Registrations Still Open in UCCC Courses

Registration still is open for a course in Comparative Economic Systems being offered by Ulster County Community College in the evening at its Kingston Classroom Building, 214 West Chestnut Street.

The course will meet on Thursday nights from 7 to 9:40 p.m., starting Thursday, Sept. 21.

Late registration is possible through Thursday, Sept. 21, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the College's Kingston Classroom Building.

The credit course will consist of a study of the present-day economic systems of the United States, Soviet Russia and other major countries. Topics will include approaches to the organization of economic life, the comparison of such economic institutions as banks, labor unions, markets and an analysis of relative rates of economic growth.

Church Council Sets Fall Events

A number of matters of importance to the church community were aired at the Monday night meeting of the Kingston Area Council of Churches held at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. William J. McVey as host pastor.

It was noted that churches interested in participating in the UNICEF Trick or Treat program might secure materials by contacting the Council by mail. The address is Box 703, Uptown Post Office.

The Rev. William A. Studwell, chairman of the Radio Committee, reported that the ministers of the Council churches could participate in the daily meditation which closes WGHQ-FM evening broadcasts.

The Rev. Claire Fredrick Yohe, chaplain of the KACC, reported on his work which officially began Sept. 15. He will be available for counseling to inmates of the county jail and will provide a ministry of visitation and referral of patients who are unchurched in both city hospitals.

Reports Progress

Evan Davis, director of the Human Relations Commission, reported on encouraging signs especially in the area of employment which his commission has made possible for minority group representatives. He cited the dire need for immediate housing for at least 15 families.

Mention was also made of the significant work being carried out at the New Central Baptist Church in providing a day care center for preschool children whose parents are absent during the day because of employment.

A letter of invitation from Everett Hodge, president of the NAACP of Kingston, was read requesting representation from the Council to the annual meeting to be held Oct. 8. A representative will be appointed and members encouraged to attend.

Reformation Service

It was determined that council members encourage their respective congregations to unite with the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer congregation in the celebration of the 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation. A service will be held in that church Sunday night, Oct. 29. This occasion also marks the 70th anniversary of the founding of the Church of the Redeemer.

It was noted that Monday, Oct. 2, Robert Levine of the United States Department of State will be present to speak in the George Washington School auditorium on the Vietnam issue. This meeting will be sponsored by areas Lions Clubs as a public service.

In addition to church delegates the Rev. Harold F. Schadevall, pastor of the Hunley Reformed Church, and Allan Dumas of that church were present.

New Paltz Freshmen Meet High Standards

Three out of five freshmen who will enter State University College, New Paltz, this fall, stood in the top fifth of their high school classes and over a quarter of the new class placed in the top tenth, Dr. McDonald Egdford, College Admissions director, said today.

Last year, 52 per cent placed in the top fifth and 20 per cent in the top tenth, Dr. Egdford said.

The steady rise in the quality of applicants is attributed to the increasing prestige of the State University of New York in general and to the strengthening of faculties at all the University's four-year colleges as well as at New Paltz. Other factors at New Paltz have been the addition of numerous liberal arts majors which attract students who would previously have gone to private colleges; greater numbers of campus programs and cultural events; construction of new buildings and facilities which reflect the progress of academic growth; and better service to high schools by additional admissions counselors from the College.

As in the past, nearly 100 per cent of the incoming students are from the top half of their class.

Rank in class standing is accepted as one of the best measures of potential success in college.

Other indicators of student body quality are high school averages which show that 53 per cent of the new students at New Paltz this year averaged over 85 in all subjects compared to 33 per cent last fall; and State University admissions examinations on which 56 per cent of the students scored over 190 against 46 per cent last year.

More than 500 new freshmen will enter this fall and another 500 in January when new residence halls will be completed.

Tide's In

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—Yellowstone National Park has Old Faithful, but Charleston has two geysers—not so faithful.

At irregular intervals at high tide, two sewers at a Charleston intersection discharge streams of water at heights up to 15 feet. The cause is the collision of waste in the sewers with tidal water.

The pressure forces the streams of the water up through the perforations in the manhole covers.

The Charleston Waterworks Department says plans have been made to remedy the situation, but for the present the manholes are disinfected continuously.

Some 180,000 Dutchess County residents will be served by their own mental health and mental retardation center, to be constructed at a cost of $2,047,000, Governor Rockefeller announced today.

Brave Beagle

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — The beagle barked frantically early in the morning trying to wake its mistress who had studied late the night before.

Charles Taylor, 18-year-old Contra Costa College student, finally was awakened by the barking and jumping on her bed Monday by 5-month-old Marty.

Miss Taylor opened the bedroom door of her second-floor apartment and was met by a wall of flame. She wrapped a blanket around her shoulders and raced through the living room and front door.

Neighbors ripped the burning blanket from her.

Community Centers

The Kingston Jewish Community Center is part of the Ulster County Community Chest. It is a membership organization and derives its program funds from dues and from chest allocations.

To keep pace with its expanding programs and membership the center has gone from a small rented facility on Wall Street in 1950 to its present building which was acquired in 1962. To further expand summer activities, the center in 1959 acquired its own campsite located on 124 acres in Hurley, New York. A nursery school which has been in existence since 1947 has been located in its own building on Center premises since 1963. Scholarships for the Center, Camp and Nursery School are available.

Programs during this past year have appealed to the widest possible range of age groups and interests. A championship quality basketball team was developed with the help of lay and professional coaching and this year was also highlighted by the organization of an active tournament bridge group which saw community wide participation. Other activities where the Center supplies facilities and/or leadership are teen-programs, golden age clubs, fine art classes, a junior game room, hobby and craft clubs and bowling leagues.

Whenever a special interest is shown, the Center endeavors to secure instructors or assists in creating programs.

Morse Slated For Talk in Dutchess Sept. 21

One of President Johnson's most severest critics on the Vietnam War, Senator Wayne Morse, will deliver a speech tomorrow titled "United States Policy in Vietnam," to lead off this year's Lyceum series at Dutchess County Community College in Poughkeepsie.

The Oregon Democrat will speak at 1 p. m. to an audience of Dutchess students, faculty, and invited guests.

"I shall continue to protest this war," Senator Morse said recently in Washington. "I shall continue to vote against giving the President any vote of confidence for what I think is an inexcusable course of action involving us in the war in South Vietnam in the absence of a declaration of war."

Reared on a farm in Wisconsin, Morse, a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, earned a degree from the University of Minnesota and Columbia University in New York City. While at Columbia, he produced a doctoral dissertation on the American grand jury system that has become a standard work on that subject.

A Republican when he was elected to the Senate in 1944, Morse resigned from the party during his second term in office and, after a period as an independent, joined the Democratic party and was reelected in 1956 and 1962 by decisive margins.

'LIGHTNING' STRIKES TWICE!

Israel's lightning campaign in the Middle East knocked out the massed Arab armies in six days and resulted, among other things, in the amazingly fast production of several books on the war.

Among the first of these, and actually first among the hardbacks, was The Associated Press volume called "Lightning Out of Israel."

Hardly had it reached the reviewers when lightning struck again—this time the unpredictable lightning of critical acclaim. Here are a few of the things the critics have been saying about it:

• Saturday Review: "In many ways the best of the (first three books published)."

• Quill: "History come alive in a book to read slowly and savor, for it combines the beauty of the photographer's art, the solemnity of the Bible, the clank of military armor."

• Jewish Telegraph Agency: "Beautifully written, lavishly illustrated."

• Miami Herald: "A piece of work that deserves to live beyond the moment."

• Charleston Post: "The reader will wonder how so much detail, so many facts, so many individual stories could be brought together and presented in such a short period of time."

Brave Beagle

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — The beagle barked frantically early in the morning trying to wake its mistress who had studied late the night before.

Cherlee Taylor, 18-year-old Contra Costa College student, finally was awakened by the barking and jumping on her bed Monday by 5-month-old Marty.

Miss Taylor opened the bedroom door of her second-floor apartment and was met by a wall of flame. She wrapped a blanket around her shoulders and raced through the living room and front door.

Neighbors ripped the burning blanket from her.

Morse Slated For Talk in Dutchess Sept. 21

One of President Johnson's most severest critics on the Vietnam War, Senator Wayne Morse, will deliver a speech tomorrow titled "United States Policy in Vietnam," to lead off this year's Lyceum series at Dutchess County Community College in Poughkeepsie.

The Oregon Democrat will speak at 1 p. m. to an audience of Dutchess students, faculty, and invited guests.

"I shall continue to protest this war," Senator Morse said recently in Washington. "I shall continue to vote against giving the President any vote of confidence for what I think is an inexcusable course of action involving us in the war in South Vietnam in the absence of a declaration of war."

Reared on a farm in Wisconsin, Morse, a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, earned a degree from the University of Minnesota and Columbia University in New York City. While at Columbia, he produced a doctoral dissertation on the American grand jury system that has become a standard work on that subject.

A Republican when he was elected to the Senate in 1944, Morse resigned from the party during his second term in office and, after a period as an independent, joined the Democratic party and was reelected in 1956 and 1962 by decisive margins.

The Kingston Jewish Community Center is part of the Ulster County Community Chest. It is a membership organization and derives its program funds from dues and from chest allocations.

To keep pace with its expanding programs and membership the center has gone from a small rented facility on Wall Street in 1950 to its present building which was acquired in 1962. To further expand summer activities, the center in 1959 acquired its own campsite located on 124 acres in Hurley, New York. A nursery school which has been in existence since 1947 has been located in its own building on Center premises since 1963. Scholarships for the Center, Camp and Nursery School are available.

Programs during this past year have appealed to the widest possible range of age groups and interests. A championship quality basketball team was developed with the help of lay and professional coaching and this year was also highlighted by the organization of an active tournament bridge group which saw community wide participation. Other activities where the Center supplies facilities and/or leadership are teen-programs, golden age clubs, fine art classes, a junior game room, hobby and craft clubs and bowling leagues.

Whenever a special interest is shown, the Center endeavors to secure instructors or assists in creating programs.

Yellow Mice Plague Farmers in Yugoslavia

PRIBOJ, Yugoslavia (AP) — Voracious yellow mice have chomped through nearly 200 miles of planted corn, rye, wheat, beans and potatoes in the last month—while farmers watched, angry but helpless.

The mice have devastated a substantial swath of cropland from Sarajevo to Priboj in this country of 98,674 square miles, slightly larger than Wyoming.

Hemorrhagic fever carried by the swarm struck 150 persons west of Priboj in Bosnia and Montenegro and three of them died. Other contagious diseases that leap from mice to insects to people were also feared, and health officials planned a thorough disinfection of village houses.

The rapid propagation of mice this year is blamed on the virtual extermination of such mice eaters as martens and foxes: No practical ways of killing the mice have yet been found.

At the crossroad of the Serbia, Bosnia-Herzegovina and Montenegro republics the mice cut the yields of wheat by 80 per cent. Both people and cattle of the area will have to get food from other areas.

An area of about 24,700 acres, the tillage of 2,500 farmers, appears to be the next fertile target for the mice.

The rodents feast mainly on corn, rye, maize and wheat but also have eaten tomatoes, beans and shallowly-planted potatoes. In some unravaged sections peasants jerked up unripened potatoes before the pests struck. The total damage to crops has not been announced by the government but it was near $500,000 last week. The impact of the pestilence has been greater because of a drought that has kept crops meager this year. Some experts fear the mice will eat up all the area's crops. The republican institution for protection of plants plans to demand $16,000 a year from the Serbian republican Secretariat for Agriculture to develop measures to head off similar disasters in the future.

AT ARMORY DEDICATION — Carl J. Vinitsky, left, an employee of International Business Machines, witnessed the dedication recently at New Brunswick, N. J. of the first National Guard Armory in the nation to be leased to a city for community use in line with Vice President Humphrey's proposal to provide more municipal recreation programs. From left: Vinitsky of Route 9W, Kingston, Joseph Penska of Motorola TV; Mayor Patricia Q. Sheehan of New Brunswick, Vice President Humphrey and Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey. Two of the Highest Paying Jobs in the Country Become Vacant This Month, Both at General Motors

DETROIT (AP) — Two of the highest paid jobs in the country are expected to become vacant this month.

The jobs are those of board chairman and president of General Motors, at about $750,000 a year each.

Frederic G. Donner, board chairman and chief executive officer of GM since Sept. 1, 1958, will reach retirement age, 65, Oct. 4. Two days prior to that, GM's 25-man board of directors will meet in New York to discuss his successor.

The directors might amend GM's bylaws to give Donner another year on the job, but this possibility is regarded as remote.

Most insiders believe that James M. Roche, 60, who became GM president in June 1965 will be moved up.

If that happens, the directors are expected to dip into the ranks of GM vice presidents to pick the company's 14th president. Four names are mentioned most frequently as possible candidates in autodom's favorite guessing game.

In alphabetical order, they are:

Semon E. Knudson, 54, executive vice president in charge of nonautomotive, Canadian and overseas operations, and son of the late William S. Knudson, a president of GM. Semon Knudson took the Pontiac Division when it was practically on the floor and built it back into a powerful arm of GM's automotive empire.

Edward D. Rollert, 55, executive vice president in charge of the car and truck and body assembly divisions, who injected new life into the Buick division during six years as its general manager.

George Russell, 62, executive vice president for finance activities since 1958. GM traditionally has emphasized solid financial training in choosing men for its top jobs and Russell meets the requirements.

Donnor and his two predecessors as board chairman, Alfred Bradley and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., were regarded as strongest in the financial field.

Safety studies show that more than half of fatal farm machinery accidents involve persons under 15 or over 55.

1968 Chevrolets

The 1968 Chevrolets are the very essence of modern design. Every line, every curve is in close harmony. It's a smooth, uncluttered look with roof lines compatible with body lines, grilles and bumpers that blend gracefully into long, rounded fenders. Clean, flowing, beautiful in their simplicity, these '68 Chevrolets are rich and advanced in styling beyond any you've ever seen.

A MORE SILENT RIDE

And for 1968, we've gone to every length to give you more peace and quiet inside. The most sophisticated computers have been used to strategically place body mounts and successfully isolate noise and vibration. Shock absorbers have been improved. The wheel stance on many models is wider for greater smoothness. Exhaust systems have been redesigned to make them whisper-quiet. Even the clocks tick more softly. A sound car is a silent car. The '68 Chevrolets are the most silent, highest quality cars we've ever built.

BETTER PERFORMANCE

There are new engines, a bigger standard Six and V8. There's a new 250-hp V8 you can order that runs on regular fuel. Many new components increase engine dependability. There's a new rear axle ratio you can add for greater economy. On most engines equipped with automatic transmissions, there's a special heater for the carburetor which gives you more efficient performance in cold weather. And with every engine, you get the new GM exhaust emission control.

UNIQUE ASTRO VENTILATION

There's a whole new idea in ventilation, called Astro Ventilation, for Camaro, Corvette and the elegant Caprice Coupe. It's also available on many other models. By opening two new vent-ports on the instrument panel, you bring in outside air that can be directed where you want it. This way, you can leave your windows rolled up and add still more to your quiet.

PROVED SAFETY FEATURES

You get the proved GM-developed energy absorbing steering column, folding front seat back latches, dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, plus many more new features.

Among them: energy absorbing front seat backs, and safety armrests that shield the door handles.

MUCH MORE THAT'S NEW

There are new roof lines, some formal and graceful, others sporty and quick. There are new instrument panels, richly designed and all controls within easy reach. There are new interiors, new vinyls, new fabrics, new colors. There are models with Hide-A-Way windshield wipers and headlights that disappear behind grilles. There are new side marker lamps, new recessed taillights. There's even a new ignition alarm buzzer that reminds you not to walk away and leave your keys in the car.

These are the newest, the most different, the most dramatically changed Chevrolets ever. And they're at your Chevrolet dealer's now. You'll thoroughly enjoy slipping behind the wheel, experiencing the smooth new handling and library-quiet ride and, more than anything, seeing and feeling the even greater quality built into every new Chevrolet for 1968.

Be smart! Be sure! Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

There's more quality and value built into Chevrolets than ever before, making every new 1968 model an even better buy!

Two of the Highest Paying Jobs in the Country Become Vacant This Month, Both at General Motors

DETROIT (AP) — Two of the highest paid jobs in the country are expected to become vacant this month.

The jobs are those of board chairman and president of General Motors, at about $750,000 a year each.

Frederic G. Donner, board chairman and chief executive officer of GM since Sept. 1, 1958, will reach retirement age, 65, Oct. 4. Two days prior to that, GM's 25-man board of directors will meet in New York to discuss his successor.

The directors might amend GM's bylaws to give Donner another year on the job, but this possibility is regarded as remote.

Most insiders believe that James M. Roche, 60, who became GM president in June 1965 will be moved up.

If that happens, the directors are expected to dip into the ranks of GM vice presidents to pick the company's 14th president. Four names are mentioned most frequently as possible candidates in automom's favorite guessing game.

In alphabetical order, they are:

Semon E. Knudson, 54, executive vice president in charge of nonautomotive, Canadian and overseas operations, and son of the late William S. Knudsen, a president of GM. Semon Knudson took the Pontiac Division when it was practically on the floor and built it back into a powerful arm of GM's automotive empire.

Edward D. Rollert, 55, executive vice president in charge of the car and truck and body assembly divisions, who injected new life into the Buick division during six years as its general manager.

George Russell, 62, executive vice president for finance activities since 1958. GM traditionally has emphasized solid financial training in choosing men for its top jobs and Russell meets the requirements.

Donnor and his two predecessors as board chairman, Alfred Bradley and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., were regarded as strongest in the financial field.

Safety studies show that more than half of fatal farm machinery accidents involve persons under 15 or over 55.

Chichester

CHICHESTER — Miss Helen Bennett and brother Earl spent a few days in Binghamton recently. Bennett visited an old Army friend at Marathon.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Baringer have moved into the George Meister house which they purchased from him.

James Dills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napier Dills returned to Syracuse University last week after spending the summer with his parents.

1968 Chevrolets

The 1968 Chevrolets are the very essence of modern design. Every line, every curve is in close harmony. It's a smooth, uncluttered look with roof lines compatible with body lines, grilles and bumpers that blend gracefully into long, rounded fenders. Clean, flowing, beautiful in their simplicity, these '68 Chevrolets are rich and advanced in styling beyond any you've ever seen.

A MORE SILENT RIDE

And for 1968, we've gone to every length to give you more peace and quiet inside. The most sophisticated computers have been used to strategically place body mounts and successfully isolate noise and vibration. Shock absorbers have been improved. The wheel stance on many models is wider for greater smoothness. Exhaust systems have been redesigned to make them whisper-quiet. Even the clocks tick more softly. A sound car is a silent car. The '68 Chevrolets are the most silent, highest quality cars we've ever built.

BETTER PERFORMANCE

There are new engines, a bigger standard Six and V8. There's a new 250-hp V8 you can order that runs on regular fuel. Many new components increase engine dependability. There's a new rear axle ratio you can add for greater economy. On most engines equipped with automatic transmissions, there's a special heater for the carburetor which gives you more efficient performance in cold weather. And with every engine, you get the new GM exhaust emission control.

UNIQUE ASTRO VENTILATION

There's a whole new idea in ventilation, called Astro Ventilation, for Camaro, Corvette and the elegant Caprice Coupe. It's also available on many other models. By opening two new vent-ports on the instrument panel, you bring in outside air that can be directed where you want it. This way, you can leave your windows rolled up and add still more to your quiet.

PROVED SAFETY FEATURES

You get the proved GM-developed energy absorbing steering column, folding front seat back latches, dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, plus many more new features.

Among them: energy absorbing front seat backs, and safety armrests that shield the door handles.

MUCH MORE THAT'S NEW

There are new roof lines, some formal and graceful, others sporty and quick. There are new instrument panels, richly designed and all controls within easy reach. There are new interiors, new vinyls, new fabrics, new colors. There are models with Hide-A-Way windshield wipers and headlights that disappear behind grilles. There are new side marker lamps, new recessed taillights. There's even a new ignition alarm buzzer that reminds you not to walk away and leave your keys in the car.

These are the newest, the most different, the most dramatically changed Chevrolets ever. And they're at your Chevrolet dealer's now. You'll thoroughly enjoy slipping behind the wheel, experiencing the smooth new handling and library-quiet ride and, more than anything, seeing and feeling the even greater quality built into every new Chevrolet for 1968.

Ulster Library Group Elects

Four new directors, Alan Coles, Frank Oneta, Walter Houle and Olav Sande were elected to succeed Mrs. Olav Sande, Mrs. Edmund Frawley, Mrs. Robert Bondar and Bruce Burgher, whose terms had expired.

The new Directors, together with Robert Olson, Mrs. Robert Gorsline, William H. Williams, Mrs. Gerald Woodvine, Edward Crosby, Richard Nace and Mrs. Michael Maxson, elected their officers for the ensuing year. Richard Nace will serve as president of the new board, assisted by Allan Coles as vice president, Frank Oneta, secretary and Robert Olson, treasurer.

At this meeting plans were further formulated for the first annual buffet dance of the library which will be held in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday evening, Oct. 28. All citizens of the town are invited to attend and ensure the permanency of this event.

Tickets are presently available at the library. Bruce Burgher and Mrs. Maxson, Town Historians, will present the first reading of the town's formation and what it was like "Fifty Years Ago in the Town of Ulster." Since this is the very first attempt at documenting a history of the town it should have much appeal for the citizenry.

75 Other Countries Conduct 4-H Program

What do 2½ million American boys and girls have in common with youth on six continents? The answer, says Carlton Conklin, Ulster County extension agent, is 4-H. He also points out that 4-H and 4-H-like programs are benefitting 75 countries throughout the world.

National 4-H Week to be observed in the United States, Sept. 30-Oct. 7, will salute 4-H'ers everywhere. With its theme—4-H, a World of Opportunity—activities will focus on local, state, national and international achievements of the head, heart, hands and health program.

Locally, Agent Conklin says, 4-H Week activities will emphasize the opportunities 4-H offers the boy or girl 9-19 years of age. Exhibits and displays will feature the work or current 4-H members. Several events and activities are designed to encourage other youth to join 4-H.

According to the county extension agent, now is a good time to join 4-H. Clubs are reorganizing for the new year and new clubs are being formed in the county. County Extension Office, 74 John Street, may be contacted for help in joining a club or starting a new club.

Locally, the 4-H Week observance will relate the important contributions made to the 4-H program by volunteer leaders and encourage capable men and women to lead 4-H Clubs.

Statewide and nationally, the week's observance will include a 4-H report to the nation, recognition of friends of 4-H and a drive to expand the 4-H program.

Internationally, the vitality of 4-H is demonstrated through the International Farm Youth Exchange program which has operated in 68 countries. 4-H'ers now in the Peace Corps and through 4-H sister clubs and pen pals activities.

Ulster Library Group Elects

Four new directors, Alan Coles, Frank Oneta, Walter Houle and Olav Sande were elected to succeed Mrs. Olav Sande, Mrs. Edmund Frawley, Mrs. Robert Bondar and Bruce Burgher, whose terms had expired.

The new Directors, together with Robert Olson, Mrs. Robert Gorsline, William H. Williams, Mrs. Gerald Woodvine, Edward Crosby, Richard Nace and Mrs. Michael Maxson, elected their officers for the ensuing year. Richard Nace will serve as president of the new board, assisted by Allan Coles as vice president, Frank Oneta, secretary and Robert Olson, treasurer.

At this meeting plans were further formulated for the first annual buffet dance of the library which will be held in the Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday evening, Oct. 28. All citizens of the town are invited to attend and ensure the permanency of this event.

Tickets are presently available at the library. Bruce Burgher and Mrs. Maxson, Town Historians, will present the first reading of the town's formation and what it was like "Fifty Years Ago in the Town of Ulster." Since this is the very first attempt at documenting a history of the town it should have much appeal for the citizenry.

Honor City Man As Safe Driver For Humble Oil

PELHAM—Roland J. Maxin of 150 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston, has been recognized by Humble Oil & Refining Company for achieving 5 years of accident-free driving. Maxin is associated with the company's marketing office in Kingston.

Paul Remick Jr., operations manager of Humble's eight-state Northeastern Region, indicated that the awards are made annually to recognize vehicular driving accomplishments of employees under the company's safety program.

"The best designed vehicle on the road is only as safe as the man behind the wheel," Remick stated here in announcing the award. "Our safe driving training stresses defensive driving techniques and the need to watch out for the other fellow. The practice of avoiding trouble by anticipating it enables our trucks and automobiles to achieve some 21 million miles of safe driving annually."

Saugerties Agent Attends Sessions

Ariel L. Mills of Saugerties, local representative for Mutual of Omaha, is one of eleven agents who recently attended a Mass Marketing Sales Clinic at the company's home office in Omaha, Nebraska.

During the three-day clinic, there was instruction in advanced methods and techniques to enable each representative to expand his activities of personalized service to the policy owner. There was also group discussion to exchange field ideas in both individual and group coverage.

Mills is associated with the J. H. Risko Agency in Poughkeepsie.

HEADS HOME BUILDERS — Vincent Brancato, right, of Wappingers Falls, was re-elected president of the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley, Inc., last week during the first meeting of the new season at the Rhoda Arms, Newburgh. Benjamin S. Preisman, president of the New York State Home Builders Association, installed the new officers. Also re-elected were Vice President Norman Myles, LaGrangeville; Secretary Robert Hankin, Poughkeepsie; and Treasurer John E. Jakuba, Hopewell Junction. Guy Torsone, Highland was elected a vice president.

ATTEND APPLIANCE SHOW — Greeted by E. B. Barnes (R), vice president and general manager of Kelvinator Division of American Motors Corporation is Vincent Stock, president of K. & S. Electric, Inc., 70 Franklin Street, Kingston. He attended the national showing of new Kelvinator room air-conditioners at the Stardust in Las Vegas. Dealers were told that despite unseasonably cool weather this summer in much of the nation, Kelvinator air-conditioner sales in 1967 have broken all records. Mrs. Stock (C) accompanied her husband.

Aluminum Cable Is Installed at Vidi-Comm Site

A completely new aluminum clad transmission cable being installed from the antenna site on Mt. Airy to the cable system in Saugerties is in the final stages of completion, announced Donald Baker, manager of Vidi-Comm.

This newly developed coaxial cable is designed to bring improved picture quality to all Vidi-Comm subscribers.

The five mile run of cable was started in early August and is scheduled for completion by the end of the month.

With the advent of color TV, explained Baker, and the need for clearer, sharper signals, Vidi-Comm engineers redesigned and installed a completely new transmission system that will guarantee the same picture quality at every cable user's set as is picked up at the tower site on Mt. Airy.

Vidi-Comm, now in its eighth year of servicing the residents of Saugerties, take this step as another move in bringing the finest cable TV reception possible to this remote TV reception area. Vidi-Comm, long known as the most modern up-to-date cable system in this part of New York State, has constantly updated its service to the public by continually adding the newest and most modern electronic equipment to insure the best cable TV pictures possible.

Baker also announced that plans are being finalized to extend the Vidi-Comm service to the Veteran area in the near future.

OPENS NEW OFFICE — Hundreds of people visited the new Benson A. Krom real estate, insurance and home building office on East Chester Street by-pass during grand opening on Saturday, Sept. 16. Visitors included Town of Ulster Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, Mrs. Musialkiewicz, Town Clerk, Alma Macholdt and husband; Joseph Lohmaier and Roy Crosby, assessors; Supervisor Charles Relyea, Town of Hurley, and Mrs. Relyea. Bankers, attorneys, other insurance agents and realtors extended greetings of good luck to Krom. Visitors were shown through the offices by staff members, who served refreshments on the lawn. Ladies received roses and children toys. Flowers and gifts were displayed from Adele Royael, president of the Ulster County Board of Realtors, banks, insurance companies, friends, suppliers and Krom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Krom. Attending the grand opening were (l-r) Mrs. Musialkiewicz, Supervisor Musialkiewicz, Krom and Mrs. Macholdt.

Bank Treasurer Was Speaker at Virginia Meet

George D. Reisenauer, treasurer of the Kingston Trust Company, was a speaker recently at the Short Course in Bank Auditing sponsored by The Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operations.

This short course, held in Richmond, Va., is one of three regional sessions held annually. This intensive course is restricted to 50 bankers whose major activity is the audit function of their respective banks. Bankers from 23 states attended this year's session.

Reisenauer's topic was Loan and Collateral Auditing. The emphasis in his lectures was the practical application of auditing principles to the problems facing today's auditor.

Reisenauer has completed his professional education with the American Institute of Banking in Commercial Banking and in Investment Banking. He is now conducting classes locally for the American Institute of Banking.

Reisenauer, who has been with the Kingston Trust Company for 12 years, resides in High Falls with his wife Mary, and four children: Eric, Mary, Lauren and Elise.

Urban Renewal Sells Bonds; Also Meets With Officials

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency had a busy day Tuesday, selling preliminary loan notes at 1 p. m., conferring with Nathaniel Parish of Raymond & May Associates and an evening discussion meeting with city, federal and agency members in attendance.

Ward Tongue, acting executive director, announced the sale of Preliminary Loan Notes, 2nd Series B for the Uptown Project, in the amount of $1,948,000 to Brown Brothers, Harriman & Company of New York who offered an interest rate of 3.08 per cent. Other bids were received from John Nuveen & Company, First National Bank of Boston who bid 3.11 per cent with $39 premium; from First National City Bank, New York who bid 3.20 per cent with $56 premium; and from Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, New York who bid 3.23 per cent with a premium of $51.

Tongue said the proceeds from the sale will be used to proceed with the execution phase of the Uptown Urban Renewal Project.

The evening session was attended by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan; Alderman James F. Howard—majority leader of the Common Council; Alderman John Machione—minority leader; G. Scott Alexander, Cora Miller, Peter Keresman, Henry F. Millonig and Elmore Yalkum, agency members; Thomas J. Wickman, city engineer; Brinnier & Larios, the agency's engineering consultants; Nathaniel J. Parish; George A. Beck, agency counsel; and Stanley Freeman, Al Blackwell and Peter Harkin from the New York office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Both the Broadway East and Uptown Projects have been restored to full execution status by the Federal government. Ideas were advanced for the steps to be taken to carry out both projects. The recommendations will be considered by the Agency Board at its regular meeting tonight.

G. Scott Alexander, chairman of the agency, assured those present that the agency would work closely with all City, State and Federal agencies to accomplish a successful renewal program.

Accord Reached In 10 Week News Strike at Utica

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—The publisher of the Utica Observer-Dispatch Inc. newspaper said today agreement had been reached on the key issue that touched off the 10 - week - old strike against the papers.

Herman Moecker said a seven-hour bargaining session between management and the 14-member Printing Pressmen's Union, Local 62, had resulted in an agreement in the number of men to man new presses to be installed in the spring.

The Printing Pressmen struck the morning Daily Press and afternoon and Sunday Observer-Dispatch July 13 over the manning issue.

The pressmen later were joined by members of the American Newspaper Guild and the stereotypers and photoengravers unions. The printers union has honored picket lines.

All of the unions are without contracts and all are seeking higher wages.

Moecker said all non-economic issues, except those of the guild now had been resolved.

A meeting with the guild representatives was arranged for later today.

Aggregate Plant Strike Settled

Settlement of a seven-week-old strike at Hudson Valley Lightweight Aggregate Company in Mount Marion has been announced.

A company spokesman said this morning that negotiations were reached last Saturday in the wage dispute which idled 24 persons.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its decline in active trading early Wednesday.

Declines outnumbered advances by about 100 issues. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off more than 2 points.

The slide that got under way Tuesday was not unexpected after a sustained advance. Brokers said the market was bound to pause although none of the fundamental buying persuasions, notably the growing threat of inflation, has changed.

Motors dipped fractionally with Ford off about half a point.

Urban Renewal Sells Bonds; Also Meets With Officials

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency had a busy day Tuesday, selling preliminary loan notes at 1 p. m., conferring with Nathaniel Parish of Raymond & May Associates and an evening discussion meeting with city, federal and agency members in attendance.

Ward Tongue, acting executive director, announced the sale of Preliminary Loan Notes, 2nd Series B for the Uptown Project, in the amount of $1,948,000 to Brown Brothers, Harriman & Company of New York who offered an interest rate of 3.08 per cent.

Other bids were received from John Nuveen & Company, First National Bank of Boston who bid 3.11 per cent with $59 premium; from First National City Bank, New York who bid 3.20 per cent with $56 premium; and from Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, New York who bid 3.23 per cent with a premium of $51.

Tongue said the proceeds from the sale will be used to proceed with the execution phase of the Uptown Urban Renewal Project.

The evening session was attended by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan; Alderman James F. Howard—majority leader of the Common Council; Alderman John Macchione—minority leader; G. Scott Alexander, Cora Miller, Peter Keresman, Henry F. Millonig and Elmore Faltum, agency members; Thomas J. Wickman, city engineer; Brinnier & Larico, the agency's engineering consultants; Nathaniel J. Parish; George A. Beck, agency counsel; and Stanley Freeman, Al Blackwell and Peter Harkin from the New York office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Both the Broadway East and Uptown Projects have been restored to full execution status by the Federal government. Ideas were advanced for the steps to be taken to carry out both projects. The recommendations will be considered by the Agency Board at its regular meeting tonight.

G. Scott Alexander, chairman of the agency, assured those present that the agency would work closely with all City, State and Federal agencies to accomplish a successful renewal program.

Accord Reached In 10 Week News Strike at Utica

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — The publisher of the Utica Observer-Dispatch Inc. newspaper said today agreement had been reached on the key issue that touched off the 10-week-old strike against the papers.

Herman Moecker said a seven-hour bargaining session between management and the 14-member Printing Pressmen's Union, Local 62, had resulted in an agreement in the number of men to man new presses to be installed in the spring.

The Printing Pressmen struck the morning Daily Press and afternoon and Sunday Observer-Dispatch July 15 over the manning issue.

The pressmen later were joined by members of the American Newspaper Guild and the stereotypers and photoengravers unions. The printers union has honored picket lines.

All of the unions are seeking contracts and all are without higher wages.

Moecker said all non-economic issues, except those of the guild now had been resolved.

Aggregate Plant Strike Settled

Settlement of a seven-week-old strike at Hudson Valley Lightweight Aggregate Company in Mount Marion has been announced.

A company spokesman said this morning that negotiations were reached last Saturday in the wage dispute which idled 24 persons.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its decline in active trading early Wednesday.

Declines outnumbered advances by about 100 issues. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off more than 2 points.

The slide that got under way Tuesday was not unexpected after a sustained advance. Brokers said the market was bound to pause although none of the fundamental buying persuasions, notably the growing threat of inflation, has changed.

Motors dipped fractionally with Ford off about half a point.

New UR Board Under Fire

By HUGH REYNOLDS
City Hall Reporter

And the beat goes on. The beating on Kingston's urban renewal program, that is.

The previous agency left in a hail of criticism and storm warnings are up for the one Mayor Garraghan appointed on the 12th. One member, Orrie Riehl, lasted less than three days.

Two other members, Scott Alexander and Henry Millonig, are under fire. Critics say they're in a family way in regards to Kingston Plaza. Alexander married into the Herzog family. Millonig is an in-law of the Shults clan.

Between them, the Herzogs and the Shults own or control a major part of Kingston Plaza. Uptown Urban renewal is intrinsically tied with the plaza.

Peter Keresman has been spared so far but that doesn't mean he's home free. That leaves Mrs. Cora Miller, potentially, on the surface, the critics' best choice.

Mrs. Miller has worked for the mayor as a maid. Most recently she was called out to Cape Cod to take care of the mayor's daughter's children while the mayor's daughter was having another baby.

So Mayor Garraghan and Mrs. Miller are well acquainted which the mayor considers a definite advantage. Garraghan is strong in his support of Mrs. Miller: "Sure she worked for me. I've known her for years. I wasn't about to appoint someone on that board that I didn't know. She's one of the best candidates black or white, that I could have gotten."

Mrs. Vera VanDyke of 12

Stuyvesant Street, often an outspoken critic of Mayor Garraghan in the past, is solidly behind him in his choice of Mrs. Miller. Says Mrs. VanDyke, "He couldn't have done any better."

Anyway you cut it, Garraghan stood to get blasted no matter whom he appointed. The political winds are blowing up a storm and urban renewal is a natural. It's too bad. A lot of people had a lot of hopes for at City Hall. Max put in 38 years on the hill and it's hard to imagine him lazing in the sun in Florida.

The retirement dinner for Max Oppenheimer was an unqualified success with 140 persons honoring the assistant superintendent of the Board of Public Works at the Gov. Clinton, the 14th. The committee of ex-mayors gave an indication of the bi-partisan esteem in which Max was held by his co-workers at City Hall. Max put in 38 years on the hill and it's hard to imagine him lazing in the sun in Florida. Special thanks go to June Diamond and Mrs. Woodrow Diehl, co-chairmen. June, the mayor's secretary, is the "party girl" at City Hall. Anytime there's a testimonial dinner to be had, June gets the call. This last one was typical of the fine job she always turns in.

For Private Business Funds

Dems Seek Backing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democrats running the Constitutional Convention searched within their own ranks today for the few more votes they need to pass a measure that would liberalize restrictions on use of government funds to help private enterprise.

Their objective was to round out a convention program designed to permit the state to provide financial help to private interests willing to build housing and carry out other projects aimed at refurbishing city slum areas.

Convention President Anthony J. Travia decided to postpone action on the measure Tuesday when a tally showed Democrats a few votes shy of the 94 needed for passage. A principal snag was said to be concern over the recurring church-state issue. The matter was put over until today and slated for action after the convention disposes of final approval of a proposed Bill of Rights.

The adjournment-bound delegates received something more to ponder Tuesday when Gov. Rockefeller expressed himself in favor of repeal of the so-called Blaine Amendment and suggested that the repeal measure and six other controversial proposals be submitted to the electorate separately.

The Republican governor told a news conference he was "prepared to support" repeal of Blaine, which forbids use of state funds to aid church-related institutions. He qualified that expression of support, however, by saying he would do so if the question were "put up separately."

Rockefeller's position conflicts with that of Travia, who has talked only of sending a single document to the voters in November.

Among the proposals the governor wants submitted independently are ones dealing with in-state takeover of the cost of operating all courts and the costs of all local welfare programs, plus a measure calling for free college educations for all New Yorkers. All three are Travia-originated projects.

Republicans bridled in anger and dismay when Democrats forced the welfare and higher education proposals through the convention. For that reason alone, they figure to grow more controversial as election day draws closer.

The major article on which action was postponed Tuesday deals with so-called "gifts and loans" of state funds.

Rockefeller asked the convention to help make it easier for the state to provide money and credit - guarantees to help private interests build new housing and other "public-benefit" facilities in run-down areas.

The article under consideration would authorize such assistance to help in programs including education.

Life Expectancy Cut By Lack of Exercise

Lack of exercise is probably reducing the American male's life expectancy by as much as five years, asserted Dr. Jean Mayer, professor of nutrition at the Harvard University School of Public Health.

Despite a four-fold increase in public and private expenditures on health in the United States since 1949, there has been no concomitant increase in life expectancy, he said.

The 68.3-year expectancy for the American male ranks him 37th among his counterparts in other civilized nations of the world. Eighteen years ago he was in 11th place.

In Norway, Israel, and New Zealand, males can expect to live to 75, he said, while Russia and her European satellites show a higher life expectancy for men than the U.S. He added that except primarily for our lazy habits there is no reason that we should not have the same life expectancy as that of European countries ((whose other habits are much like ours).

In a related address, Dr. Per-Olaf Astrand, a Swedish heart expert and research director of the Stockholm Gymnastic Institute, reported that with proper half-hourly, twice-weekly exercise stunts a man can save his heart 30,000 beats a day, thus saving it wear and tear by reducing the total amount of work it has to do.

The greatest thing since sliced bread.

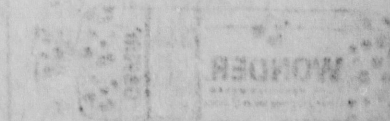

For two very good reasons. The first is taste. MILLBROOK tastes terrific. Butter it, toast it, French toast it, cinnamon toast it, make sandwiches or use it for bread crumbs — that delicious, hearty MILLBROOK flavor always comes shining through.

The second reason is MILLBROOK is made a special way — without holes. No holes mean our bread stays fresher longer. No holes mean even toasting every time. And no holes mean no mess even when you make the runniest sandwiches.

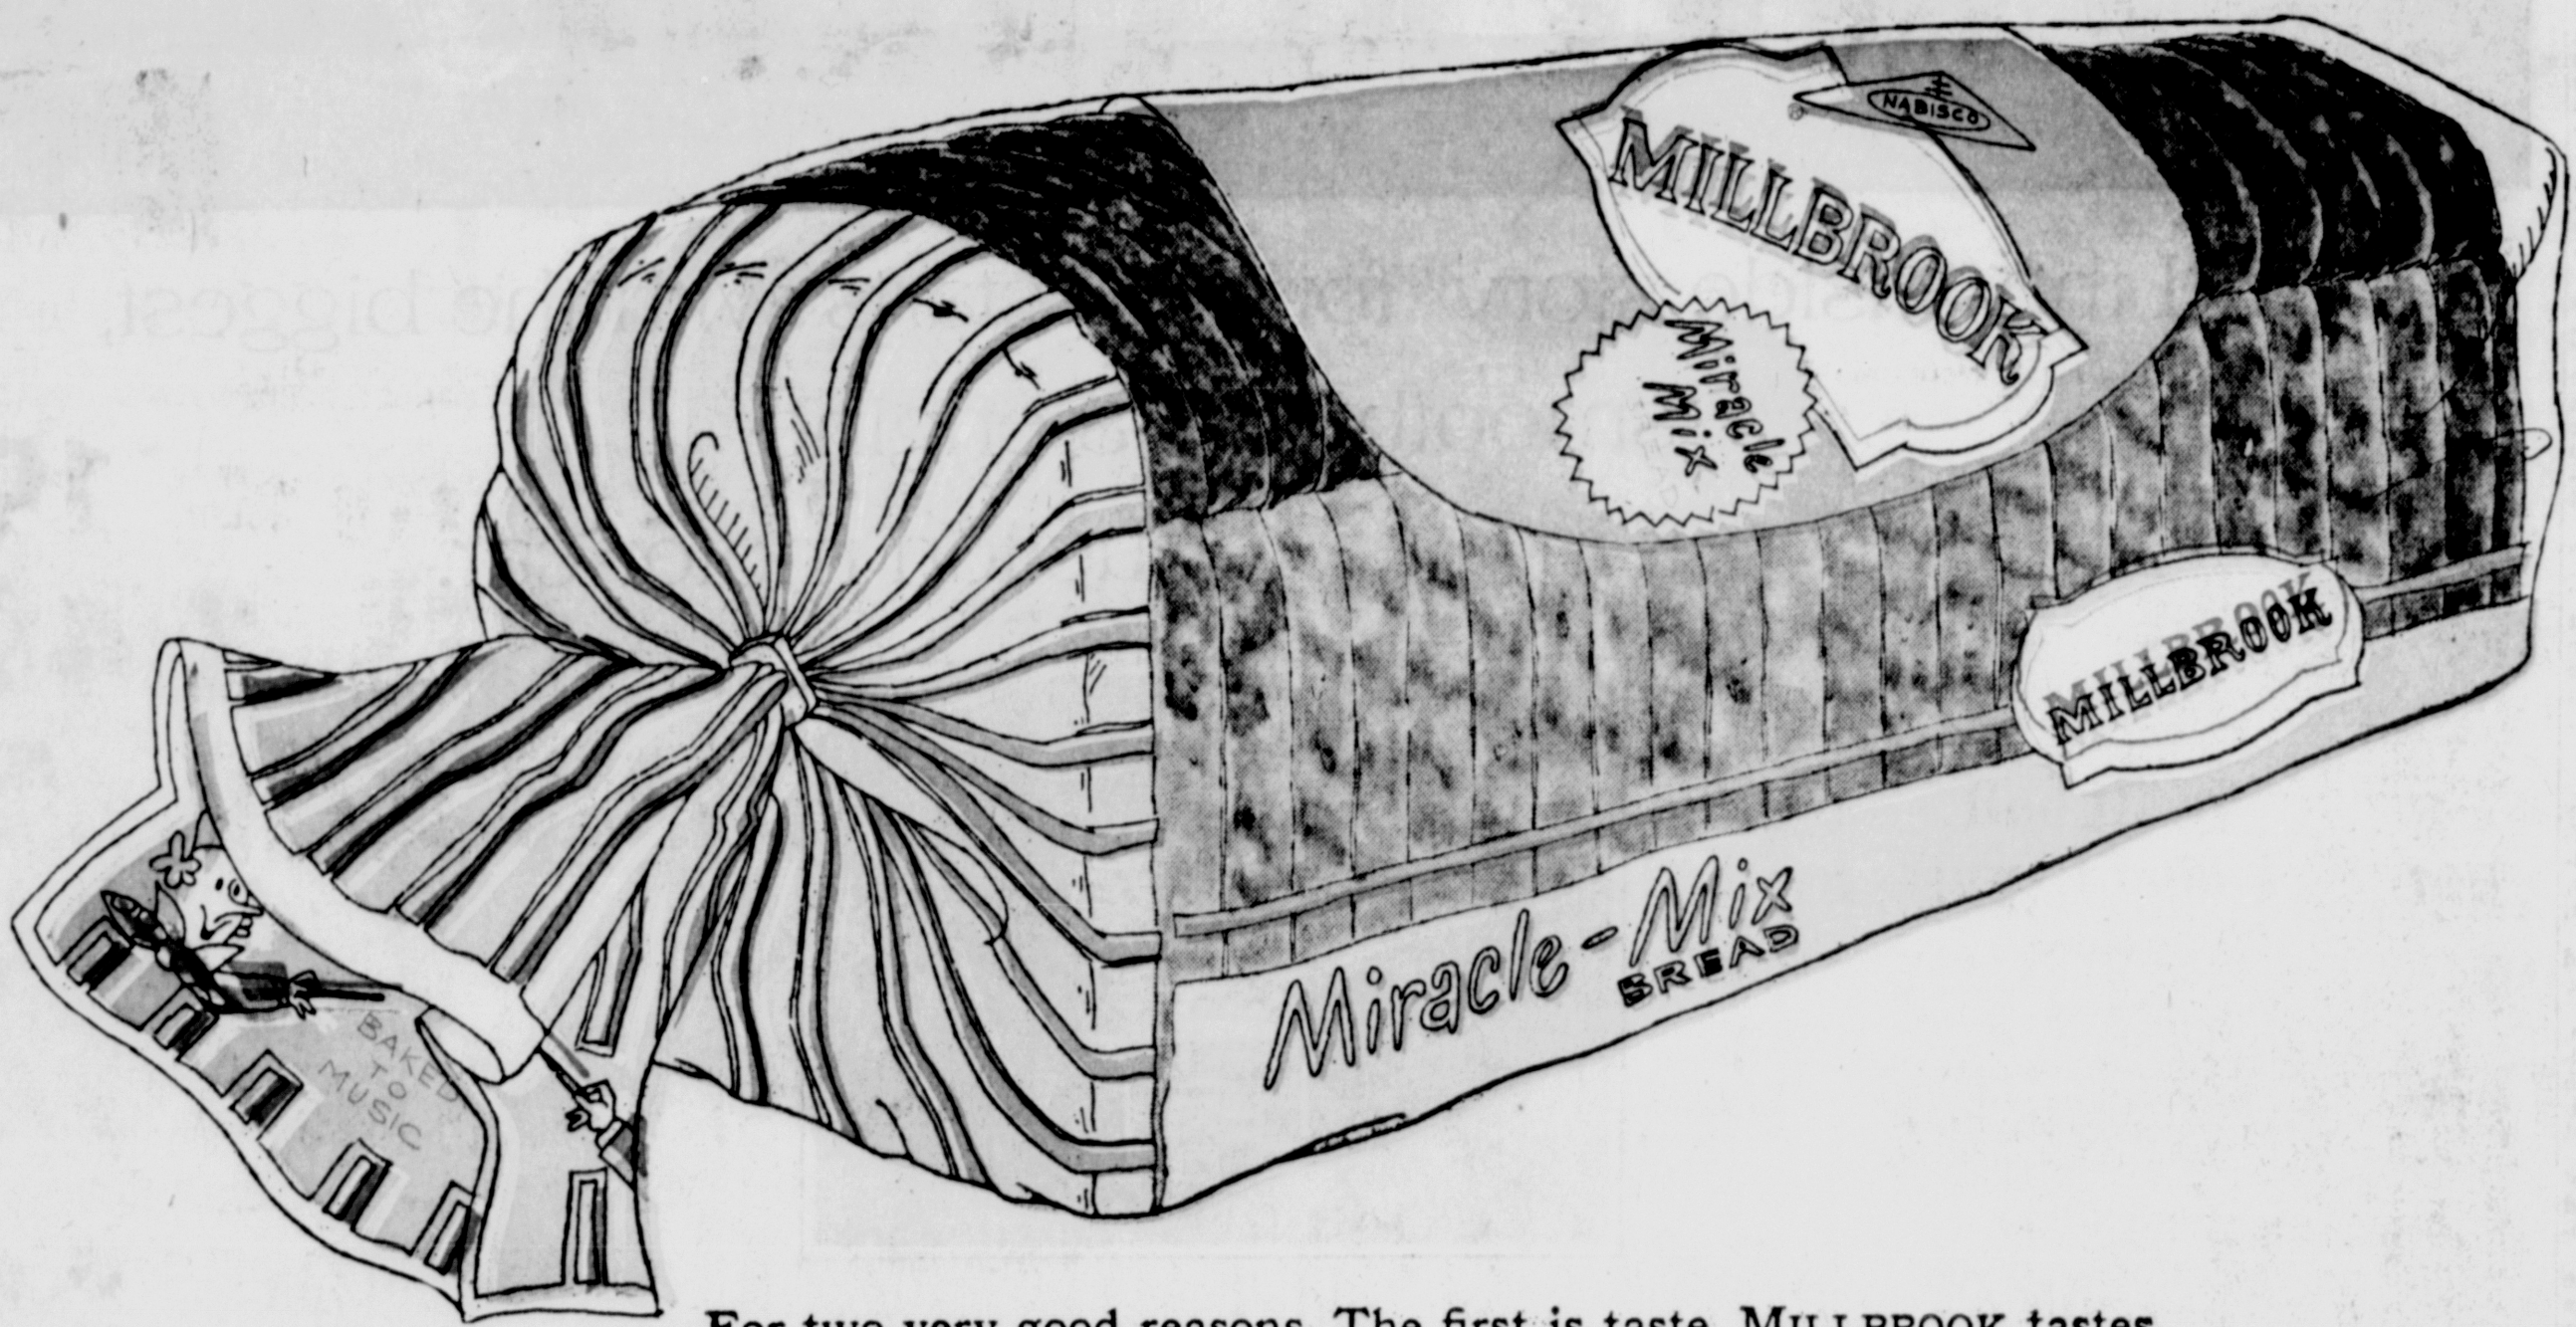

MILLBROOK enriched MIRACLE-MIX Bread. Great taste. No holes. Two very good reasons to try a loaf today. Look for it in the red and yellow plastic freezer bag.

How far will a loaf of Wonder travel? A loaf is the journey's end. Appetites in your family.

Big Controversy in Medicaid Boils Down to Question of Money

PART II—The pros and cons of eligibility.

By BOB SYKES
Associated Press Writer

The Medicaid controversy in New York boils down to a question of money.

—Do you pick up the medical bills of a family man bringing home $114 clear each week? Chances are, the answer depends on what side of the $114 you are.

There are many who believe $114 is too high and that the line should be drawn at $75. The difference is 39, the monthly payment on the car, the washer or refrigerator.

The other sore point is: Who pays?

Actually, every taxpayer does. But the clamor comes from the collectors on the local and federal levels. In 1967, New York's total Medicaid bill will be about $738 million. The federal government will supply $276.9 million and the counties, $210.5 million.

Already, a measure to limit federal assistance to states with "high" eligibility standards has been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill, if eventually adopted, would peg assistance to a lower net income and result in a "very substantial" drop in federal participation to New York's program, the Department of Social Services says.

New York would have to decide whether to scale down its eligibility standards or take on the burden of paying the lost share—"Many, many millions of dollars."

Most likely state standards would be lowered and Gov. Rockefeller's "medical emancipation" law would be dealt a serious blow.

Excluded would be the young lawyer whose large family—hence, his deductions—make it possible to qualify on the present standard. Indeed, most of the lower Middle Class would revert to the old system.

On the state level, geography plays a crucial part in the dispute. Critics of Medicaid, now mustering their strength, come mostly from rural upstate counties where the health program still is regarded more as a dole than a right.

New York City and other urban areas are resigned to large social welfare appropriations. They have their problems with Medicaid but the budgeting procedure is not one.

Nor, in the big cities, is eligibility seriously questioned.

A New Yorker with a wife and two children is admittedly needy if he takes home only $114.

The current eligibility requirements seem "realistic" in the downstate metropolitan areas, according to Kenneth Y. West, Chemung County welfare commissioner. But, he said, the upstate areas are "getting hurt."

He cited Yates County and others like it where 75 to 80 percent of the population is eligible.

William Falvey, that county's welfare commissioner, thinks the program is good but too liberal. "We have only real estate taxes and it limits our base upon which to raise needed funds," he says, urging that the state take over the whole program.

Budget transfers are commonplace at this time of the year. But few county boards pass up the opportunity of scoring Medicaid costs when they borrow from Peter to pay Paul.

Typical of this is Herkimer County. "The board believes that the legislation was hastily passed... The board also believes that drastic and immediate action should be taken to change the law..." the resolution read in part.

It called for reducing the eligibility standards to a reasonable level and incorporating a realistic deductible feature in the law so the patient shares "enough of the expense to avoid whimsical and capricious use of medical services."

Another Chemung County official (not West) said bluntly that "Medicaid is a giveaway of taxpayer dollars, a plan ill conceived and adopted strictly because of political pressure."

State Sen. William T. (Cadillac) Smith, R-Chemung, voiced similar sentiments when he wrote to the governor asking that he call a special session of the Legislature to deal with Medicaid.

His appeal won the hearty endorsement of Steuben County Welfare Commissioner Frank F. Wolfanger. "The whole program is too broad and I can't understand how we will be able to pay for it."

The Tompkins County Welfare Department has refused flatly to treat foreign students at Cornell University under the state's Medicaid program.

While most grumbled, however, Auburn acted. The City Council voted unanimously to withhold its share of payments and put the state on notice that it expected its "day in court."

Eventually, Auburn paid. "Now is the time for us to band together in unity to make our voices heard in Albany," said Auburn Mayor Maurice L. Schwartz, when inviting upstate mayors and county officials to a Medicaid conference next Tuesday.

The purpose of the meeting is "to force a showdown on this vital issue and to alleviate the impending financial doom that many of our cities and counties face."

The Oneida County Board of Legislators late last week also joined the rebellion. It rejected a proposal to borrow $3.4 million to meet current Medicaid expenses after County Executive Harry S. Daniels told the lawmakers funds would be exhausted by Oct. 1.

Are you eligible for Medicaid? The best thing to do is apply to your nearest welfare office. A benefit standard of $6,000 take-home-pay for a wage earner with a wife and two children was set by the Legislature.

Other standards are: One person, $2,900; 2 persons, $4,000; 3 persons, $5,200; 4 persons, $6,000; 5 persons, $6,850; 6 persons, $7,700; 7 persons, $8,550; 8 persons, $9,400. For a household with two wage earners the income levels are: 2 persons, $4,850; 3 persons, $6,050; 4 persons, $6,850; 5 persons, $7,700; 6 persons, $8,550; 7 persons, $9,400; 8 persons, $10,250.

The local agency considering your application will determine the amount of income, savings and other resources; the amount of income and savings exempted by law, the payment of deductibles and the amount of medical expenses.

Paltz Dems Laud Resnick

The New Paltz Democratic Club and committeemen have said that they "are proud to have a Congressman who refuses to be cowed by pressure from power blocks—whether it be the Farm Bureau, the Sugar Lobby, the Ulster County Welfare Department, or whatever the source of power may be."

The organization said that, "We need more fighting congressmen who refuse to alter ideals and principles to pacify powerful opposition."

Commenting on Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's one man investigation into the activities of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the New Paltz Democrats stated, "It is long past the time for Congress to take a hard look at the activities of a great many tax-exempt 'sacred cows.'"

Questioning "political leaders who refuse to commit themselves to a hearing of facts," the organization suggested "that other congressmen follow Joe Resnick's courageous example and help relieve the taxpayer's burden."

What's a Party

PARIS (AP) — In what was billed as the world's biggest buffet, an estimated 42,000 Parisians crowded into Les Halles, the capital's central market, Wednesday to eat sea food.

Besides French love of food there was another reason for the crowd: The food was free.

Bank presidents, salesmen, workers, panhandlers stood elbow to elbow at tables laden with sardines, trout, sole, codfish and oysters at the first "fishmongers feast."

When it was over, 10 tons of fish, 300,000 oysters, and untold gallons of wine had been consumed.

Robert Conti, president of the Information Committee for the Consumption of Fish, said the feast was "to reacquaint Frenchmen with the taste of fish."

One-Way Traffic in Supermarkets Causes Problems for Unwary Male Customer

BOSTON (AP) — Supermarkets have become so big and crowded that many have established one-way traffic in their aisles. This can cause tremendous problems, especially for unwary males who are unfamiliar with supermarkets anyway.

Like for Ted Lumpke who was 39 when his wife got sick and he had to go to a supermarket for the first time. As soon as he got his grocery push cart he made a wrong turn down a one-way aisle.

Women began shouting at him: "One way, one way" and steering their push carts past him.

The store manager came rushing down the aisle waving his arms. "You can't push your push cart east on this aisle," he said. "This is a west aisle."

"Where are the eggs?" Lumpke asked.

"Row G, Section A, Shelf 3, eggs, beans and bacon," the manager said.

Lumpke backed out and went to Row G, but it was one way west at his end and he wanted to go east. He went around the store and came to Row G at its other end and there he saw a sign saying Row G was one way east.

That is impossible, Lumpke thought, because if Row G were one way east at the west end and one way west at the east end, then nobody could get into Row G.

Lumpke found the store manager. "There's something wrong with the signs on Row G," he said. "They're west at the east end and east at the west end."

"That's impossible," the manager said.

"Come and look," Lumpke said.

The manager came, looked and saw the signs.

"It means nobody can get into Row G," Lumpke said. "And what's worse, it means anybody who might be in Row G right now can't get out."

The manager thought about it. "Yes," he said. "But, of course, that's impossible," and he walked away.

So Lumpke threw caution to the wind and pushed his push cart in violation of the west sign east on Row G.

The shelves were almost bare and covered with dust. There was dust on the floor and foot prints, and grass had grown up in places between the broken linoleum.

The sign mixup must have occurred months ago, Lumpke thought, even years.

He pushed his cart over the cracked floor between the stripped and dirty shelves, the thrill of the explorer in his heart. He found the starved, emaciated woman against an empty carton of beans.

"Thank God," she said.

"They've fixed the signs. I'm the lone survivor of a shopping party trapped in 1961 when the signs were mixed up. I've been existing on eggs, bacon and beans for six years."

"But the signs haven't been changed," Lumpke said.

The woman's thin, cracked face turned white. "But how did you get in?" she asked.

"I went east at the west end," Lumpke said, and the woman could only look at him in wonder.

"Come with me," Lumpke said. He helped the poor woman to the west end of the aisle where they met the store manager.

"Here," the manager said, "you can't come out. This is the west end of Row G, an east aisle."

"But if we can't come out by going west at the east end or east at the west end," Lumpke said, "then we shall have to stay here forever."

The manager, realizing

"I can't help that," the manager said.

"Without a chaperone?" Lumpke asked indignantly. "In a supermarket, the last bastion of middle-class morality?"

Lumpke had appealed to a higher law, let them out. "The pure of heart always win in a supermarket," Lumpke said. "I hope you plan to pay for manager told the woman, the eggs, bacon and beans," the

BOSTON (AP) — Supermarkets have become so big and crowded that many have established one-way traffic in their aisles. This can cause tremendous problems, especially for unwary males who are unfamiliar with supermarkets anyway.

Like for Ted Lumpke who was 39 when his wife got sick and he had to go to a supermarket for the first time. As soon as he got his grocery push cart he made a wrong turn down a one-way aisle.

Women began shouting at him: "One way, one way" and giving him dirty looks as they steered their push carts past him.

The store manager came and one way west at the east rushing down the aisle waving his arms. "You can't push your push cart east on this aisle," he said. "This is a west aisle."

"Where are the eggs?" Lumpke asked.

"Row G, Section A, Shelf 3, eggs, beans and bacon," the manager said.

Lumpke backed out and went west at his end and he wanted to go east. He went around the store and came to Row G at its other end and there he saw a sign saying Row G was one way east.

That is impossible, Lumpke thought, because if Row G were one way east at the west end and one way west at the east end, then nobody could get into Row G.

Lumpke found the store manager. "There's something wrong with the signs on Row G," he said. "They're west at the east end and east at the west end."

"That's impossible," the manager said.

"Come and look," Lumpke said.

The manager came, looked and saw the signs.

"It means nobody can get into Row G," Lumpke said. "And what's worse, it means anybody who might be in Row G right now can't get out."

The manager thought about it. "Yes," he said. "But, of course, that's impossible," and he walked away.

So Lumpke threw caution to the wind and pushed his push cart in violation of the west sign east on Row G.

The shelves were almost bare and covered with dust. There was dust on the floor and foot prints, and grass had grown up in places between the broken linoleum.

The sign mixup must have occurred months ago, Lumpke thought, even years.

He pushed his cart over the cracked floor between the stripped and dirty shelves, the thrill of the explorer in his heart. He found the starved, emaciated woman against an empty carton of beans.

"Thank God," she said.

"They've fixed the signs. I'm the lone survivor of a shopping party trapped in 1961 when the signs were mixed up. I've been existing on eggs, bacon and beans for six years."

"But the signs haven't been changed," Lumpke said.

The woman's thin, cracked face turned white. "But how did you get in?" she asked.

"I went east at the west end," Lumpke said, and the woman could only look at him in wonder.

"Come with me," Lumpke said. He helped the poor woman to the west end of the aisle where they met the store manager.

"Here," the manager said, "you can't come out. This is the west end of Row G, an east aisle.

"But if we can't come out by going west at the east end or east at the west end," Lumpke said, "then we shall have to stay here forever."

"I can't help that," the manager said.

"Without a chaperone?" Lumpke asked indignantly. "In a supermarket, the last bastion of middle-class morality?"

The manager, realizing

"I hope you plan to pay for the eggs, bacon and beans," the Conservation Camporee Fall Scouting Highlight

Boy Scouts of the Minne-waska Trail district plan a Conservation Camporee Oct. 6-7-8 to be held at the Tri-Mount Scout Reservation, East Jewett.

The scouts will disembark from their autos approximately 1/2 mile from the camp sites and hike (in) with their equipment. Conservation projects planned include constructing rabbit hutches, creating deer browse, pruning apple trees, dam construction, construction of a rip rap on the small stream from the spring outlet and red pine pruning and thinning. The wildlife, forest and camp will benefit from these projects.

Competitive events requiring scouting skills and knowledge will be held Saturday afternoon. A Saturday evening campfire is planned at which time the ribbons won by the various units will be presented. Each unit will present a skit.

The following units plan to participate: Troops 16, Stone Ridge; 22, Kerhonkson; 28, Ellenville; 17, Tillson; 70, Highland; 73, Milton; 77, 172, 175, New Paltz; 76, Wallkill and 171, Clintondale.

Parents and troop committees are welcome to make a day of it by on the spot observation of the conservation projects, competitive events and evening campfire.

Church services are planned for Sunday.

The camporee and conservation committee consist of Dick Davenport, Ted Brooks, Hal Holly, Lloyd Conard, Norm Wilson, Arnold Van Laer, Jim Feth and John Helmer.

EXPLOSION — An explosion in Jackson, Miss., caused extensive damage to the administrative offices of a new Jewish Synagogue. There were no injuries. The blast occurred at the Temple Beth Israel, (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Bomb Scare

PASCO, Wash. (AP) — An unidentified girl's voice telephoned that a bomb had been placed somewhere in Isaac Stevens Junior High School Monday morning. The building was evacuated quickly and the students sent home.

A similar call—this time from a boy—forced speedy evacuation of Pasco High School less than an hour later.

It was the fourth bomb scare in Pasco schools within a week. No bombs were found.

Instead of dismissing the high school students, School Supt. Louis J. Ferrari had them assemble in the school's outdoor stadium for a lecture.

School Set For Municipal Fiscal Clerks

It's back to school next week for municipal fiscal officers and clerks. The local government officials will take time out from their usual duties to sharpen their knowledge of municipal finance at the School for Fiscal Officers and Municipal Clerks, co-sponsored by the NYS Conference of Mayors and the State Comptroller.

The intensive four day session, beginning Sept. 26 and ending Sept. 29, at the Pines Hotel in South Fallsburg, will feature 16 topics aimed at bringing the participants the latest developments in municipal finance and fiscal procedures.

The program was designed by the co-sponsors with the cooperation of the state Society of Municipal Finance Officers and the Association of City and Village Clerks.

Dutchess Dem Calls for Joint Forum

Bob Fouhy, Democratic candidate for Dutchess County Executive, today announced that he has called upon his three opponents to join him in "a series of public forums each dealing with a specific issue concerning the citizens of Dutchess County."

Fouhy said: "With the new office of county executive, a discussion of issues is more needed than ever. The citizens must have the opportunity to hear each of us discuss the most important issues facing Dutchess County in the years ahead."

The Democrat continued to say, "In addition to the wide-ranging discussions sponsored by the League of Women Voters, I hope that you will agree to at least four public forums each dealing with a specific issue. Many people have indicated to me that they are especially interested in a discussion of: welfare programs; crime; recreation facilities; and transportation. I propose that we meet before civic associations or on the radio to thoroughly discuss each of these topics separately."

"I look forward to an early reply so that we can arrange the dates and times of the forums. With some planning, we can arrange meetings in several different sections of the county and before a variety of civic groups. The Pomona Grange has already offered its meeting hall in Stanfordsville for Oct. 7. Other forums should be held in Beacon, Poughkeepsie, and the Wappingers Falls-Fishkill areas."

County Grange News Plattekill Notes

Fred Eckert and aides from the Clintondale Grange will install the newly elected officers of the Plattekill Grange at the regular meeting Saturday. The ceremony will be preceded by a covered dish supper at 6:30 p.m.

Other scheduled events include the annual Harvest Fair and buffet supper in charge of the Service and Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Elmore Lozier, chairman, on Saturday, Sept. 30, also the annual Centennial Grange turkey supper with dancing on Wednesday, Oct. 11 with Charles Clark, ticket chairman.

Snakey Weighin

NEW YORK (AP) — It was weighing and measuring day for reptiles at the Bronx Zoo Monday.

In the morning five keepers wrestled with 10 pythons to find out they ranged in length from 10 feet 9 inches to 19 feet 4 inches.

A Cuban crocodile, described as the most vicious reptile at the zoo, struggled 55 minutes in the afternoon before the keepers were able to bind it and tape its jaws closed.

The animal weighed in at 269 pounds and measured 8 feet 5 1/2 inches long.

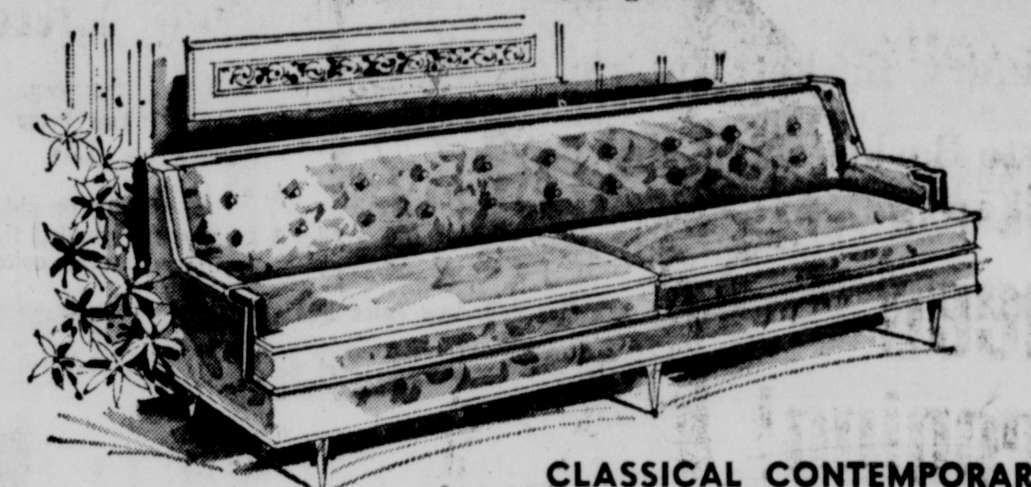

The purpose of the annual check is to determine growth and permit cleaning of living areas.

How to be $5 smarter the next time you move.

Many of our customers wait to order extension phones until after they've been in their new homes for awhile. They don't realize they can save $5 by having all their phones — including extensions — put in when they move. Then our installer won't have to double back later on, a trip that would cost the customer an additional $5.

So, while you're deciding where to put the furniture in your new home, take an extra minute to plan the location of your extension phones. Choose from lovely colors that go well anywhere: bedroom, kitchen, den, workshop. And in lovely models, too, including the new Trimline®, which lets the push buttons come to you.

Just call your Business Office Representative and tell her when and where you're moving. She'll see that your phones arrive on moving day to help you feel at home. (And, if you like, she'll be glad to help you decide just where to put them.)

So make your next move a smart one. And save $5.

San Francisco Residents Plan to Go Underground as Mechanical Moles Dig City's First Subway

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — have traveled on the surface—Two mechanical moles are burrowing through Twin Peaks, It's been by cable car, Street for San Francisco's first streetcar, trackless trolley or bus, linking with ferry boats or bridges.

From the days of horse-drawn street cars, San Franciscans completion in 1969, will be part of the 75 miles of the $1-billion San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District. The system will tie three counties together with 75 miles of subway, surface, elevated and underwater high-speed rail lines.

It includes five miles of twin and four-bore tubes under San Francisco.

The first of 18 tunneling machines and shields that will operate under San Francisco's streets began boring in mid-July.

Its 83-ton twin was lowered in September to the mud-splattered bottom of a four-erector arms in back which three hydraulically actuated producing 1,500 horsepower. It swing steel lining into place. The face of the machine is an 18 foot circular shield. It has turned by 20 hydraulic motors doors, each fitted with special dirt-cutting teeth. The wheel is hydraulic jacks. Every 30 inches the machine stops. Its erector arms then go to work. They swing into place a protective steel liner, divided into six segments. Men bolt these into place. Grout is poured back of the liner to seal out the water.

Then the machine again moves forward, the hydraulic jacks pushing from the newly installed liner.

Muck pours through the rear of the tunnel machine head onto a conveyor belt, into little rail cars which are hauled to the open hole and lifted to the surface to be dumped.

Teachers Training For Kindergarten

"Exceptional Children—Educational and Emotional Implications," will be the subject of a 14-week course which begins Monday, Oct. 10 at Roundout Valley Central School as part of an in-service training for teachers of grades kindergarten through six.

Nello John Pesci, special education teacher, will conduct the first seven sessions, Oct. 10-Nov. 28 with no class held on Nov. 14.

Mark A. Vandenberg, MD, psychiatrist will conduct the second part, Dec. 7 and 14, Jan. 4, 11, 18, 25 and Feb. 1, Thursdays from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

Courses are jointly sponsored by Roundout Valley Central School District and Ulster County Mental Health Association, in cooperation with the Ulster County Mental Health Center and the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene.

Two in-service credits applicable toward salary increments will be given those who complete the course.

Pesci holds an MA in history, Manhattan College and Notre Dame, MA, special education and mental retardation, Adelphi University.

Since 1959 he has held several different positions teaching emotionally disturbed, brain injured or gifted children, and also as supervisor-instructor at Hotsira University Institute for the culturally disadvantaged. Currently he is director of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Junior High Project for slow learners).

Dr. Vandenberg, qualified as a specialist in psychiatry and neurology in the Netherlands in 1954, and followed courses in London and Paris. He spent several years in private practice before coming to the U.S. in 1963 and has completed the U.S. training program in psychiatry and has since worked as senior psychiatrist in the children's unit at Middletown State Hospital. Currently he is part-time staff psychiatrist at the Ulster County Mental Health Center, and in private practice.

Highland Man Charged With Theft

A 50-year-old man was arrested Tuesday night by State Police at Highland and charged with criminally possessing stolen property, a 1967 Cadillac, according to Trooper John Crodele.

Joseph Aversa, whose address was listed as the Hi-Toc Apartments, Highland, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis DiStasi.

According to a report of BCI Investigators Joseph Franke and Roger Gardner and Troopers Jack Ostmark and J. P. Czaplicki, a check made with an insurance company and the National Auto Theft Bureau indicated the car had been stolen. Investigation will be continued by the BCI officers from Kingston and Highland.

Freer Heads Conservatives Esopus Slate

Town of Esopus Conservative Party nominated Democratic challenger for the post of supervisor, George Freer, to head its slate.

As for other posts, Allan Dargie, the Republican incumbent justice of the peace, received the Conservative OK.

Conservative Andy Aurigemma was nominated for the other assessor opening.

Ralph Slater, chairman of the Esopus Conservative party, stated that the main principles of the party on the town level "are to maintain careful fiscal management and to encourage private investment rather than government to provide for expansion of the local economy."

Teachers Training For Kindergarten

"Exceptional Children—Educational and Emotional Implications," will be the subject of a 14-week course which begins Monday, Oct. 10 at Rondout Valley Central School as part of an in-service training for teachers of grades kindergarten through six.

Nello-John Pesci, special education teacher, will conduct the first seven sessions, Oct. 10-Nov. 28 with no class held on Nov. 14.

Mark A. Vandenberg, MD, psychiatrist will conduct the second part, Dec. 7 and 14, Jan. 4, 11, 18, 25 and Feb. 1, Thursdays from 7:30 to 9 p. m. Courses are jointly sponsored by Rondout Valley Central School District and Ulster County Mental Health Association, in cooperation with the Ulster County Mental Health Center and the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene.

Two in-service credits applicable toward salary increments will be given those who complete the course.

Pesci holds an MA in history, Manhattan College and Notre Dame, MA, special education and mental retardation, Adelphi University.

Since 1959 he has held several different positions teaching emotionally disturbed, brain injured or gifted children, and also as supervisor instructor at Holston Institute for the culturally disadvantaged. Currently he is director of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, Junior High Project for slow learners.

Dr. Vandenberg, qualified as a specialist in psychiatry and neurology in the Netherlands in 1954, and followed courses in London and Paris. He spent several years in private practice before coming to the U.S. in 1963 and has completed the U.S. training program in psychiatry and has since worked as senior psychiatrist in the children's unit at Middletown State Hospital. Currently he is part-time staff psychiatrist at the Ulster County Mental Health Center, and in private practice.

Highland Man Charged With Theft

A 50-year-old man was arrested Tuesday night by State Police at Highland and charged with criminally possessing stolen property, a 1967 Cadillac, according to Trooper John Crodella.

Joseph Aversa, whose address was listed as the Hi-Tec Apartments, Highland, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis DiStasi.

According to a report of BCI Investigators Joseph Franke and Roger Gardner and Troopers Jack Ostmark and J. F. Czaplinski, a check made with an insurance company and the National Auto Theft Bureau indicated the car had been stolen. Investigation will be continued by the BCI officers from Kingston and Highland.

of the 75 miles of the $1-billion San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District. The system will tie three counties together with 75 miles of subway, surface, elevated and underwater high-speed rail lines. It includes five miles of twin and four-bore tubes under San Francisco.

The first of 18 tunneling machines and shields that will operate under San Francisco's streets began boring in mid-July.

Its 93-ton twin was lowered in September to the mudspattered bottom of a four-story hole that marks their starting point at 15th and Mission Streets. It will trail a safe 150 feet behind its companion as they cut mile-long twin bores to 8th and Market streets near the Civic Center.

The rest of the San Francisco tunneling will be carried out under eight other contracts. No other has begun. Some are still to be let. Stations, all to be built by cut and cover operations, involve still other contracts.

The machine helps—from its solid steel boring front to its erector arms in back which three hydraulically actuated doors, each fitted with special dirt-cutting teeth. The wheel is 18 foot circular shield. It has turned by 20 hydraulic motors producing 1,500 horsepower. It is driven forward by 29 125-ton hydraulic jacks. Every 30 inches the machine stops. Its erector arms then go to work. They swing into place a protective steel liner, divided into six segments. Men bolt these into place. Grout is poured back of the liner to seal out the water.

Then the machine again moves forward, the hydraulic jacks pushing from the newly installed liner.

Muck pours through the rear of the tunnel machine head onto a conveyor belt, into little rail cars which are hauled to the open hole and lifted to the surface to be dumped.

Freer Heads Conservatives Esopus Slate

Town of Esopus Conservative Party nominated Democratic challenger for the post of supervisor, George Freer, to head its slate.

As for other posts, Allan Dargie, the Republican incumbent, was nominated for the other assessor opening.

Ralph Slater, chairman of the Esopus Conservative party, stated that the main principles of the party on the town level "are to maintain careful fiscal management and to encourage private investment rather than government to provide for expansion of the local economy."

Art Exhibit Opens At UCCC Campus

The Visual Arts Program of Ulster County Community College has opened its Art Series at the new campus at Stone Ridge with an exhibition, "Studies in Color."

This exhibit, which is open to the public, is located on the main floor of the John Burroughs Science Building and will continue there until Sept. 30. The hours for the public are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Monday through Thursday and 9 to 5 p. m. on Friday.

"Studies in Color" is basically a teaching exhibition which discusses the characteristics of color, beginning with color in nature and advancing to color as related to the arts. The primary objective of the exhibition is to increase the visual sensitivity and perception of the viewer.

The exhibit was conceived and designed by Onofrio Charles Giordano, an assistant professor at the Syracuse University School of Art. He also prepared the silk screens and the photographs used in the exhibition.

The exhibition is being circulated by the Albany Institute of History and Art to surrounding schools and colleges.

The Visual Arts Program at the College is under the direction of Associate Professor Ruth Muroff, coordinator of art at UCCC.

TWO MORE INTERESTING IDEAS FOR HOME DECORATING

I continue to get interesting letters on unusual ideas for home decorating. The two following descriptions sounded so charming that I thought you readers would enjoy sharing them.

Dear Mrs. Post: Your invitation to share family treasures is accepted by me with great pleasure as I am a displayer and lover of such things.

My grandmother, born in 1830, subscribed to Godey's Lady's Book, the first women's magazine in the United States. Grandmother cut out many of the pictures and had a book made of them. I remember it so well, a black, shiny leather-bound book with her initials in gold on the front cover. After her death the book came into the possession of my youngest sister who had many of the pictures framed for other members of the family. I have two copies called "Latest Fashions for November," the other, "Godey's Improved Colored Fashion," and dated 1852. The pictures are in color, a little faded after a century and a quarter.

Another very unusual picture is my "friendship pillow" picture. In 1899 these were a fad in my home town. We used a square of white linen and had our friends write their names on it. Then we outlined the names in chain-stitch, using different colors of embroidery floss. We finished the pillow cover with a ruffle. My pillow-top had been packed away with our keepsakes these many years until a year ago when I had it framed. My visitors consider it very much a conversation piece and one friend who always calls it a "sampler" says she tells all her friends about it. It really makes a very pretty picture with all the different colors and individual handwritings. It gives me much pleasure recalling the owners of the 65 names written on it.—Ann Moore

STEADY DATERS ATTEND OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be all right for a boy and girl, both 17, who have been going together for two years, to go to an out-of-town wedding together. We would not stay overnight, but would come home after the reception.—Maureen

Dear Maureen: There is no reason you and your boy friend should not attend an out-of-town wedding as long as you return home by a reasonable hour.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Ulster Hose Company; Auxiliary Will Parade

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, Ulster Hose Company No. 5, was held recently at the firehouse, Albany Avenue Extension, Mrs. Gordon Corey presided.

Mrs. Mary VanKleeck, parade marshal, announced the Auxiliary Parade Unit will participate in the Loyalty Day Parade in Kingston, on Sept. 23.

Mrs. William Fischang was appointed chairman of the Emergency Refreshment Committee, assisted by Mrs. William Williams and Mrs. Gisela Klomps.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William Williams and Mrs. John Gotelli.

The next regular meeting will be held on Oct. 12, at 8 p.m.

Japanese Women Gaining Equal Rights In Divorce Courts

TOKYO (AP) — Many of those subservient, feet-washing Japanese mates that World War II GIs remember with nostalgia and envy have become as spunkily independent as the so-called spoiled American woman.

In the old days a husband could unilaterally go to the local city or town office any time he desired and put his seal on a divorce application.

The office automatically filed it, giving the wife no legal recourse to protest, contest the amount of alimony, if any, or the custody of their children.

She was out, period.

In 1950, the first year of equality under the new civil law, women—10,000 of them, three times as many wives as husbands—hurried to the courts to shuck their men, now that they could do so with a certain amount of property protection, alimony and custodial expenses for the children.

Family courts set up by the new law seek reconciliations as well as settle matters of property and dependents. Anyone can be heard by paying 100 yen (27 cents), the price of a revenue stamp on their application. Only the very rich hire lawyers for this court.

Family courts are equivalent to marriage counselors, (a nonexistent profession in Japan), whose decisions have legal force.

The wives' chief complaints according to ministry officials, are of infidelity. In 1963 there were 3,538 such charges, followed by 2,638 charges of incompatibility. Violence, drunkenness and desertion were other major complaints.

A divorced wife cannot expect to live on her alimony. Japanese usually settle for a lump sum payment, which in most cases amounts to slightly more than $800, although $27 payments are not unheard of.

Couples who agree to split up find it quicker to skirt Family Court. Both the husband and the wife can do as was done by the husband before the civil laws changed. They can go to their local city or town office and put their seals on an application for divorce, leaving the promises made a private affair, unenforceable by law.

Art Exhibit Opens At UCCC Campus

The Visual Arts Program of Ulster County Community College has opened its Art Series at the new campus at Stone Ridge with an exhibition, "Studies in Color."

This exhibit, which is open to the public, is located on the main floor of the John Burroughs Science Building and will continue there until Sept. 30. The hours for the public are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Monday through Thursday and 9 to 5 p. m. on Friday.

"Studies in Color" is basically a teaching exhibition which discusses the characteristics of color, beginning with color in nature and advancing to color as related to the arts. The primary objective of the exhibition is to increase the visual sensitivity and perception of the viewer.

The exhibit was conceived and designed by Onofrio Charles Giordano, an assistant professor at the Syracuse University School of Art. He also prepared the silk screens and the photographs used in the exhibition.

The exhibition is being circulated by the Albany Institute of History and Art to surrounding schools and colleges.

The Visual Arts Program at the College is under the direction of Associate Professor Ruth Muroff, coordinator of art at UCCC.

TWO MORE INTERESTING IDEAS FOR HOME DECORATING

I continue to get interesting letters on unusual ideas for home decorating. The two following descriptions sounded so charming that I thought you readers would enjoy sharing them.

Dear Mrs. Post: Your invitation to share family treasures is accepted by me with great pleasure as I am a display and lover of such things.

My grandmother, born in 1830, subscribed to Godey's Lady's Book, the first women's magazine in the United States. Grandmother cut out many of the pictures and had a book made of them. I remember it so well, a black, shiny leather-bound book with her initials in gold on the front cover. After her death the book came into the possession of my youngest sister who had many of the pictures framed for other members of the family. I have two now called "Latest Fashions for November," the other, "Godey's Improved Colored Fashion," and dated 1852. The pictures are in color, a little faded after a century and a quarter.

Another very unusual picture is my "friendship pillow" picture. In 1899 these were a fad in my home town. We used a square of white linen and had our friends write their names on it. Then we outlined the names in chain-stitch, using different colors of embroidery floss. We finished the pillow cover with a ruffle. My pillow-top had been packed away with our keepsakes these many years until a year ago when I had it framed. My visitors consider it very much a conversation piece and one friend who always calls it a "sampler" says she tells all her friends about it. It really makes a very pretty picture, with all the different colors and individual handwritings. It gives me much pleasure recalling the owners of the 65 names written on it.—Ann Moore

STEADY DATERS ATTEND OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be all right for a boy and girl, both 17, who have been going together for two years, to go to an out-of-town wedding together. We would not stay overnight, but would come home after the reception.—Maureen

Dear Maureen: There is no reason you and your boy friend should not attend an out-of-town wedding as long as you return home by a reasonable hour.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Japanese Women Gaining Equal Rights In Divorce Courts

TOKYO (AP) — Many of those subservient, feet-washing Japanese mates that World War II GIs remember with nostalgia and envy have become as spunkily independent as the so-called spoiled American woman.

In the old days a husband could unilaterally go to the local city or town office any time he desired and put his seal on a divorce application.

The office automatically filed it, giving the wife no legal recourse to protest, contest the amount of alimony, if any, or the custody of their children. She was out, period.

In 1950, the first year of equality under the new civil law, women—10,000 of them, three times as many wives as husbands—hurried to the courts to shuck their men, now that they could do so with a certain amount of property protection, alimony and custodial expenses for the children.

Family courts set up by the new law seek reconciliations as well as settle matters of property and dependents. Anyone can be heard by paying 100 yen (27 cents), the price of a revenue stamp on their application. Only the very rich hire lawyers for this court.

Family courts are equivalent to marriage counselors, (a non-existent profession in Japan), whose decisions have legal force.

The wives' chief complaints according to ministry officials, are of infidelity. In 1963 there were 3,538 such charges, followed by 2,638 charges of incompatibility. Violence, drunkenness and desertion were other major complaints.

A divorced wife cannot expect to live on her alimony, Japanese usually settle for a lump sum payment, which in most cases amounts to slightly more than $800, although $27 payments are not unheard of.

Couples who agree to split up find it quicker to skirt Family Court. Both the husband and the wife can do as was done by the husband before the civil laws changed. They can go to their local city or town office and put their seals on an application for divorce, leaving the promises made a private affair, unenforceable by law.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:
We have told you before that many readers say they clean gold jewelry with a solution of ammonia and water.

A gold miner, and others, said that they have good results using dry baking soda and a soft rag.

A rare coin dealer, and many others, use plain old toothpaste and a soft brush.

I tested all three methods and found that one method may work better than the other, depending on the quality of the gold. It seems that the purity of the gold (how much pure gold and other alloys are in the article) determines what cleans it best.

So, if one idea doesn't work to your satisfaction, try another. Just remember, if the article has a thin layer of gold on it, and you rub it a lot, you may rub off the gold and get down to the basic metal.

Of course, if the jewelry is solid gold, or almost pure gold all the way through, they say you can't hurt it by rubbing.

Dear Heloise:
I use a one-pound coffee can for a bathroom bowl brush holder.

First I cover the can with foil, pretty wallpaper or paint, and put a folded paper towel inside on the bottom. Then I cut slits crosswise (X) in the middle of the plastic lid, and slip it over the handle down to the brush. When the brush is put in the can the lid can be snapped on and it's almost airtight. It makes a clean and odorless holder that is replaceable any time.

Dear Heloise:
This is for my fellow junk collectors...

Are your cellars, attics and garages full? Are you tired of hunting through boxes?

Buy some large, heavy plastic drawstring bags, and start sorting. Put up a row of cup hooks wherever you have space for these bags to hang. Sort and divide your things such as artificial flowers, clothing remnants, games, odds and ends, and put them in the bags. Then HANG them up.

Everything can be seen at a glance and the needed items removed easily.

Not only saves time, but makes a neater basement, attic or garage.

Dear Heloise:
We don't have a dryer so I have to hang the laundry outside to dry.

Naturally, the lines have to be wiped before each use.

Dear Heloise:
I clipped a small plastic bag to the outside of my clothespin bag and carry my damp, line-wiper rag in it.

This keeps the rag in easy reach and it doesn't get in the way when I reach for clothespins. Neither does my clothespin bag get wet.

So I clipped a small plastic bag to the outside of my clothespin bag and carry my damp, line-wiper rag in it.

Dear Heloise:
Do you iron your dish towels? I want to know...

I have a bet with my husband that you don't.

Dear Heloise:
I hope to smoke a pickle, I don't. So you won the bet!

I consider that ironing dish towels is a waste of time.

If you don't have a dryer, pin your dish towels on your line and pick up your garden hose and turn it on strong spray, wetting them thoroughly. Give your sheets and other flat work the same treatment.

The water will remove nearly every wrinkle. When dry, fold them as you remove them from the line.

Who is going to know? And who would care if they did?

I do NOT believe in wasting energy in ironing dish towels.

Now... go kiss that husband.

Dear Heloise:
To give my window shades a lift, I bought colored fringe by the yard and sewed it across the bottom of the shades where the sticks are inserted.

Remove stick, sew fringe on, then just reinsert stick.

I also sewed matching fringe around the top and bottom border of my lamp shades.

It certainly gave the room a much needed change.

Dear Heloise:
The day after a recent party I discovered that my beautiful cherrywood table had quite a lot of candle wax on it.

Rather desperate, I tried rubbing it gently with a piece of nylon net and was relieved to find that it cleaned that wax off.

And the net didn't scratch my table at all.

Dear Heloise:
When knitting, try using regular bobby pins as markers.

These are always available and easy to take off your knitted piece without removing the needles or tearing the yarn.

Hook the bobby pins through the stitch and let it dangle. It won't come off until you take it off.

Dear Heloise:
Being an indulgent grandmother, I let my granddaughters use my hand lotion each time they wash their hands.

I've had to be ingenious to keep ahead of them, so I put hand lotion in empty roll-on deodorant bottles.

The dolls can roll it on with no spills, and the lotion lasts longer.

Dear Heloise:
The ceremony took place Saturday, Sept. 9 at 4 p.m. in Waterloo Methodist Church, Waterloo, N. J. The Rev. Charles Harder officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. Ganzhorn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ganzhorn of Los Angeles, Calif. A reception was given at Perona Farms, Andover, N. J.

Mrs. David Hoffman of Kingston was matron of honor. William A. Anderson, 2nd, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Bruce Bella of Linden, N. J. and David Hoffman, Kingston.

Mrs. Ganzhorn wore a street length Mexican wedding dress of white crepe with long sleeves edged with Alencon lace, and a short mantilla edged with lace. Mrs. Ganzhorn designed her dress. She carried a single long stemmed white butterfly rose.

Mrs. Hoffman's dress with a yellow linen sheath. She wore yellow velvet leaves in her hair and carried a nosegay of yellow roses, daisies and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ganzhorn will reside in Los Angeles, Calif.

82nd Birthday Fete

So I clipped a small plastic bag to the outside of my clothespin bag and carry my damp, line-wiper rag in it.

White House Wedding for Lynda

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — When a man with marriageable daughters becomes president of the United States the romantics of the world turn into dedicated beau-watchers. But for more than half a century they have hoped in vain for a White House wedding.

The Johnson girls, though, are changing all that.

Luci Baines at 18 got married to Patrick J. Nugent in August, 1966, in a Roman Catholic church. But the reception was held in the White House.

Now Lynda Bird Johnson's plans for a December wedding at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. should make the most diehard romantics happy.

When Lynda Bird, 23, weds Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, 28, she will be the seventh daughter of a president to marry in the White House.

You have to go back to May, 1914, for No. 6. She was Eleanor Roosevelt, the witty, uninhibited, 22-year-old daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. On Feb. 17, 1906, she married Nicholas Longworth, balding 36-year-old Congressman from Ohio.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:
We have told you before that many readers say they clean gold jewelry with a solution of ammonia and water.

A gold miner, and others, said that they have good results using dry baking soda and a soft rag.

A rare coin dealer, and many others, use plain old toothpaste and a soft brush.

I tested all three methods and found that one method may work better than the other, depending on the quality of the gold. It seems that the purity of the gold (how much pure gold and other alloys are in the article) determines what cleans it best.

So, if one idea doesn't work to your satisfaction, try another. Just remember, if the article has a thin layer of gold on it, and you rub it a lot, you may rub off the gold and get down to the basic metal.

Of course, if the jewelry is solid gold, or almost pure gold all the way through, they say you can't hurt it by rubbing.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I use a one-pound coffee can for a bathroom bowl brush holder.

First I cover the can with foil, pretty wallpaper or paint, and put a folded paper towel inside on the bottom. Then I cut slits crosswise (X) in the middle of the plastic lid, and slip it over the handle down to the brush. When the brush is put in the can the lid can be snapped on and it's almost airtight.

It makes a clean and odorless holder that is replaceable any time.

T.G.

Dear Heloise:
This is for my fellow junk collectors... Are your cellars, attics and garages full? Are you tired of hunting through boxes?

Buy some large, heavy plastic drawstring bags, and start sorting. Put up a row of cup hooks wherever you have space for these bags to hang. Sort and divide your things such as artificial flowers, clothing remnants, games, odds and ends, and put them in the bags. Then HANG them up.

Everything can be seen at a glance and the needed items removed easily. Not only saves time, but makes a neater basement, attic or garage.

Norma

Dear Heloise:
We don't have a dryer so I have to hang the laundry outside to dry.

Naturally, the lines have to be wiped before each use.

Marriage Vows Are Taken by Former Resident

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Anderson of Stanhope, N. J., former Port Jervis residents, announce the marriage of their daughter Augusta Jane, to Thomas J. Ganzhorn of Los Angeles, Calif.

The ceremony took place Saturday, Sept. 9 at 4 p.m. in Waterloo Methodist Church, Waterloo, N. J. The Rev. Charles Harder officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. Ganzhorn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ganzhorn of Los Angeles, Calif. A reception was given at Perona Farms, Andover, N. J.

Mrs. David Hoffman of Kingston was matron of honor. William A. Anderson, 2nd, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Bruce Bell of Linden, N. J. and David Hoffman, Kingston.

Mrs. Ganzhorn wore a street length Mexican wedding dress of white crepe with long sleeves edged with Alencon lace, and a short mantilla edged with lace. Mrs. Ganzhorn designed her dress. She carried a single long stemmed white butterfly rose.

Mrs. Hoffman's dress with a yellow linen sheath. She wore yellow velvet leaves in her hair and carried a nosegay of yellow roses, daisies and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ganzhorn will reside in Los Angeles, Calif.

82nd Birthday Fete

A surprise birthday party was held Sunday, Sept. 17, in honor of Mrs. Jennie Lowe, 128 Newkirk Avenue, Kingston, who will celebrate her 82nd birthday Sept. 21.

Approximately 50 relatives and friends attended the roast beef dinner which was given at Guido's Restaurant, East Chester Street By-Pass, this city.

Dear Heloise:

Do you iron your dish towels? I want to know... I have a bet with my husband that you don't.

Gambler

Dear Gambler:

I hope to smoke a pickle, I don't. So you won the bet! I consider that ironing dish towels is a waste of time.

If you don't have a dryer, pin your dish towels on your line and pick up your garden hose and turn it on strong spray, wetting them thoroughly. Give your sheets and other flat work the same treatment.

The water will remove nearly every wrinkle. When dry, fold them as you remove them from the line.

Who is going to know? And who would care if they did?

I do NOT believe in wasting energy in ironing dish towels. Now... go kiss that husband.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To give my window shades a lift, I bought colored fringe by the yard and sewed it across the bottom of the shades where the sticks are inserted.

Remove stick, sew fringe on, then just reinsert stick. I also sewed matching fringe around the top and bottom border of my lamp shades.

It certainly gave the room a much needed change.

Melba Ruffatto

Dear Heloise:

The day after a recent party I discovered that my beautiful cherrywood table had quite a lot of candle wax on it.

Rather desperate, I tried rubbing it gently with a piece of nylon net and was relieved to find that it cleaned that wax off.

And the net didn't scratch my table at all.

V. S. Cunningham

Dear Heloise:

When knitting, try using regular bobby pins as markers. These are always available and easy to take off your knitted piece without removing the needles or tearing the yarn.

Hook the bobby pins through the stitch and let it dangle. It won't come off until you take it off.

M. G.

Dear Heloise:

Being an indulgent grandmother, I let my granddaughters use my hand lotion each time they wash their hands.

I've had to be ingenious to keep ahead of them, so I put hand lotion in empty roll-on deodorant bottles.

The dolls can roll it on with no spills, and the lotion lasts longer.

E. Hoyt Celebrates His 93rd Birthday

Approximately 50 people "dropped in" to extend congratulations to Eugene Hoyt of Bearsville on the occasion of his 93rd birthday Sunday.

Hoyt, a retired carpenter, makes his home at the Sahler residence in Bearsville, where an "open house" was held by Mrs. Amy Ball and Mrs. Linda Sahler.

Congratulatory cards received by the 93-year-old man numbered over 75. He was also the recipient of several gifts and two large decorated cakes.

Eugene Hoyt is an active member of the Methodist Church of Shady and also a member of the Official Board of the church. For many years he has been active in the Odd Fellows Lodge at Bearsville.

White House Wedding for Lynda

AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — When a man with marriageable daughters becomes president of the United States the romantics of the world turn into dedicated beau-watchers. But for more than half a century they have hoped in vain for a White House wedding.

The Johnson girls, though, are changing all that.

Luci Baines at 18 got married to Patrick J. Nugent in August, 1966, in a Roman Catholic church. But the reception was held in the White House.

Now Lynda Bird Johnson's plans for a December wedding at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. should make the most diehard romantics happy.

When Lynda Bird, 23, weds Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, 28, she will be the seventh daughter of a president to marry in the White House.

You have to go back to May, 1914, for No. 6. She was Eleanor Roosevelt, the witty, uninhibited, 22-year-old daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. On Feb. 17, 1906, she married Nicholas Longworth, balding 36-year-old Congressman from Ohio.

In contrast with her sister's ury William McAdoo in a quiet Blue Room ceremony. Only a few friends and relatives were invited because of the illness of simple nuptials, Jessie Woodrow Wilson's wedding in November, 1913, was an elegant affair.

The ceremony uniting Miss Wilson and Francis B. Sayre was held in the larger East Room, attended by droves of diplomats and dignitaries, while

The Marine Band played in the foyer.

The most glittering White House wedding starred Alice Roosevelt, the witty, uninhibited, 22-year-old daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. On Feb. 17, 1906, she married Nicholas Longworth, balding 36-year-old Congressman from Ohio.

The Doctor Says

STRETCH GARMENTS CAUSE THE NEWEST SKIN DISEASE

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

The latest skin disease, recently described by two California dermatologists, is stretch garment dermatitis. It is seen as a red scaly rash in both men and women and it is caused by a combination of friction and pressure from stretch clothes that are too tight. If you have it, it may be proof that you are keeping up with all the latest trends, no matter how absurd. If you want to get rid of it or prevent it, you will have to adopt a more conventional mode of dress.

The prime offenders are stretch bras, girdles and socks. Stretch trousers (slacks or runners-up). The worst cases are seen when this dermatitis is superimposed on an already existing skin disease, such as psoriasis or eczema. The hardest patients to treat are the teen-agers who would rather fight than switch.

Q—What is the difference between multiple myeloma and malignant melanoma?

A—The cause of both these unrelated diseases is unknown. In multiple myeloma malignant tumors form in the bone marrow of the ribs, vertebral column, collar bone and skull. This results in severe pain, anemia and collapse of the bones. Malignant melanoma is a severe form of skin cancer. Although much can be done to relieve the suffering of victims of both diseases, there is no cure.

What would make my mouth crack in the corners?

A—The most likely causes include a deficiency of vitamin B-2 (riboflavin) or niacin, sensitivity to cosmetics, exposure to wind, cold or sun or a disease called perleche caused by the fungus.

Q—Is there anything that will relieve a dry mouth? What causes it?

A—Belladonna and certain other drugs may cause dry mouth. Other causes are mouth breathing and nervous tension. For relief remove the cause if possible. Make sure you are drinking enough water throughout the day. Chewing gum, sucking hard mints or swishing your mouth with a little olive oil may give some relief.

Should all dark brown moles be removed even when there is no irritation or sign of malignant change?

A—The vast majority of brown moles are benign and should not be removed unless they are growing larger or are subject to constant irritation by your clothing.

YWCA Bridge Classes

The YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, will offer beginner and refresher bridge classes. One refresher class, for the afternoon, begins Sept. 21 from 12:30-2:30 p. m.

The refresher class for evenings begins Sept. 21 from 7:30-9:30 p. m. A beginner class has started in the afternoon from 12:30-2:30 p. m. These six week courses are taught by Mrs. Robert Hogan, who uses the Goren system. Baby sitting can be provided upon request. Both men and women are welcome to attend.

There is a fee for the class plus membership in the YWCA for women. Duplicate bridge for novice players meets every Monday at 11 a. m. A small fee is charged but membership is not required.

Minnesota and Boston Share Lead in American League

Red Sox Nip Tigers, 4-2, In Ninth

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Dave Boswell and Earl Wilson took a short walk on the wild side. Boswell found his way back to Easy Street but Wilson ran into a dead end.

Boswell overcame a severe backache and early control problems Tuesday night and finished with a brilliant two-hitter as the Minnesota Twins held a share of the American League lead by pounding Kansas City 8-2.

The victory kept the Twins tied for first place with the Boston Red Sox, who scored the winning run on a bases-loaded wild pitch by Wilson. Detroit's 21-game winner, during a three-run ninth-inning spurt that caged the Tigers 4-2.

Detroit fell into the fourth spot in the hectic stretch race, one game behind the leaders and one-half length back of the Chicago White Sox, who blanked California 3-0 on Joe Horlen's six-hitter.

Baltimore shut out the New York Yankees 3-0 and Cleveland zipped Washington 2-0 in other AL games.

Boswell's 14th Win

Boswell, a rangy, 22-year-old fireballer, breezed to his 14th victory after being hurt by five walks, two wild pitches and a hit batsman in the first four innings. He struck out eight and retired 16 of the last 17 batters he faced.

The Twins, breaking out of a week-long hitting slump, tagged Jim Nash for four runs in the early innings, then struck for four unearned runs in the seventh after Sal Bando's error opened the gates.

The Red Sox were down 2-1 on the scoreboard at Detroit when Jerry Adair reached southpaw Mickey Lolich for a leadoff single in the ninth. Carl Yastrzemski drew a walk and George Scott tied the score with a single to center.

Lolich, who had allowed only four hits while striking out 13 through the eighth, then was replaced by Wilson, making his first relief appearance of the year.

Northrup Homers

After Reggie Smith sacrificed, Wilson walked pinch hitter Dalon Jones intentionally, filling the bases. The Detroit ace then wild-pitched the go-ahead run home and the Red Sox added an insurance tally on Russ Gibson's sacrifice fly.

Jim Northrup's two-run homer in the sixth had given the Tigers their one-run edge. Horlen stranded Jim Fregosi after the California shortstop tripled with one out in the first inning, then limited the Angels to five singles on the way to his fifth shutout and 18th victory of the year.

The slim right-hander, who keyed the Sox' stretch drive with a no-hitter against Detroit 10 days ago, also singled to touch off a three-run flurry in the sixth against loser Jim McGlothlin. Tom McCraw's triple and singles by Tommie Agee and Ken Boyer delivered the runs and Horlen made them stand up.

The McCormick Saga: Eleven Years Later

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are champions of the National League but the consolation prize for reclamation project of the year goes to Mike McCormick of the San Francisco Giants. McCormick became the league's first 20-game winner Tuesday when the Giants rallied for five ninth-inning runs and a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Jack Hiatt's two-run pinch double keyed San Francisco's ninth-inning uprising and helped McCormick reach the 20-victory mark for the first time.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, New York dropped Los Angeles 6-3, St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 1-0, Cincinnati trimmed Atlanta 3-1 and Pittsburgh rallied for an 11-7 victory over Houston.

Took 11 Years

It took 11 years and three trades before McCormick finally paid off on the investment the Giants made on him back in 1956 when they signed him as a 17-year-old bonus baby.

He was traded to Baltimore in 1963 and to Washington in 1965 before returning to San Francisco in an unheralded three-player swap last winter. He's been anything but unheralded for the Giants though.

"Breaks," he said, "that's the big thing in this game. I can look back and honestly say I pitched as well in 1960 and 1961 as I did this year. But I won 15 one year and 13 another."

He got the breaks Tuesday. Trailing 2-1 against Ferguson Jenkins after eight innings, McCormick departed for a pinch hitter as the Giants rallied in the ninth. He was the pitcher of record when the runs scored and thus received credit for the victory.

Jim Davenport's pinch single drove in the Giants' tying run and after Hiatt's hit broke the deadlock, singles by Ollie Brown and Jim Hart drove in two more runs.

Rookie Bob Heise doubled two runs across and then scored a tie-breaker on Tommy Davis' hit as the Mets rallied for three runs in the fifth inning and went on to defeat Los Angeles.

Mets Set Record
Les Rohr, another rookie, went six innings to gain the victory and helped the Mets tie one record and break another. He was their 54th player this season—most ever for a NL club—and the 27th pitcher—tying a major league mark.

Dick Hughes won his 15th for the champion Cardinals, outpitching Jim Bunning with a five-hitter. Ed Spiezio's first-inning single scored Bobby Tolan with the game's only run.

Bunning, 16-14, struck out seven, raising his league-leading total to 234.

Notre Dame over California: The way some people talk you would think that quarterback Terry Hanratty and end Jim Seymour were the only two football players on the Notre Dame team. The truth is, there are several others.

Texas over Southern California: The Longhorns have a horde of young running backs plus Bill Bradley at quarterback. The Trojans' No. 1 field general, Toby Page, was severely shaken up last weekend and may not be at his best.

Alabama over Florida State: The Crimson Tide's defense supposedly is so strong it will need only a field goal for Coach Bear Bryant's team to pick up another victory.

Penn State over Navy: Jack Curry and Ted Kwalick give Penn State the East's best pair of ends. Navy counters with Rob Taylor, all-East as a pass receiver a year ago.

UCLA over Pitt: The Californians won, 57-14, last year but Pitt has improved.

Miami over Northwestern: The Hurricanes have added an offense to go with their potent defense of the past. It is centered around Jim Cox, end; Bill Miller, quarterback; and Jerry Daanen, a flanker.

Illinois over Florida: The Big Ten team seeks to redeem its prestige after the scandal of last winter that cost it its coaching staff.

Michigan State over Houston: The Spartans will win but Warren McVea will give them a workout.

Georgia over Mississippi State: Georgia's entire starting backfield, returns intact. Mississippi State relying heavily on sophomores.

Purdue over Texas A&M: The Boilermakers have their powerful defensive platoon back and claim their new quarterback, Mike Engelbrecht, is faster, stronger, and a better thrower than Bob Griese.

Georgia Tech over Vanderbilt: Two brand new coaches in this one but Bill Pace at Vanderbilt didn't inherit any horses while Bud Carson at Tech did.

Washington over Wisconsin: The Huskies got all the kinks out of their system in last Saturday's encounter with Nebraska.

The New Unitas Emerged in Atlanta Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta game was something special to John Unitas. A year ago he came out of Atlanta with a damaged right shoulder that threatened to end his career.

The rest of the season was an agony of pain and interceptions because John couldn't put the speed on his short passes in tight situations.

Unitas tried something different this year. In preseason camp of the Baltimore Colts he bled his arm, warming up only once a day and cutting down on the number of passes he threw. In the preseason games he saw limited action.

Last Sunday was opening day in the National Football League. Unitas and the Colts faced Atlanta at Memorial Stadium. They were asking the question: Is Unitas sound?

The veteran quarterback provided the answer by completing 22 of 32 passes for two touchdowns and 401 yards, his very first 400-plus game in 12 years of pro ball.

Rated Top Performance

"I think this was John's all-time best passing performance," said Coach Don Shula of the Colts.

"John throws the ball more arm and all, just as well as he always did," commented ex-teammate Alex Hawkins, now an Atlanta flanker. "You have to appreciate how much he did when you consider he doesn't have a running back going for him. We knew he was going to pass but we still couldn't stop him."

With testimonials like that, the Associated Press couldn't go wrong in naming Unitas the NFL Offensive Player of the Week.

Unitas hit Tom Matte over the middle on the first 1967 play from scrimmage for an 88-yard touchdown pass. Later he threw a 55-yard TD pass to Jimmy Orr and completed four straight for 51 yards in a clinching fourth quarter TD drive in a 38-31 victory.

Vikings Set Special Night

The Hudson Valley Vikings of the North Atlantic Football League will hold Pop Warner League night Sept. 29, when they return to the Orange County Fair Stadium to meet the Connecticut Rockets.

It was also announced that the Sept. 29 game will be father-child night. Any one under 15 who attends the game accompanied by his or her dad, will be admitted for 50 cents.

A Viking official, in announcing Pop Warner League night, said that each youngster who attends, accompanied by a parent, need only wear his uniform for free admission.

The Vikings, 3-0 and in first place in the NAFL, haven't played at home since Aug. 8, when they beat the New Hampshire Colts. The Vikings are 5-0 overall and have met every team in the NAFL except the New Britain Bees, their opponent this Saturday night.

Ellenville Squad Has 14 Lettermen

With 14 lettermen, three transfer students from Tri-Valley and some promising newcomers, Ellenville Central football coach Dave Frank is optimistic the Blue Devils will better their 2-4 record of last season.

Frank lists halfbacks Tom Murray, Stanley Skolnick; tackle John Omoro and guard Gary Sinick as his four top returning lettermen.

Promising prospects include tackle Al Koplik; end Tom Woodhouse; defensive guard Randy Quick and offensive center Tino LaMaestra.

Ellenville opens its season Saturday at Jeffersonville. The Devils play an eight-game non-league schedule as they begin their fifth year of 11-man football at the school.

Delahant Cup To Dr. Isabella

Dr. Hugo Isabella finished birdie-birdie-eagle to win the Eastern New York Golf Association's annual Ray Delahant Memorial Trophy with a 1-under-par 70 Tuesday at Troy Country Club.

Dr. Isabella eagled the par-4, 350-yard 18th hole with a drive and wedge shot. He finished three shots ahead of Peter Famiano of Antlers and Mike Bazilik of Hoosick Falls. A field of 140 competed in the final tourney of the year.

Tom Kane of Normanside and John Dennis of Wolferts Roost tied with 79's for low gross honors in Class B. The Class C leader was Dr. Frank Devane of Burden Lake with 81.

No Wiltwyck Country Club players competed in the final event.

Mrs. Coupe Wins

Mrs. Douglas Coupe of Schuylers Meadows carded an 81 Tuesday to win the weekly Northeastern Women's Golf Association tournament at Canajoharie. She finished seven strokes ahead of runnerup Mrs. Eleanor Vanderbeck of Antlers.

Minnesota and Boston Share Lead in American League

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave Boswell and Earl Wilson took a short walk on the wild side. Boswell found his way back to Easy Street but Wilson ran into a dead end.

Boswell overcame a severe backache and early control problems Tuesday night and finished with a brilliant two-hitter as the Minnesota Twins held a share of the American League lead by pounding Kansas City 8-2.

The victory kept the Twins tied for first place with the Boston Red Sox, who scored the winning run on a bases-loaded wild pitch by Wilson. Detroit's 21-game winner, during a three-run ninth-inning spurt that caged the Tigers 4-2.

Detroit fell into the fourth spot in the hectic stretch race, one game behind the leaders and one-half length back of the Chicago White Sox, who blanked California 3-0 on Joe Horien's six-hitter.

Baltimore shut out the New York Yankees 3-0 and Cleveland zipped Washington 2-0 in other AL games.

Boswell's 14th Win
Boswell, a rangy, 22-year-old fireballer, breezed to his 14th victory after being hurt by five walks, two wild pitches and a hit batsman in the first four innings. He struck out eight and retired 16 of the last 17 batters he faced.

The Twins, breaking out of a week-long hitting slump, tagged Jim Nash for four runs in the early innings, then struck for four unearned runs in the seventh after Sal Bando's error opened the gates.

The Red Sox were down 2-1 on the scoreboard at Detroit when Jerry Adair reached southpaw Mickey Lolich for a leadoff single in the ninth. Carl Yastrzemski drew a walk and George Scott tied the score with a single to center.

Lolich, who had allowed only four hits while striking out 13 through the eighth, then was replaced by Wilson, making his first relief appearance of the year.

Northrup Homers
After Reggie Smith sacrificed, Wilson walked pinch hitter Dalon Jones intentionally, filling the bases. The Detroit ace then wild-pitched the go-ahead run home and the Red Sox added an insurance tally on Russ Gibson's sacrifice fly.

Jim Northrup's two-run homer in the sixth had given the Tigers their one-run edge.

Horien stranded Jim Fregosi after the California shortstop tripled with one out in the first inning, then limited the Angels to five singles on the way to his fifth shutout and 18th victory of the year.

The slim right-hander, who keyed the Sox' stretch drive with a no-hitter against Detroit 10 days ago, also singled to touch off a three-run flurry in the sixth against loser Jim McGlothlin. Tom McCraw's triple and singles by Tommie Agee and Ken Boyer delivered the runs and Horien made them stand up.

The McCormick Saga: Eleven Years Later

By HAL BOKK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are champions of the National League but the consolation prize for reclamation project of the year goes to Mike McCormick of the San Francisco Giants.

McCormick became the league's first 20-game winner Tuesday when the Giants rallied for five ninth-inning runs and a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Jack Hiatt's two-run pinch double keyed San Francisco's ninth-inning uprising and helped McCormick reach the 20-victory mark for the first time.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, New York dropped Los Angeles 6-3. St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 1-0. Cincinnati trimmed Atlanta 3-1 and Pittsburgh rallied for an 11-7 victory over Houston.

Took 11 Years
It took 11 years and three trades before McCormick finally paid off on the investment the Giants made on him back in 1956 when they signed him as a 17-year-old bonus baby.

He was traded to Baltimore in 1963 and to Washington in 1965 before returning to San Francisco in an unheralded three-player swap last winter. He's been anything but unheralded for the Giants though.

"Breaks," he said, "that's the big thing in this game. I can look back and honestly say I pitched as well in 1960 and 1961 as I did this year. But I won 15 one year and 13 another."

He got the breaks Tuesday. Trailling 2-1 against Ferguson Jenkins after eight innings, McCormick departed for a pinch hitter as the Giants rallied in the ninth. He was the pitcher of record when the runs scored and thus received credit for the victory.

Jim Davenport's pinch single drove in the Giants' tying run and after Hiatt's hit broke the deadlock, singles by Ollie Brown and Jim Hart drove in two more runs.

Rookie Bob Heise doubled two runs across and then scored a tie-breaker on Tommy Davis' hit as the Mets rallied for three runs in the fifth inning and went on to defeat Los Angeles.

Mets Set Record
Les Rohr, another rookie, went six innings to gain the victory and helped the Mets tie one record and break another. He was their 54th player this season—most ever for a NL club—and the 27th pitcher—tying a major league mark.

Dick Hughes won his 15th for the champion Cardinals, outpitching Jim Bunning with a five-hitter. Ed Spiezio's first-inning single scored Bobby Tolan with the game's only run.

Bunning, 16-14, struck out seven, raising his league-leading total to 234.

Irish and Spartans Picked in Openers

NEW YORK (AP) — Newest addition to the dress of a football forecaster is a chest protector.

That is to help keep the buttons from flying off one's vest because of an opening week with a 26-5 record for .840. May there be more of them through the season:

Notre Dame over California: The way some people talk you would think that quarterback Terry Hanratty and end Jim Seymour were the only two football players on the Notre Dame team. The truth is, there are several others.

Texas over Southern California: The Longhorns have a horde of young running backs plus Bill Bradley at quarterback. The Trojans' No. 1 field general, Toby Page, was severely shaken up last weekend and may not be at his best.

Alabama over Florida State: The Crimson Tide's defense supposedly is so strong it will need only a field goal for Coach Bear Bryant's team to pick up another victory.

Penn State over Navy: Jack Curry and Ted Kwalick give Penn State the East's best pair of ends. Navy counters with Rob Taylor, all-East as a pass receiver a year ago.

UCLA over Pitt: The Californians won 57-14 last year but Pitt has improved.

Miami over Northwestern: The Hurricanes have added an

Lou's Dream Cops Roosevelt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lou's Dream, a 3-year-old son of Tar Heel, got off to a fast start Tuesday night and captured the $5,000 race at Roosevelt Raceway.

Driven by John Edmunds, the high-stepping pacer covered the mile in 2:03 1-5 and returned $11.00. Scotch Duke was a neck back, trailed by third-place Sir Charles Pick.

The event, watched by a crowd of 18,047 fans, highlighted the evening's harness action in New York State.
In the final race at Roosevelt, driver Del Insko scored his 200th victory of the season when he guided Constant Byrd to the wire in a $3,000 race.

In races featured at other tracks:
Saratoga Raceway — Firm Yankee (9.80) edged Mitchum Hanover by a nose and won the $2,000 trot in 2:06 1-5. Rodney Laird was third.
Batavia Downs — Favored New

Annual Turkey Shoot

Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association stages its annual field day turkey shoot Sunday, Oct. 1, at 1 p. m. at the clubhouse grounds in Napanoch.

The events include running deer, 100 yard dinner plates, lucky shoot (shotgun); 200-yard rifle; and trapshoot.

In the Family

BALTIMORE (AP) — When Kauai King won the 1966 Preakness, he became the third generation of his sire line to take the Triple Crown race.

Kauai King's sire, Native Dancer, won the 1953 Preakness and his grandsire, Polynesian, was the winner in 1945.

Roland Has Lead In NFL Rushing

NEW YORK (AP) — Three running backs each gained more than 100 yards last Sunday on the National Football League's opening day but the big surprise had to be Bill (Please Don't Call Me Willie) Asbury of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Johnny Roland, the 1966 rookie of the year, ran for 124 yards at St. Louis in a losing cause. Dan Reeves, a key man on Dallas' champs of the East a year ago, gained 114 yards. That was expected.

Asbury, supposed to be playing second fiddle to Earl Gros with the Steelers, rambled for 107 yards on 12 carries, scored two touchdowns and averaged 8.9 yards per carry.

When Gros suffered a knee injury in training, Asbury got back his old starting job. He doesn't figure on giving it up.

Miami, Oakland Pace AFL in Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Miami and Oakland lead the American Football League offensive and defensive statistics, according to figures released by the league today.

The Dolphins are tops in total offense with 435 yards gained, rushing offense with 202 yards and in pass defense, having allowed 29 yards.

The Raiders lead in total defense, allowing 125 yards, and in rushing defense, allowing 56 yards.

Bob Hope Reviews 30 Years With NBC

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope comments on his 30 years with NBC:

"When I started with the network, General Sarnoff was down in the basement supplying the power with a hand generator. Why, in those days he was still using the enlisted men's washroom."

The sage of North Hollywood doesn't like to reminisce — "that's one of my laws." But he had to pause for a backward look as he passed the three-decade mark with one network. All right, so he did do a radio show in 1936. But it wasn't until 1937 that he came to Hollywood and became NBC's boy.

Hope recalled: "I arrived on Sept. 7, 1937, to make 'The Big Broadcast.' My show was still coming from the East, so I had to cut in a five-minute spot from Hollywood. On a Friday I was playing golf with John Swallow, who was the head of NBC here, and I asked him how big an audience I would have for the show.

"He took a long look at me and said, 'You need an audience? I told him I couldn't play jokes to an empty studio, and so he came up with a solution. Edgar Bergen was on before me and his Chase and Sanborn show was very popular.

"Swallow said when the audience came out of the Bergen show, he would have ropes up to lead them right into my studio. 'So that's what happened. As they started walking in, I shouted, 'Come right in folks, and sit down. I'm going to do a little show for you, but I don't have time to explain it. Just laugh now and figure it out later.' So I played to a half-filled house — only a few dissidents walked out."

Hope cited another memorable show on "Hollywood Parade" with Dick Powell. "It was during a flood and the electricity had gone out," he said. "The studio was lit with auxiliary power so it looked like Bela Lugosi's living room. Obviously the audience wasn't going to be very responsive to my gags; they didn't know whether they'd go home and find an empty lot or a new swimming pool in the back yard."

"So I told my agent, Jimmy Saphier to go out front and laugh it up. Well, he did, but it was an agent's laugh, loaded with ice. After the first three gags I decided it was a losing battle, and I turned around and played to the 50 guys in Al Goodman's orchestra. They laughed it up fine."

Hope often chuckles when people tell him how calm he appears in every situation. "Calm, huh? Let me tell you something," he remarked. "On those early shows I was so nervous I hummed after every line."

Housing Code Parley Due Here Thursday

Charles Pillman, director of workable programs for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York City, will be in Kingston Thursday to confer with city officials on housing code enforcement.

Pillman is expected to meet with George E. Radcliffe, city building inspector, in the morning. According to Pillman, the meeting has been called to firm up the workable program, which is still pending approval in New York, especially the code enforcement part of it.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan is hoping for approval in the near future. He has indicated that the city will then apply for federal grants to implement code enforcement. Poughkeepsie received just such a grant last month for a total of $1.1 million.

Po'keepsie Gets $203,521 for UR Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development approved Tuesday a $203,521 advance to Poughkeepsie, N.Y., to help that city plan its Jefferson Street urban renewal project.

RADIO VETERAN—Martin Black, dean of American radio disc jockeys, died Tuesday in Englewood Hospital after surgery. Black, 64, was creator of the "Make Believe Ballroom" radio program and its theme song known to millions of weekend listeners. He was a 36-year veteran of radio broadcasting. Black is shown in a 1960 file photo. (UPI TELEFILES).

Warn on Drugs—SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — Officials at Bryn Mawr College have told students that if they plan to take drugs, then stay home and don't come to school. "We thought we had no drug problem," said Miss Katherine E. McBride, college president, Tuesday, "but at the end of the college year, we were not so sure some students were not involved."

Letters telling the students to stay off drugs while at school were sent to each of the 790 undergraduates.

Enough Money Alloted To Start Missile Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government already has enough money alloted to begin deployment of the $5 billion missile defense system outlined this week by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

But officials said the decision will probably add about $1 billion to the budget President Johnson will send to Congress next January for the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1968.

The Nike-X defense system is scheduled to be built over five years to ward off any low-scale nuclear attack by Red China in the 1970s.

For the current fiscal year, however, the big defense decision will have no effect on the budget which the administration is already under heavy pressure to cut.

Some members of Congress have demanded cuts in non-defense spending as the price for adoption of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Government sources estimate that up to $700 million is available to the Pentagon to begin the program during the current fiscal year.

In submitting his budget to Congress last January for this fiscal year, President Johnson reserved $375 million for possible production of Nike-X.

He said at the time, however, that no action would be taken immediately to deploy a missile defense and said discussions would be initiated with the Soviet Union on limiting missile deployment.

In the event these discussions prove unsuccessful, Johnson said, "we will reconsider our deployment decision."

To provide for action that might be required when a decision is made, Johnson said, the budget called for $375 million for production of missiles. Officials said several hundred million more is available to the Pentagon from its research funds.

Buffalo Marine Killed in Viet

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old Marine corporal, Richard E. Serwinowski of Buffalo, whose tour of combat duty would have been over in three months, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Serwinowski said Marine authorities informed them their son, who had been in Vietnam for a year, was killed by enemy gunfire last Wednesday.

Serwinowski enlisted in the Marine Corps in February 1966. He was graduated from Lafayette High School.

He leaves two brothers and six sisters besides his parents. The family address is 1610 Main St.

Body in River—BOONVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The body of a 67-year-old man from Utica was found by State Police Tuesday in the Moose River near this community in the southwestern Adirondacks. Troopers said Leo Lamunio, who was reported missing Saturday, apparently drowned while on a fishing trip.

House Narrowly Approves Rat Control Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, by one vote, has tentatively approved a $40-million increase in funds authorized for rat extermination and other state health programs.

If sustained on a vote scheduled for today, the action could partially erase what many members consider a black mark on the House for its rejection in July of the administration's $40-million rat control bill.

The measure adopted 129 to 128 Tuesday as an amendment to a $950 million health bill would increase the funds available for state public health programs by $20 million this year and $20 million next year.

When debate concluded for the night, Republicans were attacking an emergency $58-million hospital aid program included by Democrats in the bill.

Overwhelming passage of the House measure was expected today after action on the two controversial portions.

While funds in the bill are given for the states to use according to their needs, backers of the additional $40 million indicated they hope it would go largely for rat control. Twelve states have included rat control in programs developed under the health act passed initially last year.

The amendment was sponsored by Reps. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Charles M. Mathias, Jr., R-Md., both of whom supported the administration effort in July to set up a new rat control program in the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Queen Launches Namesake Liner

CLYDEBANK, Scotland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II cracked a mug of champagne on the graceful bows of Britain's great new ocean liner today and launched it into the River Clyde with the name millions were waiting to hear—her own, Queen Elizabeth II.

An emotional roar erupted from 30,000 throats as the Cunarder glided down the shipway and set up a huge wave across the river.

"May God bless her and all who sail in her," said the queen. The name of the ship had been kept secret until now. She had been known only as Q4.

'68 Buick. Now we're talking your language.

The new 230-hp., V-8 engine runs on regular gas. It's standard on all Skylark Custom models.

We also refused to limit your choices. Skylark Custom comes in four models, 15 colors and 32 trim combinations. So talk to the man who talks your language, your Buick dealer.

All Buicks have a full line of General Motors safety features as standard equipment. For example, side marker lights and energy-absorbing steering column.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

We changed the Skylark from front to rear, we gave it a whole new look, simply because we believe you want a car like this. In other words, we're talking your language.

We thought you'd like to have a little easier time parking. So we shortened the wheelbase of the two-door Skylark down to 112 inches.

The '68 Buicks are at your Buick-Opel dealer's now. He's ready to talk your language.

Housing Code Parley Due Here Thursday

Charles Pillman, director of workable programs for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York City, will be in Kingston Thursday to confer with city officials on housing code enforcement.

Pillman is expected to meet with George E. Radcliffe, city building inspector, in the morning. According to Pillman, the meeting has been called to firm up the workable program, which is still pending approval in New York, especially the code enforcement part of it.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan is hoping for approval in the near future. He has indicated that the city will then apply for federal grants to implement code enforcement. Poughkeepsie received just such a grant last month for a total of $1.1 million.

Po'keepsie Gets $203,521 for UR Project

Warn on Drugs — SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — Officials at Bryn Mawr College has told students that if they plan to take drugs, then stay home and don't come to school. "We thought we had no drug problem," said Miss Katherine E. McBride, college president, Tuesday, "but at the end of the college year, we were not so sure students were not involved."

Letters telling the students to stay off drugs while at school were sent to each of the 790 undergraduates.

Enough Money Allotted To Start Missile Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government already has enough money allotted to begin deployment of the $5 billion missile defense system outlined this week by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

But officials said the decision will probably add about $1 billion to the budget President Johnson will send to Congress next January for the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1968.

The Nike-X defense system is scheduled to be built over five years to ward off any low-scale nuclear attack by Red China in the 1970s.

For the current fiscal year, however, the big defense decision will have no effect on the budget which the administration is already under heavy pressure to cut.

Some members of Congress have demanded cuts in nondefense spending as the price for adoption of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Government sources estimate that up to $700 million is available to the Pentagon to begin the program during the current fiscal year.

In submitting his budget to Congress last January for this fiscal year, President Johnson reserved $375 million for possible production of Nike-X.

He said at the time, however, that no action would be taken immediately to deploy a missile defense and said discussions would be initiated with the Soviet Union on limiting missile deployment.

"In the event these discussions prove unsuccessful," Johnson said, "we will reconsider our deployment decision."

To provide for action that might be required when a decision is made, Johnson said, the budget called for $375 million for production of missiles. Officials said several hundred million more is available to the Pentagon from its research funds.

House Narrowly Approves Rat Control Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, by one vote, has tentatively approved a $40-million increase in funds authorized for rat extermination and other state health programs.

If sustained on a vote scheduled for today, the action could partially erase what many members consider a black mark on the House for its rejection in July of the administration's $40-million rat control bill.

The measure adopted 129 to 128 Tuesday as an amendment to a $350 million health bill would increase the funds available for state public health programs by $20 million this year and $20 million next year.

When debate concluded for the night, Republicans were attacking an emergency $38-million hospital aid program included by Democrats in the bill.

Overwhelming passage of the House measure was expected today after action on the two controversial portions.

While funds in the bill are given for the states to use according to their needs, backers of the additional $40 million indicated they hope it would go largely for rat control. Twelve states have included rat control in programs developed under the health act passed initially last year.

The amendment was sponsored by Reps. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Charles M. Mathias Jr., R-Md., both of whom supported the administration effort in July to set up a new rat control program in the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Dear Abby

At 73 Has Eye for Beauty

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an old lady of 71, and every time I visit a certain friend of mine her husband goes into raptures over what beautiful legs I have. Everyone says I have nice legs for an old lady, and now that I have been wearing my skirts a little shorter, I suppose they are more conspicuous, but all that talk from Milton about my legs is very embarrassing. Not only that, but he is a camera nut, and is always wanting to take pictures of my legs. I know he reads your column, so will you please tell Milton to act his age. He is 73 and still looking.

NICE LEGS.

DEAR LEGS: Don't be too rough on your elderly friend. If you're truly embarrassed, the next time you visit your friend, make your skirt longer or your visit shorter.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem no one has been able to solve and I hate myself for it. I am a sleeper. I just can't seem to get up in the morning. I have tried taking afternoon naps, but that hasn't helped. I have a wonderful husband who gets the children up, sees that they're properly dressed, makes sure they eat a good breakfast, and get to school on time. He even looks after our little 2-year-old until I get up.

Abby, I really want to get up in the morning like a wife should, but I can't seem to do it. No one can wake me up! I can sleep through anything. I've been to all kinds of doctors, both mental and physical, and they have all turned me loose saying there is nothing wrong with me and they can't help me. If you or any of your readers have any suggestions, I'd be so thankful.

SLEEPYHEAD

DEAR SLEEPYHEAD: If "all kinds of doctors" have been unable to help you, learn to live with your problem and don't feel guilty. You're lucky you weren't sleeping when that wonderful husband of yours came knocking at your door.

DEAR ABBY: People are always asking me, "Where did you buy those shoes? Or that dress? And how much did you pay for it?" I never know how to get out of telling them, so I go ahead and answer their questions as tho I were on a witness stand.

I suppose I could say, "It's none of your business," but I haven't got the nerve, so I find myself telling lots of things I really don't want to tell.

Have you a solution for my problem? I sure many others would like to know the answer.

TIMID

DEAR TIMID: One of the greatest misconceptions of all time is the notion that one must answer a question simply because it has been asked. Some questions are downright rude and presumptuous. (Example, "How much did you pay for it?") in which case the reply should be, "I would rather not say." And the same applies to any other question one does not wish to answer.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridge

Overbids Need Excellent Play

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In Victor Mollo's "Bridge in the Menagerie," Hideous Hog wants to play all dummies. He is typical of a great many players in this respect but this hog at least justifies his hand hogging by playing very well.

Today's hand finds him playing with the Rabbit. The Hog has broken the Rabbit of the habit of bidding no-trump and feels safe in opening with one club. The Rabbit's two spade response produces a two no-trump rebid from the Hog. He plans to raise to four spades if the Rabbit rebids his spade suit but when the Rabbit goes to three hearts the Hog barges right into six no-trump.

We don't quite understand the Rabbit's three heart bid but as Victor explains, no one understands the Rabbit's bid or plays. The Hog is delighted with the dummy and sees that his six no-trump will make if he can collect three spade tricks. He wins the lead and cashes dummy's ace of spades, just in case there is a singleton king somewhere. East shows out and the Hog appears to be down one but at least he has avoided the spade trap. No amount of genius could bring home a spade slam.

Actually the Hog is not too worried about his contract. He runs off four clubs and is pleased to see a diamond and a spade discard from West. Three diamonds come next and on the third diamond West has to discard again. Another spade discard will be fatal so West lets a heart go. The Hog knows now that West has one heart and three spades. He proceeds to cash dummy's remaining top heart and leads a spade to his queen.

West can't afford to duck, nor can he afford to take his king. The Hog shows his hand and chalks up another slam.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

In designing the cosmic scheme, someone goofed when they put mornings so close to bedtime.

What does a fast-growing business do? Mushroom. Of course. Now, let the headline writers try to describe what's happening to the growth rate of the mushroom industry.

Everyone is pulling for that nice nephew of the boss to be named manager of the Madagascar office.

Recall the days when it was always to cold to wear shorts to a football game?

Just about the time you think the nursery can at long last be turned into a den, the eldest daughter and her husband move in with their twins.

Considering all the umbrella-ing and big-hatting some gals go through on the beach, they might as well use shun-tan oil.

They don't roll up the sidewalk in our town at night. No, sir. No one is downtown to roll 'em up.

Progress is wonderful. While you're watching new-season offerings on television, future flops are already in production.

Now is the time to put away the flowerpots which somehow never got used since you took them out last spring.

If the youngsters are harder to get along with than usual, it's not your imagination. It's their imaginations, working on the back-to-school prospect.

From the punishment he takes from his acid-tongued girl friend, it must have been love at first sight for our cousin's boy.

billingsgate (BIL-ingz-gate) foul language
The elderly woman, sitting alone in the park, was shocked to hear the young boys using billingsgate.
The two boys were advised by the head coach that the use of billingsgate to express their feelings was quite immature.
The over-weight nurse, a woman who always resorted to billingsgate when she was angry, was again cursing at a patient.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 21, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): How you manage your assets, money is of utmost importance. Don't feel you can carry every one's burden. First take care of your own responsibilities. Be calm and positive.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Cycle continues high. You are able to take initiative to embark upon new projects. Display independence of thought, action. New contacts add up to gain, profit. Be sparkling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Handle confidential matters. Not wise to depend to superficial information. Check sources. Be self-reliant. Don't be afraid of opposition. Welcome challenge. You're due to win.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be wary of those who make glib promises. Reach out for your own information. Examine and investigate. Social activity tonight should not sway you from basic purpose. Think.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Separate business from pleasure. Temptation is to mix the two elements. Not wise today. Finish one aspect of activity before beginning anew. Know where you stand—and why.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Put various ideas to use. Don't falter where principles are concerned. Your ideals are worthwhile. One who is envious may try to convince you otherwise. Stand fast.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be conservative where money enters picture. Don't force issues. Extend hand of friendship to one close to you. Recent argument should not be permitted to ferment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Affairs of those close to you dominate attention. Could involve mate, partner. See issues as they exist. Be practical and truthful within. Avoid tendency toward wishful thinking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If considerable needs of others the favor will be returned. Day to practice golden rule. It could change tone of your life. You are due for reward. Could be big one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Finish rather than start—get basic issues settled. Then you will be in mood for creative endeavors. Evening favors frank discussion with one close to you. Be forthright.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stress daring, unorthodox approach. You will be well received if you take initiative. Holding back today gives impression of backwardness. Opposition due to melt.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Avoid controversy with kin, neighbors. Some money questions are not as serious as they appear. Realize this—respond accordingly. Sense of humor today works wonders.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are versatile, have fine sense of comedy. Could succeed as director of sales promotion. Fine time for marriage. If married, there could be addition to family. Money situation due to improve.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for TAURUS, GEMINI. Special word to CAPRICORN: romance in spotlight. (Copr. T.M. 1967, Gen. Fea. Corp.)

Bridge

Overbids Need Excellent Play

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In Victor Mollo's "Bridge in the Menagerie," Hideo Hog wants to play all dummies. He is typical of a great many players in this respect but this hog at least justifies his hard hogging by playing very well.

Today's hand finds him playing with the Rabbit. The Hog has broken the Rabbit of the habit of bidding no-trump and feels safe in opening with one club. The Rabbit's two spade response produces a two no-trump rebid from the Hog. He plans to raise to four spades if the Rabbit rebids his spade suit but when the Rabbit goes to three hearts the Hog barges right into six no-trump.

We don't quite understand the Rabbit's three heart bid but as Victor explains, no one understands the Rabbit's bid or plays.

The Hog is delighted with the dummy and sees that his six no-trump will make if he can collect three spade tricks. He wins the heart lead and cashes dummy's ace of spades, just in case there is a singleton king somewhere. East shows out and the Hog appears to be down one but at least he has avoided the spade trap. No amount of genius could bring home a spade slam.

Actually the Hog is not too worried about his contract. He runs off four clubs and is pleased to see a diamond and a

In designing the cosmic scheme, someone goofed when they put mornings so close to bedtime.

What does a fast-growing business do? Mushroom, of course. Now, let the headline writers try to describe what's happening to the growth rate of the mushroom industry.

Everyone is pulling for that nice nephew of the boss to be named manager of the Madagascascar office.

The fellow who tells you his wife is a dear, old gal isn't necessarily deeply in love. He may mean she's expensive, though aging.

Recall the days when it was always to wear shorts to a football game?

Just about the time you think the nursery can at long last be turned into a den, the eldest daughter and her husband move in with their twins.

Considering all the umbrella-ing and big-hatting some gals go through on the beach, they might as well use shun-tan oil.

They don't roll up the sidewalks in our town at night. No, sir. No one is downtown to roll 'em up.

Progress is wonderful. While you're watching new-season offerings on television, future flops are already in production.

Now is the time to put away the flowerpots which somehow never got used since you took them out last spring.

If the youngsters are harder to get along with than usual, it's not your imagination. It's their imaginations, working on the back-to-school prospect.

From the punishment he takes from his acid-tongued girl friend, it must have been love at first sight for our cousin's boy.

'Voyage' Satire Overdue

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TELEVISION-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack

Webb, an actor who neither sings nor dances but does have a television series on NBC was a guest on Tuesday night's

"Jerry Lewis Show," also on NBC.

So what did he do? He was in a little sketch satirizing his program, "Dragnet."

David Hedison, an actor who neither sings nor dances but does have a television series on

ABC, was a guest on Tuesday night's "Hollywood Palace," also on ABC.

So what did he do? He was in a little sketch which satirized

Bottom of the Sea."

Almost Ritual Now

Television usually runs into its stormiest weather when it attempts satire, but always seems

tainment programs to commercials—its best and easiest target. But by now it has become almost a ritual to use TV stars to kid their own product.

It was, as a matter of fact, about time somebody poked a little fun at "Voyage to the Bot-

ster-of-the-week, "Hollywood

Palace's" monster, Rock Man, was not really more ridiculous

in the adventure series.

Milton Berle was host on the "Palace" variety show, moved this season to a new night and time spot. The program, essentially a vaudeville show, has its own style and is in no way a carbon of the Ed Sullivan hour.

Lena Horne, who sang two songs, was given a glittering background, and one production number with Neile Adams dancing with the chorus boys had polish and class.

NBC's "I Dream of Jeannie" introduced a new character

Tuesday, Jeannie's sister-Barbara Eden in a black wig who is a mean, selfish genie, unlike

genie.

The series now is in its third season, suggesting that it must have a devoted following. But it is hard to get involved in the program since all the humor is pegged on special effects and camera tricks. It is not terribly funny, for instance, to see a young astronaut puzzling his superior officer when in a twin-

County Life Panel

Ulster County, what it is, and what it needs, will be examined through a series of three panel discussions in a conference sponsored by the Ulster County Planning Board and the State University College at New Paltz.

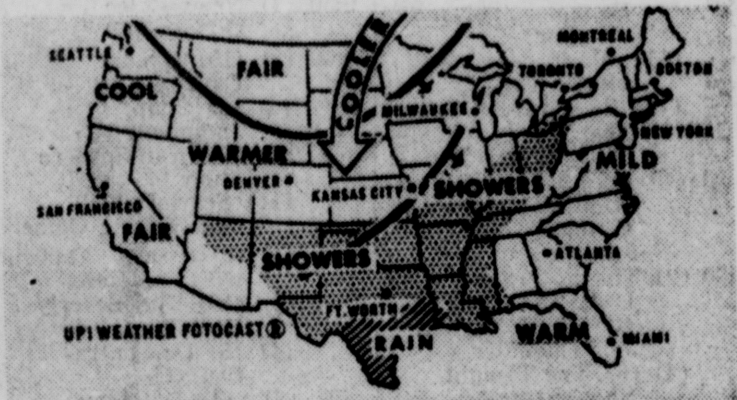

The conference, to be held at the University's Fine Arts Building on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., will be titled Amenities and Our Environment and will feature C. David Loeks, president of Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress, heading a panel on What Do We Have?; Calvin A. Stillman, conservationist, chairing a How Do We Get It, talk group; and Alexander Aldrich, executive director of the Hudson River Valley Commission, will lead his panel in a discussion of How Do We Get There.

The conference will start with a 9 a. m. registration and will continue on through two coffee breaks and a buffet luncheon until the wrap-up talk on Where Do We Go From Here, which starts at 3:45 p. m.

Attending will be 30 or 40 service organizations, each working on some aspect of county life, according to Benjamin L. Webster, chairman of the planning board. This would include chambers of commerce, conservationists, garden clubs, naturalists, and educational organizations such as the League of Women Voters.

Chairman Webster would like to see the formation of a consortium between these groups, an "informal central point of mutual exchange of information."

Webster says that the conference may result in this formation which would be "a communications center."

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Thursday
Showers and thunderstorms are forecast from the lower Mississippi Valley through the Ohio Valley and from the Southern Plains through the Southern Plateau region. Rain is expected to spread inland along the Texas coast. It will be cooler in the Northern Plains while warmer temperatures are expected for the central Rockies, the Great Basin areas and in central California. Minimum temperatures: Atlanta 65; Boston 57; Chicago 61; Cleveland 66; Denver 43; Detroit 62; Duluth 43; Ft. Worth 70; Jacksonville 70; Kansas City 50; Little Rock 68; Los Angeles 64; Miami 76; New Orleans 76; New York 62; Phoenix 68; San Francisco 64; Seattle 55; St. Louis 60 and Washington 65.

Rocky Sees '72 Finish

State 'Pure Waters' Progressing

NEW YORK (AP) — Wielding a "carrot and a stick," the state is cleaning the polluted waters of the lower Hudson River and—despite the lack of full federal funding—expects to finish the job by 1972, Gov. Rockefeller said today.

The Republican chief executive said the state's Pure Waters program has "achieved dramatic progress" since it was implemented after voters approved a $1 billion bond issue in 1965.

Rockefeller commented in remarks for the U.S. Department of Interior's Hudson River Conference here.

were dumping 757 million gallons of raw or inadequately treated sewage into the river daily.

Under the program, he said, every major polluter along the Lower Hudson drainage basin has been brought under order and has agreed to a timetable covering construction of sewage treatment facilities.

The progress has been achieved by "using both a carrot and a stick," he said. The carrot is state aid to meet construction costs. The stick is enforcement machinery that requires every polluter to plan, finance, build and operate treatment facilities by a specific date.

The state pays 30 per cent. The federal share of 50 per cent and the remaining 40 per cent is borne by the community.

Rockefeller said state specifications — which meet federal requirements — would make communities eligible for 55 per cent federal grants. The federal program, however, has not been funded to the level to provide a maximum 55 per cent grant, he said.

Despite this, he said, the state will meet its timetable and complete the cleansing task by 1972.

County Life Panel

Ulster County, what it is, and what it needs, will be examined through a series of three panel discussions in a conference sponsored by the Ulster County Planning Board and the State University College at New Paltz.

The conference, to be held at the University's Fine Arts Building on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., will be titled "Amenities and Our Environment" and will feature C. David Loeks, president of Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress, heading a panel on "What Do We Have?"; Calvin A. Stillman, conservationist, chairing a "How Do We Get It, talk group"; and Alexander Aldrich, executive director of the Hudson River Valley Commission, will lead his panel in a discussion of "How Do We Get There."

The conference will start with a 9 a. m. registration and will continue on through two coffee breaks and a buffet luncheon until the wrapup talk on "Where Do We Go From Here," which starts at 3:45 p. m.

Attending will be 30 or 40 service organizations, each working on some aspect of county life, according to Benjamin L. Webster, chairman of the planning board. This would include chambers of commerce, conservationists, garden clubs, naturalists, and educational organizations such as the League of Women Voters.

Chairman Webster would like to see the formation of a consortium between these groups, an "informal central point of mutual exchange of information."

Webster says that the conference may result in this formation which would be "a communications center."

State 'Pure Waters' Progressing

NEW YORK (AP) — Wielding a "carrot and a stick," the state is cleaning the polluted waters of the lower Hudson River and—despite the lack of full federal funding—expects to finish the job by 1972, Gov. Rockefeller said today.

The Republican chief executive said the state's Pure Waters program has "achieved dramatic progress" since it was implemented after voters approved a $1 billion bond issue in 1965.

Rockefeller commented in remarks for the U.S. Department of Interior's Hudson River Conference here.

Before the antipollution program was implemented, Rockefeller said, about 100 polluters between Troy and Brooklyn were dumping 757 million gallons of raw or inadequately treated sewage into the river daily.

Under the program, he said, every major polluter along the Lower Hudson drainage basin has been brought under order and has agreed to a timetable covering construction of sewage treatment facilities.

The progress has been achieved by "using both a carrot and a stick," he said. The carrot is state aid to meet construction costs. The stick is enforcement machinery that requires every polluter to plan, finance, build and operate treatment facilities by a specific date.

The state pays 30 per cent, prefines a federal share of 30 per cent and the remaining 40 per cent is borne by the community.

Below Level Rockefeller said state specifications — which meet federal requirements — would make communities eligible for 55 per cent federal grants. The federal program, however, has not been funded to the level to provide a maximum 55 per cent grant, he said.
